WAUKESHA WATER.

Having succeeded in perfecting an arrangement with the proprietor of the best Spring at Waukesha, which will enable us to get the water fresh every week and direct from the Spring, we are now able to supply families with water at very moderate terms and no charge for package or delivery.

Physicians unite in advising their patients and friends not to drink lake water, because it is not pure, and there is no question but the Springs at Waukesha furnish an absolutely pure water, entirely free from organic matter.

Send in your orders. A positive guarantee that it will be always fresh from the Springs.

HARD TO BEAT.

Our Millinery Department

Is the most complete department of its kind in the world, occupying more space than five ordinary Millinery Stores. We have devoted more than 3,000 feet of room to our Untrimmed Millinery alone, and as many goods are required to stock this department as are carried by many wholesale houses. No such variety of goods in the Millinery line can be found in any house. Thousands of Ladies have pronounced our prices lower than they have ever found elsewhere; and we have this season more surprises in the way of prices than ever before. You will find in our stock everything in Fancy Feathers, from Wings at 10c to Birds and Fancy Breasts up to $5.00 each.

IN OSTRICH PLUMES

WE WILL OFFER

SPECIAL BARGAINS THIS WEEK:

1,000 Colored Ostrich Plumes, including all the latest shades, at $1.98 each.

Black Ostrich Plumes at prices ranging from $1.50 to $8.00 each. These are the best goods ever offered for the price.

In FLOWERS we show a large assortment. Violets, 3 dozen in bunch, at 5c per bunch.

HATS

In Straw, Beaver, Felt, Velvet, Plush, etc., etc. Turbans trimmed and untrimmed.

CHILDREN'S HATS A SPECIALTY.

MAGNETIC GIRDLE
FOR MEN.

Are You Nervous, and Lack Vital Energy?

In all diseases of a nervous or muscular type, such as Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Overworked Brain, Exhaustion, or Loss of Vital Energy, Weak Back, Kidney Disease, our Magnetic Belt or Regenerator, is made expressly for the cure of derangements of the procreative organs. Whenever any debility of the generative organs occurs, from whatever cause, the continuous stream of Magnetism permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. There is no mistake about this appliance. Years of use have tested it, and thousands of cures are testified to. Weakness from Indiscretion, Incapacity, Lack of Vigor, Sterility—in fact, any troubles of these organs is cured. Do not confound this with electric belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. This is for the one specific purpose.

Price of Belt, $10. Sent by express upon receipt of price, and, if not found as represented, money refunded. In ordering, send measure of waist. Remittances can be made in currency sent in letter at our risk.

MAGNETON APPLIANCE COMPANY,
218 State-st., Chicago.

(Cork) Insoles: What They Do!

The Magnetic Insoles contain a series of Magnets, scientifically arranged, that form minute batteries, recharging the blood with magnetism, and exerting a tranquilizing influence upon the entire system through the consequent improved circulation.

Insulate the feet from the cold and damp earth, and thus prevent the abstraction of the positive force from the body.

Generate by their magnetic action an agreeable warmth and secure perfect circulation in the feet and lower extremities.

Cure Chilblains and remove all unnatural heat, perspiration, swelling of the feet and ankles.

Prevent, relieve, and, in some cases, cure rheumatism, neuralgia, and kindred diseases.

In all forms of chronic and nervous disease and debility are invaluable.

Are a great conserver and direct promoter of general health, and can be worn at all seasons of the year; being made very thin, take up very little room in the shoe.

One pair of the Magnetic Insoles will demonstrate the truth of these claims. Price, $1.00 per pair.

Fifty thousand men, women, and children of the City of Chicago and the West are wearing them.

The Magnetic Insoles will convince the wearer of the power residing in our other Magnetic Appliances.

Remittances can be made in one-cent postage stamps or currency sent in letter at our risk.

Sent by mail on receipt of price and the size of shoe usually worn, by the Magnetic Appliance Co., 218 State-st., Chicago, Ill., sole manufacturers of the United States.

For full instruction in the new Magnetic Treatment for nervous and chronic diseases send for the "new departure" in healing and physical culture, containing testimonials of the marvelous cures obtained from wearing Magnetic Appliances without the taking of drugs and medicines.

THE

Lyon & Healy PIANOS

Have now become most decided favorites and elicit the highest praise from all. While many costly experiments and the most painstaking care have been lavished on them, yet the reasonable price at which they are sold enables the purchaser to procure a first-class instrument at a very reasonable price. They have been thoroughly tried and tested by the best musical talent, and acknowledged highest authorities—viz.: such eminent artists as

Mme. Rive-King,
Wm. H. Sherwood,
Frederick Boscovitz,
H. Clarence Eddy,
Emil Liebling,
Silas G. Pratt,

All of whom unite in testifying to the fine musical and pure tone which are found in them, as well as to the possession of many superior qualities, which not only place them far ahead of any piano of equal cost, but also on a par with many instruments of the very highest pretensions.

The Lyon & Healy Piano is made to withstand the severest changes of climate, preserving its tone and usefulness, and often remaining in tune for periods of twelve to fifteen months. They have been shipped by us to many parts of this country where a piano-tuner never sets foot, yet they stand in tune for extraordinarily long time, as we learn from the most flattering letters received from the purchasers spontaneously, and without our solicitation. They contain patented improvements of great value that are to be found in no other pianos.

Our new style, a full-sized 7 1-3 octage Upright, is a most elegant instrument.

GRACELAND

CEMETERY CO.'S OFFICE

REMOVED TO

Montauk Block, 115 Monroe-st.

Large additions have recently been made to Graceland, nearly doubling its size, and the new part has been improved at great cost on the Landscape Lawn Plan, and it equals in beauty any of the Parks around Chicago.

The main features of the new part are a beautifully undulating surface, picturesque lakes, fine lawns, smooth roads, a great variety of trees and shrubbery, water-works for sprinkling the grounds, thorough underdrainage, and accessibility by drives and by the street railway and steam dummy.

A large and growing fund in the hands of Trustees — Jerome Beecher, Esq., Treasurer—insures the perpetual maintenance and preservation of Graceland. Several sections have been laid out in the new part, and lots can now be bought there, and other sections will be opened as fast as they may be required.

A SHARPER SKINNED.

A Pennsylvania Gambler's Hard Streak—After Numerous Soft Things He Strikes Two Agriculturists Who Clean Him Out with a Trade Dollar.

Philadelphia Press.

A very simple method by which a "skin" gambler was victimized out of $800 was related yesterday forenoon in the saloon of John Fury, No. 214 Federal street, Camden, where the woe-begone victim landed almost penniless at 12 o'clock in search of consolation and a drink. To gentlemen who sit in front of the green-topped tables nightly and take in greenhorns he is tolerably well known. Rural dupes who have chanced to meet him in New York or Philadelphia know him to their sorrow. His name is Thaddeus Pratt, or more familiarly "Poker Tad."

Philadelphia having proven rather a poor pasture for the last two or three months wherein victims came to gaze, Mr. Pratt fell into rather an impecunious condition. He managed to retain his diamond breastpin, however, and a suit of very elegant clothes of pronounced pattern, but his purse was very flat. He declared repeatedly that Philadelphia was the "meanest town in the country for work," and when his funds reached the low ebb of $17 Mr. Pratt determined to emigrate for some Western clime, where victims grew on roadside bushes. Mr. Pratt took a portion of his $17, or, as he would more elegantly phrase it, "seventeen cases," and betook him to the pool-room of McColgan & Hughes, on Sansom street, above Eighth. He made an investment on a horse race. He bought "Maid of Athol," and walked into Eighth street almost $200 dollars richer.

Mr. Pratt felt jubilant over his luck, and, after taking sundry drinks, he went to the Broad street station and purchased a ticket for Pittsburg. On the trip westward his "luck" ran high. He got into the confidence of a clerical-looking young man at Altoona, and relieved the young man of $90 at a friendly game of poker. In Pittsburg an ancient farmer, who thought he knew more about cards than Mr. Pratt, left his pocketbook with the latter, after learning that four kings were slightly inferior to four aces. The purse contained a trifle over $300. To avoid any unpleasant complications, Mr. Pratt purchased a ticket for Massillon, on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad. In that thriving little town Mr. Pratt was fortunate. He formed the acquaintance of a cigaret-young-man, who, up to the time he met the genial Pratt, was possessed of a very handsome gold watch and chain and $200 in cash. When Mr. Pratt said "ta-ta" and started for the railroad station, bound for Wooster, the cigaret-young-man was watchless and penniless. In Wooster, a sophomore belonging to the University, who knew more about Euclid than he did about the geometrical possibilities of "three card monte," fell an easy victim to the tune of $80—the last remittance from a loving father. These few windfalls gave Mr. Pratt an excellent start, and for a week afterwards he made three or four similar strokes, eventually swelling his capital to about $850. Fort Wayne proving a poor field for successful operations, Mr. Pratt thought he would start East again. He bought a ticket for Toledo, on the Toledo, Wabash & Western Railroad, in order to avoid meeting any of the gentlemen who had swelled his pocketbook, and who might possibly say something rude. After leaving Toledo for Pittsburg without any particular incident, Mr. Pratt thought it about time to look about for a fresh victim. He found one at Altoona, or at least he thought he did. A tall, verdant looking chap, with "greeny" written on every feature, entered the car and seated himself beside Mr. Pratt. "Greeny" immediately opened a channel for acquaintanceship by asking Mr. Pratt what time the train would reach Philadelphia. Mr. Pratt told him, and remarked that the crops were looking beautiful. Mr. Verdant said they were, and added and railroad riding was "pesky bothersome." Mr. Pratt agreed with him, and proposed a friendly game of "keards" to while away the time. Mr. Greeny was willing, and a deck being produced by the gambler, the two began at a game of "Old Sledge." On the second hand Mr. Greeny remarked that if he was playing poker he would go $500 on his hand. Mr. Pratt looked at his own hand and said that he believed that it was worth that too, and backing it up by producing the cash. The victim covered it promptly, and then, throwing down a trade dollar, said, "Just for luck I'll bet that I win your money."

Mr. Pratt at once threw down a silver dollar to take up the challenge. The ring of the metal was a great deal clearer than that shown by Mr. Verdant. It attracted Mr. Pratt's attention. He picked up the coins and examined them. "Let us bet on our hands," said he, impatiently. "That coin of yours is no good.

"Yes it is, said Greeny. "I'm willin' to bet $500 dollars it's good, an' don't you forget it."

Mr. Pratt picked up the dollar and examined it carefully. It was of a dull leaden color, and when thrown down had no "ring" whatever. Mr. Pratt saw a chance for a stake. "I'll bet $500 it's a counterfeit coin, said he, bringing out three $100 bills. "All right," replied Greeny, producing the same amount. "I bet that the coin is good silver, and will leave it to the conductor."

"Agreed," said Mr. Pratt, and the card stakes were added, making the wager $500 each.

The coin was held by the gambler until the conductor came through the car. He was asked to decide the bet. One contemptuous glance was given the coin, without any close examination. "It's the worst I ever saw," said he. "A blind man couldn't get stuck on that."

"Wait a minute," said Greeny, quietly, as Mr. Pratt was about to gather up the stakes. "Just take another look, won't you? Here's a knife—cut into it."

The conductor smiled, but did as requested. What was his astonishment to find that the coin was covered with a thin coating of tinfoil, which had been cleverly pasted on with mucilage. It had been pounded on so neatly as to bring out the figures on each side in dull relief, giving the appearance of being a counterfeit. The foil gave it the dead sound and the appearance of lead.

Mr. Pratt opened his mouth very wide, but gave up the money. "As long as you've beaten me so neatly," he said, "you might give me an insight. How is it done?"

Greeny obligingly showed the trick, and then very kindly offered to give the crestfallen gambler a coin already prepared, so that he might have a chance "to get even."

"A rich old countryman will get on at Harrisburg," said Greeny, "and I'll give you a chance to go for him. I intended to 'catch on' myself, but you seem to be a pretty good sort of fellow and didn't 'squeal,' so you can make all there is in it. Just play the same racket as I did."

Mr. Pratt felt thankful for the chance, and kept his eye on the car door. Sure enough, a burly countryman entered a few moments before the train started, and as Greeny had left his seat the countryman dropped into it. In less than twenty minutes he was holding five cards in his sun-browned fist. Mr. Pratt remarked that his hand was worth just about $1. The big agriculturist, by way of reply, laid down a dollar-note. Mr. Pratt produced his prepared coin. The farmer laughed, and said he wasn't betting against that kind of money. Mr. Pratt became indignant and offered to bet $100 dollars that the dollar was perfectly good. "Wall," said the rural gentleman, "I've got $300 that says it's a rank counterfeit."

Mr. Pratt had his money up in a minute. "We'll leave it to this gentleman back of us, if you say so," said he, and the farmer assenting a man in the rear seat was called up to decide. "It's a counterfeit," said he, just taking one glance. "But," said Mr. Pratt, "won't you please cut into it with this knife?" The gentleman took the knife and applied its edge to the coin. It went through as though the coin was made of old cheese. The coin was lead! "Fury," said the gambler, after relating this dismal experience, "give me a drink—I'll pay you in the morning."

One Car Not Big Enough.

Utica Herald, Sept. 21.

Senator Conkling left for New York at 11:30 a. m. yesterday. At the Central Depot he was met by Collector Armstrong, Postmaster Stevens, and others. When the train arrived ex-Secretary Blaine and his son, who were on their way from Kansas to Maine, were seen in the drawing-room car Sharon. The train was crowded, and the ex-Senator was assigned to a seat near Mr. Blaine in the same car. When he saw his old antagonist he requested the conductor to put him in another car, and a seat was found for him in the Germanic.

Paterson Dispatches.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 23.—One of the most extraordinary storms within the recollection of the present generation has prevailed in and about Paterson the past two days, and today's storm was accompanied by loss of life. The rain fell heavily most of the day, the rain gage showing a total fall of 4.97 inches for the first twenty-four hours up to 9 a. m. today, and two inches had fallen during Friday. Today the rain came down with still greater force, and between 1 and 2 p. m. the rain gage showed a fall of 3.06 inches, making the total for the day 5.92 inches. About 3 p. m. the rain slackened, but still came down steadily during the evening.

THE TOTAL FALL

for the thirty-six hours up to 9 o'clock tonight was fifteen inches. During last night the river rose four and a half feet, and the water began pouring over the falls once more. All day today the river rose steadily, and during the afternoon the water got higher at the rate of eighteen inches per hour, so that tonight it was higher than at any time since which was the highest on record. The Oldham Brook, the principal tributary of the Passaic near Paterson, just above the city, rose with great rapidity, and about 2 p. m. burst through the mill-dam at Oldham. The torrent thus suddenly released rushed furiously down the stream, sweeping all before it, including several bridges and a part of the horse-railroad track. A brick and stone arch bridge erected by the county at a cost of $8,000 ten years ago, and recently repaired at a cost of $8,000 more, on Redwoods avenue, near the city almshouse, was undermined and washed away by the resistless flood.

DR. MYERS,

the city physician, driving up to the institution and to visit the small-pox patients, got to the bridge as the flood was beating savagely against it. He urged his horse over, and had barely reached the other side when he heard behind him a terrific roar, and looking back saw the whole bridge tumbled into the stream and carried down the channel. A massive retaining wall of stone adjoining the bridge to protect the alms-house property from encroachments by the stream also went down with a rush, and in a twinkling the mad torrent was eating its way into the sandbank on which the alms-house rests. At 3:30 the flood had swept away the pump-house connected with the alms-house, and had advanced nearly 100 feet into the bank, and was within forty feet of the foundations of a structure about 100 feet long, forty feet wide, with two projections forty by sixty feet, one story of stone, two of brick, and a mansard roof. The building now shelters 175 paupers and lunatics, and their excitement became frightful as they beheld the insatiable flood advancing steadily toward their home.

THE MAIN BUILDING,

MARTIN ROSSITER,

a gentleman aged about 70 years, lives in a pleasant cottage along the river bank, near the outlet of the Oldham Brook, with his family, and had some fine stock on his farm. About 3 o'clock he tried to drive along the road near the river, when the flood came down with such a sudden rush that before he could get out of its way he was swept into the swift current of the river, and, with horse and wagon, was whirled down and out of sight before any one could extend him a helping hand.

ALL THE CELLARS

cellars along the river below the falls were flooded, and several of the adjacent mills had their lower floors filled with water, to the great damage of their machinery. The shops of the great locomotive works had to shut down on account of the great flood.

TONIGHT

the river was flowing over the Bridge-street bridge, an iron structure erected about ten years ago at a cost of $30,000, and it was feared the bridge would be swept away. A similar fate is feared for the Main-street and Straight-street bridges, both of iron and costing about $20,000 each. The flood dashed with such violence against

THE LINCOLN BRIDGE,

above the city, that it finally gave way, and went down with a mighty crash. The bridge consisted of two iron spans, very substantially built, one span about 140 feet and the other abut ninety feet, resting on an island in the river. The bridge cost about $60,000 in all. It was one of the best bridges in the country, the masonry and superstructure being of the most substantial character. The Hohokus stream also felt the effects of the great storm, and last night

ZABRISKIE'S MILL,

at Hohokus, which were about to be converted into a rubber factory went down the stream, involving a loss of perhaps $15,000. It was feared tonight that Broomhead's Mills, adjoining the West street bridge in Paterson, would be swept away by the flood in the river. The heavy rains have inundated all the meadow section of

THE CITY OF HOBOKEN.

Houses are cut off from the streets by sheets of water, and the occupants are obliged to sail on rafts to get from the sidewalks to their front doors. The ravine road sewer which empties near the meadows yielded to the increased pressure and burst this morning. This burst let all the water from Jersy City Heights out upon the meadows and increased the discomfiture of those residing there.

To the Western Associated Press.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 23.—About fourteen inches of rain have fallen here since the storm began. The Passaic River has risen from six to eight feet, and many parts of the town are submerged.

TRAFFIC ON THE ERIE AND MIDLAND RAILROADS is interrupted by washouts.

The Lincoln iron bridge, near this city, costing $40,000, was washed away. Bridges over small streams in the neighboring country are swept away.

The old Zabriskie Cotton-Mill at Hohokus was carried away. The pumping-house of the Passaic Water Company at the falls is flooded. Two small bridges over the old Hall Brook were washed away, as was the Oldham dam. This stream washed away a culvert and retaining wall.

AT THE PATERSON ALMSHOUSE, doing about $12,000 damage.

Martin Rossiter, an old man, was washed into the river this afternoon while driving, and with his horse and vehicle was carried over Passaic Falls.

Plainfield Dispatches.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 23.—It has been raining here continuously for eighteen hours, and the streams are much swollen. The streets are full of water, and the damage to property is heavy.

At 1:30 this afternoon

GROVE STREET BRIDGE,

over Green Brook, in this city, suddenly gave way while crowded with people watching the flood; six people were rescued, but a number are believed to have perished.

Demeseas' kindling-wood factory was swept away with one man in it, but he was rescued.

Both dams at Scotch Plains are washed out, and the water is four feet deep in the streets of that village.

EIGHT PERSONS HAVE BEEN RESCUED

thus far. Charles Winston is missing, and is believed to have been drowned, and it is scarcely believed possible that others are not lost. Nothing can be told with certainty as to the loss of life until the flood subsides.

WITHIN THE CITY-LIMITS

over a dozen bridges have been washed out, and great damage has been done to private property. The water is still very high, and threatens destruction to a large amount of valuable property. There is

NO SIGN OF THE STORM ABATING.

It exceeds any storm and flood ever known in this vicinity.

FRENCH'S DAM,

the last one left in this city, and the last but one on Green Brook, is reported to be giving away. If it goes out, the large factory and several other buildings will be destroyed.

THE DAM AT NEW BROOKLYN, three miles from here, was carried out today, and further down stream a large pond, stocked with valuable fish, owned by P. C. Ohl, was destroyed.

TELEPHONE POLES

set six feet into the earth have been washed out by the torrents in some places.

Jersey City Dispatches.

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 23.—The heavy rain caused a total suspension of through trains on the Pennsylvania and New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroads. Express trains on the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Central of New Jersey companies were delayed three to four hours. An official of the Pensylvania company stated tonight that he did not believe it would be possible to run trains between Jersey City and Philadelphia before tomorrow evening.

THE STOPPAGE OF LOCAL TRAINS

between Jersey City and Newark caused great inconvenience. Some passengers bunked in the depot for the night, while others sought various hotels in the vicinity. Reports of washouts, broken bridges, and landslides come from all directions. The portion of Jersey City at the foot of the hill is inundated to a depth of several feet. The cells of the city prison were flooded with two feet of water by the bursting of the Gregory street sewer. The prisoners confined there were removed to another point.

Bordentown Dispatches.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Sept. 23.—It has rained here the last three days, and many cellars are full of water. The Delaware River is rapidly rising and it is thought tomorrow at high tide the docks and piers will be inundated. A gang of workmen were sent out from here this afternoon by the Pennsylvania Railroad to see if any washouts had occurred on the road

BETWEEN THIS CITY AND TRENTON.

A heavy embankment along the railroad which arches underneath the main street in this place has caved in on account of the rains.

NO TRAINS CAN PASS HERE.

This exceeds all the rains for years in this section. The evening train from New York via Jamesburg has not yet arrived.

ANOTHER WASHOUT

has occurred between this city and Burlington, and no trains have arrived. It is feared serious results will follow in this direction.

Philadelphia Dispatches.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 23.—There has not in many years been known such a storm as that which only spent its force this afternoon. The nearest approach to it was the great storm of September, 1876, when three and one-half inches of rain fell, but today the depth of rain was four and five-eighths inches.

THE RISE OF THE SCHUYLKILL is so great that a freshet is apprehended. The tide in the Delaware River rose a foot higher than usual, but without doing any damage. The culverts were unable to carry off the rush of waters, cellars were flooded, mills were stopped, several large sewers caved, and breaks occurred in the streets. Damage amounting to thousands of dollars was done at various points.

THE CELLARS

of Howell Brothers' wall paper manufactory were flooded with water, putting out the fires under the boilers and necessitating the stoppage of the engines. Over 300 employés were compelled to suspend work during the remainder of the day.

At John B. Stetson's hat manufactory the water deluged the cellar and destroyed $25,000 worth of fur skins.

The wholesale grocery store of William J. Heiss & Co., northeast corner of Leopard and Girard avenue, overflowed with water, and did considerable damage. Not less than $10,000 damage was done at the Arrot Mills.

ELEVEN INCHES.

To the Western Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 23.—Nearly eleven inches of rain has fallen here within the past seventy-two hours. The Schuylkill River has risen six feet, and reports come in that the water is still rising at Fairmount Dam. Along the lines of the various railroads centering here considerable damage has been done. Travel on the New York Division of

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

has been suspended, owing to the washing away of the bridge at Holmesburg, and the giving way of a large section of the track between Holmesburg and Frankfort. Other washouts are reported along the line. The most serious washout on the Bound Brook route is at Bound Brook, but the Reading Company proposes to run a train through at midnight, and is soliciting trade for New York at the depot of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

FIVE HUNDRED PASSENGERS

on the Pennsylvania Railroad from New York were brought to this city by boat from Bristol. On the West Jersey Road, between Wenonah and Barnsboro, there was a washout carrying off an embankment in some places thirty feet high. Trains on the Burlington & Pemberton Railroad in New Jersey were stopped by the heavy rain.

BREAKS IN THE SEWERS

in the city have been numerous and serious, and street-car travel is hindered. A large portion of "The Neck" below the city is under water, and farmers there will suffer heavy losses.

AT READING

the rain-storm was the heaviest known for years. Some of the country roads are impassable. Some live stock is reported drowned in rapidly-swelling streams, and many haystacks swept away.

AT NEWTOWN, PA.,

several buildings were washed away and others injured. Four men were rescued from trees. A washout on the Newtown Railroad prevents the running of trains.

Poughkeepsie Dispatches.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Sept. 23.—The storm is the heaviest known hereabouts for years, and is still raging. Reports from along the Hudson and interior counties tell of roads cut and washed away in every direction. The low lands are everywhere flooded, and in several places bridges are carried away. The streams, already swollen, are rising rapidly, and serious damage is feared along

THE NEWBURG, DUTCHESS, AND CONNECTICUT RIVERS.

The iron bridge at Verplanck is impassable. The New York & New England Railroad is badly washed between Hopewell and Waterbury. The Boston train due at Hudson River at 4 p. m. is laid up at Paterson for the night. On the Hudson River the railroad track is badly washed from Dobb's Ferry south, and evening trains from New York are from one to two hours behind.

A DOUBLE WATCH

has been called out along the entire line of road. Construction work on the west shore is badly damaged in many places. Catskill and Saugerties Creeks are rising rapidly. It is feared when the full force of the freshet is felt, tomorrow morning the loss along the interior streams will be very heavy.

THE FLOOD-TIDES IN THE HUDSON

are remarkably high, and the wind is rising and rain falling in torrents. In many places south of here both tracks of the Hudson River Railroad are flooded, and there are wash-outs near New Hamburg and below Dutchess Junction. Orders have been issued to lay on side-tracks for the night, and all night passenger trains are behind time because of proceeding cautiously. The storm seems to be the heaviest in the Hudson River Valley.

ALL FREIGHT-TRAINS

A GENTLEMAN FROM WAPPINGER'S FALLS states that fears are entertained that the large dam there over Wappinger's Creek will break away, and if so, seriously damage a vast amount of property. Gangs of men are on watch.

New York City Dispatches.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The storm of wind and rain which broke over the city Thursday evening has been a very severe one, but thus far no damage has been reported except along the river-front, where some cellars were flooded by the unusually high tides. The rainfall up to the present time is over five inches, and the storm still continues. The rain is COMING DOWN IN TORRENTS.

Many streets in Jersey City and Hoboken were flooded by the heavy rains. In the latter city the section known as the "Meadow District" is completely submerged, residents being compelled to use boats and improvised rafts to go to and from their homes. The accumulated waters burst the sewers on the ravine road at the foot of the hill, and it will cost several thousand dollars to repair the pipes and repave the streets. The paths of Hamilton square, were almost washed out of existence. It is reported from Bound Brook that the water there has risen so high as to stop the running of trains on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. In the low-lying districts of the streams are muddy. The watter is running through the streets. Cellars are flooded, and the damage to property is heavy.

JERSEY CITY,

MILLBROOK,

a stream running through Fordham, Tremont, and Morrisania, along the Harlem Railroad, overflowed its banks and washed away the track, so that travel is suspended. The adjacent low lands are covered to a depth of four feet, and a number of families were rescued with difficulty.

Newburg Dispatches.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The rainfall here yesterday and today was unprecedented. Five inches of rain fell. Heavy damage was done in the neighborhood. Numerous bridges were carried away. The flood was also disastrous to being built in this vicinity.

Reports of damage by the flood continue to come in.

In the town of Cornwall eight or ten bridges were carried away: damage $12,000.

AT MOUNTAINVILLE

John Orr's barn and dam were carried away and flour mill damaged.

In Broadway,

THIS CITY,

the cellars of the merchants are flooded and the losses are heavy.

It is reported that serious washouts on branches of the Erie have taken place, and travel has been suspended on the short cut since yesterday.

HEAVY DAMAGES

are reported in the town of Fishkill, Dutchess County.

It is still raining hard and more serious results are feared.

Port Jervis Dispatches.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Sept. 23.—A very heavy rain here has been continuous since yesterday morning. The rivers are rising very fast.

TRAINS BETWEEN HERE and New York are much delayed by the floods in the Rampo Valley, where the track is submerged in places. It is still raining heavily.

Boston Dispatches.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—The heavy rains of the past few days have relieved all anxiety as to the city water-supply, nearly five and a half inches having fallen since Wednesday, when the line storm began. But washouts are reported on most of the local railroads, and at Stoughton the mills have been temporarily stopped, and bad washouts have been made on the highways there.

THE ACTUAL DAMAGE to property is about $10,000, while nearly 1,000 workpeople are out of employment for some days.

North Adams Dispatches.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Sept. 23.—Continuous rains the last three days threaten the destruction of many buildings on the Hoosac River.

The bulk of the North Pownal Mill was carried away tonight, and there is danger of much greater damage if the rain continues.

The small bridge at Beaver has gone down the river.

Raleigh Dispatches.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 23.—The heaviest rain-storm since 1842 fell at Tarboro last night, causing immense damage to crops.

The rainfall

IN A FEW HOURS WAS OVER SEVEN INCHES.

Bridges were swept away, and the track of the Tarboro branch of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad was extensively damaged. A train ran into a washout and was smashed seriously, injuring Express Messenger Bryant.

The Signal Service.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER OF THE ARMY, WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24—1 a. m.—For the Ohio Valley and Tennessee, fair weather, north to east winds, stationary followed by falling barometer and slight rise in temperature.

For the Lower Lake region, fair weather, northerly wind, higher barometer, and stationary or lower temperature.

For the Upper Lake region, fair weather, variable winds, rising followed by falling barometer, and stationary or higher temperature.

For the Upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys, fair weather, southerly winds in the latter, and variable winds shifting to east or south in the former district, lower barometer, and higher temperature.

The Chief Signal Officer furnishes the following special bulletin:

The barometer is higher in the Mississippi Valley and Upper Lake region. The storm which at yesterday afternoon's report was central south of Philadelphia, has moved northeastward, and is now central south of New Haven. The temperature has fallen from 5 to 13 degrees in the Middle Atlantic States and Upper Lake region, and risen from 8 to 14 in the Missouri Valley. Local rains reported from New England, and heavy rains from the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States. Elsewhere the weather is fair. Southerly winds continue in New England, and northerly winds in all other districts east of the Mississippi and in the West Gulf States. A tropical storm was reported yesterday morning south of Jamaica moving westward. A special from Santiago de Cuba reports the storm at that station. The direction of its path is not given. The following special temperatures were reported at 7 a. m. yesterday: Eastport and Quebec, 58; Montreal, 58; Mount Washington, 48; Cleveland, 51; Alpena, 45; Duluth, 44; St. Paul, 38; Denver, 46; San Francisco, 55. The following special heavy rainfalls have been reported in inches during the past twenty-four hours: New York, 6.17; Philadelphia, 3.78; New Haven, 2.40; Sandy Hook, 2.14; Boston, 2:12; Baltimore, 1.14; Portland, Me., 1.54. The indications are that the storm now central south of New Haven will move northeastward, causing rains in New England, followed by clearing weather tonight. Fair weather will prevail in the Gulf States, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and Lower Lake region today and tomorrow. Fair weather will prevail in the Middle Atlantic States today and tomorrow, preceded by local rains in the northern portion.

POLITICAL POINTS.

ALABAMA.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—The Administration is contemplating a new move in Alabama politics. At the Cabinet meeting held during the President's recent visit here it was decided to appoint Paul Strobach United States Marshal for the Southern District of that State. Strobach is the German Republican who has twice been elected from one of the Alabama districts, and who has been twice counted out. Following upon his appointment, two Internal Revenue Collectors in that State are removed to make way for persons said to have been selected by Strobach. One of the Collectors removed is James P. Rapier, formerly in Congress from the Montgomery district, and the most prominent colored man in the State.

SMYTHE'S REWARD.

There has been a good deal of comment in army circles over the fact that the President has just appointed William H. Smythe, of Albany, Major and Paymaster in the army, thus jumping hundreds of officers long in the service who have been looking forward to a promotion to this favored place. The appointment was made immediately after the Saratoga Convention. William H. Smythe is a son of John F. Smythe, ex-Superintendent of Insurance, whose career in the Insurance Department at Albany is so recent that people of New York do not need a refreshment of memory concerning its incidents. John F. Smythe and Thomas C. Platt are the head managers of the "Federal Administration machine" in the Republican canvass, which culminated in the Saratoga Convention. During the early part of Gov. Cornell's term William H. Smythe was the deputy of State Treasurer Nathan D. Wendell.

MONTGOMERY BLAIR,

Lincoln's old Postmaster-General and Tilden's chief fugler, at last sees a chance where it may be possible for him to reënter public life. He is a resident of the Sixth Maryland District, and lives adjacent to Washington, in a house built on the site of the one which the Rebels, under command of Gen. Early and Gen. Gordon, burned while he was Postmaster-General. This district has recently been represented in Congress by a Republican. The present incumbent, Urner, was defeated, and there is some feeling growing out of the nomination of McComas to succeed him. The Democrats think that, owing to these disagreements, a Democrat might be elected, and Montgomery Blair is a candidate provided he can receive the unanimous nomination of his party.

VIRGINIA.

Representative Dezendorf, from the Norfolk district, Virginia, one of the few Republican straightouts who defied Mahone, was in town today looking after the little department business which Mahone has left for him to do. He said that they were making a strong fight against him, but that he was very confident of his reëlection. Mahone has threatened to concentrate a great deal of strength in that district to defeat Dezendorf, against whom he seems to have a special spite.

MR. BLAINE'S INTERVIEW

in THE TRIBUNE in favor of the straight-out Republicans and against Mahone is attracting a great deal of attention in that State. It is republished in nearly every paper in the State, and freely commented on. The Norfolk Virginian says: "This bold declaration of Mr. Blaine will tend to strengthen the straight-outs in their present fight, and it will wreck the influence of Senator Mahone with many of the leaders of the Republican party. Mr. Blaine can afford to speak his views on the subject, and with emphasis, since his recent victory in Maine, for that event has strengthened his chances materially for the Republican nomination of 1884." The Republican leaders now say that they will make straight-out Republican nominations in all of the districts.

A VIRGINIA REPUBLICAN,

speaking of the situation there, says: "Gen. Mahone's arbitrary course in making so many changes in the Federal offices will make the coming campaign a very bitter one. Time will show that where he makes five friends by these changes he makes fifty enemies. President Arthur unfortunately promised Mahone and Cameron the entire control of the Federal patronage in Virginia for those Senators' support in the Senate. Of this there is not the shadow of a doubt, as I was told so by the Postmaster-General and Mahone's private Secretary. More changes in the postal service have been made in this State this year than for fifty years before.

THE REPUBLICAN POSTMASTERS

at Alexandria, Norfolk, Lexington, Danville, Lynchburg, Hampton, and Culpeper were removed to make room for Readjusters or tools of Senator Mahone. The editor of the Staunton Valley Virginian still holds the Staunton Post-Office, as he now supports Senator Mahone, although at first opposed to the coalition movement. Mahone is afraid to move against the Postmaster at Richmond, as his commission does not expire for three years. Every Postmaster whose receipts were not $10 a year has been removed, and Mahone's partisans have been put into their places. Every mail-route agent also has been removed, and many unfit ones have been substituted."

NEW HAMPSHIRE MEN

say that William E. Chandler is an aggressive candidate for election to the United States Senate, notwithstanding Rollins labored so earnestly to get him appointed to the Cabinet, in the hope that he would not be a candidate against himself.

Republicans who are best informed as to the condition of affairs in the State have not much doubt that Mr. Chandler will be successful. The election is to be held this winter, and the Legislature will be elected in the November election.

MR. JOHN C. NEW

this afternoon entered upon his duties as Acting Secretary of the Treasury. His first act was to issue a call for $25,000,000 of continued 5s, the call to mature Dec. 23. This definitly settles the fact that the policy of the Treasury will be to continue to use its surplus in calling in continued 5s. It is probable that another call will not be made to mature this year. The gossip still is, that Mr. New will retain the position upon the duties of which he entered this afternoon. Mr. New certainly makes no concealment to his friends of his expectations, but he denies that he has any positive assurance. Among the letters received today none came from Saratoga, not even a platform. Secretary Folger said he did not suppose the officers of the convention would omit this year, as they did two years ago when he was nominated for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, to inform him of his selection to head the ticket.

JUDGE FOLGER LEFT FOR NEW YORK

tonight, and it is not known whether or not he intends to return. It is a matter of common report that the President has for some time desired that he should vacate his place at the head of the Treasury. It is also a current and apparently well-substantiated rumor that President Arthur offered Mr. Folger the mission to England to relieve Mr. Lowell, that he might give the position of Secretary of the Treasury to some one more in sympathy with the plans he had mapped out. Mr. Folger, it is said, refused this offer, and therefore the President's only chance to accomplish his desired object was to push Folger for the Governorship of New York.

JUDGE NIBLOCK, OF INDIANA, who is a candidate for reëlection to the Supreme Court of that State, very confidently expresses the opinion that the Democrats will regain control of the State at the November election, and that there will be a gain of three, if not four, Congressmen. He says that he does not believe that Gov. Hendricks has any further Presidential ambition. Sergeant-at-Arms Bright agrees with Judge Niblock in his confidence as to the Democratic success in the State this fall, and says that the sumptuary legislation of the Republicans will greatly aid the Democracy.

THE ARCTIC HEROES.

THEIR RECEPTION.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—There was a pouring equinoctial rain here this morning, and the committee of citizens and the soldiers who were to appear as escort to Engineer Melville and Lieut. Berry and the survivors of the crew of the Jeannette were disappointed; but towards noon the clouds broke away, the rain ceased, and with the change came cooler weather. The Arctic heroes were met at the depot by the committee of citizens, and were escorted to their hotel by the two Washington militia companies, which made an exceedingly creditable appearance. Washington can quickly gather a large crowd of the curious to greet any stranger, and the reception of Engineer Melville's party was not an exception. Eager crowds lined the street all the way from the station to the hotel. It was noticeable that among them were many women, the unfortunate domestic incident in Philadelphia having given many the curiosity to look upon the face of Melville.

ONE OF THE LEADING SOCIETY LADIES of Washington, as she saw him leave his carriage, said: "It is a good face—a strong and a noble face—and I do not believe the woman's story, and I know she was crazy." Engineer Melville certainly has found a very warm place in Washington hearts today, as have Berry and Danenhower and the two seamen, Noros and Ninderman. Melville's old comrades declare that he looks about the same as ever, save that

HE HAS LOST CONSIDERABLE FLESH, and that his hair, which grows long upon his neck, is much thinner. He has become since he left quite bald. He is rather tall, and his figure heavy but pliant, and, as he was greeted by one after another of the old naval officers who had been his comrades on many seas, his gray eyes grew dim, and he seemed much affected by the reception. He was followed into the hotel by Lieut. Berry, a tall, manly-looking young officer, who shows in his physique no trace of his terrible journey of 2,500 miles over the ice in his attempt to save his unfortunate comrades, and by him came a bronzed-faced, athletic young man with blue eyes and a light-brown mustache, who came nimbly up the steps, but who seemed still to cling with awkward fondness to his sea-legs. Then came Danenhower, also tall and spare, a little bronzed by the summer sun of the watering-places where he has been to recover his health, with his eyes shielded from the light by very closely-guarded goggles. Then came the sturdy Swede,

NINDERMAN,

a short, thick-set sailor, with a long black mustache reaching down to the corners of his chin, and his face and hands as brown as sun and sea can make them. They received an ovation tonight at the Masonic Temple, and Mr. Thompson, ex-Secretary of the Navy, who, while Secretary, aided in fitting out the expedition, recited the history which is familiar to all, and the universal response was that the world knows enough of Arctic expeditions and the North Pole. All felt that Engineer Melville had been under circumstances which greatly tried his soul, and that if he did make mistakes, which his enemies did not succeed in successfully pointing out, he manifested the highest qualities of seamanship, physical endurance, courage, and will. He did his best to save his comrades, and he deserves what he has received here tonight. A striking comment on the perils of these Arctic voyages one can read in the naval orders tonight. Another young victim of Arctic expeditions, the brave young boatswain of the Tigress, has just been placed upon the retired list paralyzed. His promotion read, "To the rank of boatswain for unexampled gallantry," and now he is retired a wreck.

BONDS CALLED.

"THE UNITED STATES WILL PAY."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—The Secretary of the Treasury this afternoon issued a call for the redemption of the bonds of the 5 per cent funded loan of 1881, continued at 3½ per cent from Aug. 12, 1881. The call is for $25,000,000, the principal and interest to be paid at the Treasury on the 23d of December next, and interest to ceased on that day. The following is a description of the bonds: $50, Nos. 851 to 1,592, both inclusive; $100, Nos. 7,101 to 1,222, both inclusive; $500, Nos. 3,501 to 5,923, both inclusive; $1,000, Nos. 14,501 to 20,760, both inclusive; $5,000, Nos. 4,125 to 5,776, both inclusive; $10,000, Nos. 13,801 to 18,402, both inclusive; $20,000, Nos. 1,820 to 2,241, both inclusive; $50,000, Nos. 5,251 to 6,033, both inclusive. Total, $25,000,000.

NOTES.

GEN. SCHOFIELD.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—A order has been issued assigning Gen. Schofield to the Division of the Pacific from the 15th of October next.

POSTMASTERS APPOINTED.

Theo E. Clapp, White Pigeon, Mich.; Benjamin F. Bryant, La Crosse, Wis.; Nathan Cole, Sheboygan, Wis.

DAVID DAVIS.

There is no truth in the reported marriage of Senator David Davis. He has been sojourning in New England lately, and is now en route for Illinois.

TELEGRAPHIC.

A proposition that the Government buy all the telegraph lines outside of the Gould system, is being agitated here and at New York. It is received with considerable favor here by Government officials of rank, and informal offers to sell have been made by some of the smaller companies. The project meditates the absorption of the Mutual Union, Baltimore & Ohio, Lehigh, American, Rapid, Bankers' and Merchants', Postal, Chicago & Milwaukee, and Board of Trade Companies, the new Baltimore & Ohio Cable Company and the Central and South American Cable. The Government now has about 4,850 miles of telegraph line in operation throughout the Territories, over which commercial and a general business is transacted for the benefit of the public. The immediate cause of the present agitation is the rumor that Jay Gould, through the consolidated lines owned by him, was influencing the press market reports, but there have been advocates of the project who have watched the success of the plan in Great Britain and wish the Post-office Department to have control. The active support of the plan in New York by Mr. Bennett, of the Herald, has given it a great start.

FRANK H. FALL,

the lawyer whose name has been mentioned in connection with "fixing the star-route jury," denies that he ever attempted to influence any jurors to vote for the Government, or that he was authorized to do so by the Government, and he asserts that all his acts while acting for the Government were reported daily to the proper officers of the Government. Mr. Fall states he has no fears of a full and complete judicial investigation, and is willing to respond whenever called upon.

RECENT FROSTS.

Effect of the Frost in Various Localities.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

GALENA, Ill., Sept. 23.—This section was visited by a heavy frost last night, which did considerable damage to vines and out-door plants. Standing corn was but little damaged. The farmers hereabouts have commenced cutting. The quality is fully up to the usual standard, but the crop will not exceed two-thirds of an average.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

APPLETON, Wis., Sept. 23.—Last night this section was visited by a hard frost, doing great damage to the corn crop. On account of the late spring corn was not advanced as far as in other seasons. Had the frost kept off two weeks longer it would have been thousands of dollars in the farmers' pockets. Corn will be about three-fourths of an average crop. Others are up to the average.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WHITEWATER, Wis., Sept. 23.—There was a heavy frost hereabouts last night, the first of the season. It did some harm to corn, but the bulk of that important crop is out of danger. A good many grapes, melons, and tender vegetables were spoiled.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

SOUTH ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 23.—The first frost of the season was noticeable here early this morning. It was quite a heavy white frost, but apparently did but little damage. In fact, most everything is out of the way of injury from frost. Farmers are getting over their fears, and cry, "Let it come," but prefer to have it dealt out sparingly at first.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WATERTOWN, Wis., Sept. 23.—The first hard frost of the season occurred last night, ice being formed on water this morning, and the traces are visible on vegetation. The most of the corn is out of all danger from frost in this section.

YELLOW FEVER.

Thirty-six New Cases at Pensacola.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 23.—The Board of Health reports thirty-six new cases and five deaths today. Four of the deaths were of seamen in the general hospital.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 23.—A telegram from Pensacola says that up to noon today there were eleven new cases and four deaths. The subscription of Memphis to the yellow fever sufferers now amounts to $1,500.

Feared that the Judge Was Prejudiced.

Texas Siftings.

A young Austin lawyer was appointed to defend a negro who was too poor to hire counsel of his own. After the jury was in the box the young lawyer challenged several jurymen whom his client said had a prejudice against him.

"Are there any more jurymen who have a prejudice against you?" whispered the young lawyer.

"No, boss; de jury am all right, but now I wants you to challenge de Jedge. I has been convicted under him seberal times already, and maybe he is beginnin' to hab prejudice agin me."

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1882.

THE Khedive has issued a manifesto justifying English interference in Egypt and authorizing Gen. Wolseley to represent him in restoring order and punishing rebels.

MR. JOHN C. NEW, acting as Secretary of the Treasury in place of Mr. Folger, yesterday made a call for $25,000,000 of extended 5 per cent bonds, the call to mature Dec. 23.

THE regular daily smashup on the Wabash Railway took place yesterday at Pekin. An extra freight train was derailed, killing a young man and injuring seven persons, two of them almost fatally.

THE celebrated black desperado Dick Glass, who was captured with great difficulty recently in Kansas, filed off his irons in the jail at Winfield, Kas., yesterday and escaped, although the guards fired at him as often as they could after he emerged from the building.

ANOTHER of the passengers mutilated by the railway company in the Fourth-avenue tunnel at New York Friday died yesterday. A telegraph operator, a conductor, and a brakeman have been arrested. The thing to arrest is the career of slaughter entered upon recently by the Harlem River Road.

WILLIAM E. CHANDLER, Secretary of the Navy, is said to be a serious candidate for the United States Senate to succeed E. H. Rollins, the present incumbent. Mr. Chandler is an excellent organizer and very popular in his own State. If he takes the field in earnest, he will be likely to defeat Mr. Rollins.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has appointed William H. Smythe, a son of the notorious Boss Smythe, of Albany, a Paymaster in the army. This appointment, following closely upon the activity of Boss Smythe at the Saratoga Convention, is one of the most objectionable that have been made by the present Administration.

MR. W. C. SEIPP, formerly City Treasurer, has been persuaded, it is said, to accept the Democratic nomination for County Treasurer this fall. His party friends believe that he will make serious inroads into the German Republican vote. But the German Republicans of the country towns vote the straight ticket pretty regularly, and Seipp will not be likely to make much impression upon them.

THE Eighteenth Ward Republican Club had a meeting last night, at which the friends of Gen. Thomas were more largely represented than the supporters of Senator Adams. A Thomas ticket to be voted for at the primaries was indorsed by the club. The Adams men claimed that many outsiders from the Seventeenth and other wards were present and voted at the club meeting, and notice was given that an Adams ticket would be presented at the primaries tomorrow. Gen. Thomas attended the club meeting and spoke in his own behalf. It was supposed that a test vote would be made on the election of officers of the club, but Mr. S. B. Raymond, a supporter of Gen. Thomas, was re-elected President unanimously.

MILTON G. URNER, the only Republican member of Congress from Maryland, was recently defeated for renomination by Mr. McComas. There is said to be much dissatisfaction with the result in the district, though this may be doubted. Montgomery Blair, however, who has a nominal residence in the district, which is adjacent to the City of Washington, believes that there is a fighting chance for a Democrat, and has signified his willingness to accept a nomination if it shall come to him spontaneously and unanimously. Urner's majority in 1880 was only 799.

A PUBLIC reception was tendered to Engineer Melville in Washington last night. Crowds met him at the depot. The enthusiasm manifested must have been very gratifying to him and his friends. One fashionable society lady, endowed with more emotion than common sense, sat in her carriage, and, when she saw him, said: "He has a good face—a strong and noble face—and I do not believe that woman's story." The fashionable society lady was evidently interested more in Melville's family troubles than in his Arctic experiences. Yet some people wonder that newspapers pay attention to domestic scandals!

THE Fourth Ward Republican Club last night adopted rules for the future government of primary meetings in that ward. These rules embody two substantial provisions: First, a thorough and permanent system of registration of all the legal voters in the ward, and especially those of the Republican party. Second, that the primary elections shall be by precincts. When this system shall be adopted through the city packed conventions and the employment of hired voters will cease, and nominations by fairly-elected delegates will have some obligatory claims upon members of the party. A result will be a superior class of candidates nominated for all offices, and, of course, a greater public interest in the election of public officers.

REPRESENTATIVE DEZENDORF, of the Norfolk district in Virginia, is running for Congress as a straightout Republican. He is opposed by the full strength of the Mahone machine. Dezendorf would gladly have made terms with Mahone if he could, but the latter is not distinguished for a conciliatory disposition, and early caused a notification to be sent to Dezendorf that his services in Congress would not be required after March 4, 1883. Hence the straightout fight. Dezendorf is a capable and trustworthy Representative. He has lived in Norfolk since 1863, and has always been a Republican after the straightest sect; it seems a little hard that he should now be commanded to "move on" by an ex-Rebel Brigadier. There is no longer any doubt that, under the terms of the compact between Don Cameron, Mahone, and President Arthur, the Virginia Senator has exclusive control of the Federal patronage for his State.

THE extraordinary drouth which has afflicted the agricultural producers of the East has terminated with one of the heaviest rainfalls recorded in the last forty years. The heavens are still pouring down their pent-up floods, and the damage, which is already extensive, will soon, it is apprehended, become immense. The railway service of the region around New York City was last night either at an abrupt standstill, or trains were simply on their way to the nearest stations for the purpose of awaiting further pluvial events. Reports are printed from New York City, Poughkeepsie, Newburg, and Port Jervis, in New York, Paterson, Bordentown, and Plainfield, in New Jersey, Raleigh, in North Carolina, and elsewhere, all placing the rainfall at five inches as a minimum, and in one instance (Paterson) giving fourteen inches as the depth of water which has fallen in forty-eight hours. At Plainfield, N. J., a bridge gave way, throwing a crowd of sightseers in the water, all of whom, it is probable, were fished out, as no bodies were found. The loss of life is small, as human beings very generally come in out of the wet, but the railroad companies are heavy losers.

NOMINATIONS FOR OFFICE.

In the pleasurable excitement of general prosperity in a season just crowned with an abundant harvest, and one promising the husbandman a full market and fair prices for a largely-increased product; with a renewal of the amicable relations between labor and capital which have been unhappily disturbed for some months; with the resumption of labor and of wages in the workshops and factories, and in the mines, politics are apt to be forgotten and neglected. It is, however, at this very time that public interests are endangered and public affairs are allowed to fall into hands the least capable of managing them with intelligence and fidelity. One season of public indifference and carelessness at public elections is more costly in its results than even an ordinary calamity in the way of fire or epidemic. The evil done by one corrupt City Government, or by one ignorant, dishonest Legislature, unfortunately does not perish with the official life of the machinery through which the evil is wrought, but survives it through its enduring consequences. Chicago has had several warnings of this character. In days of carelessness the people of Chicago have permitted its local Governments to pass into the control of men morally unfit for any place of public trust, and the trouble required to get rid of such officials and the time and cost of remedying the abuses perpetrated by them ought never to be forgotten by this city. For three years the Government of this county ruled with irresponsible and defiant contempt of all forms of law. Taxes were imposed and money expended without legal limit, and it required several years' experience under legal delays before the spoilers were ejected from a Government and a Treasury which they practically administered as their own.

The experience of the City Government has been no less costly. The control of the city passed into the hands of contractors and their partners in the Council. For several years there was a riotous carnival in the City Government, which lasted until the Treasury was exhausted, the public credit extinguished, and, without money or credit, the city's paper was repudiated by its own citizens. It required a popular revolution and several years of severe taxation to get rid of the usurping spoilers and to remedy the evil consequences of one year's want of attention to municipal elections.

We are now approaching the day of another election. As this paper has often warned the public, the elections of officers are generally and almost exclusively made at what are known as primary elections. A few people, far in advance of the time fixed for the legal election, meet in a saloon or some other place and hold what they call a "primary meeting." As a general thing the attendance of voters at these meetings is small and confined to the personal adherents of some particular person who is a candidate for some local office. These men nominate a candidate for Alderman, and without any further proceeding all the voters of that ward belonging to that party become thenceforward bound, under penalty, to vote for that man for Alderman. In like manner other candidates are selected and nominated; in some cases the ward primaries elect delegates to meet with delegates elected in other wards, who together nominate as the party candidates the persons to be voted for as Senators and Representatives to serve in the State Legislature and to make laws and levy taxes for over 3,000,000 people.

From the decrees of these primary meetings there is no appeal. The selections made in the same fashion by the primaries of both parties furnish sixty-six names to the people of this county, from which list the 100,000 voters are to select in their various districts thirty-three persons to represent the people of this city for two years in the General Assembly of Illinois. The selection of these persons is the direct work of the primary meetings, at which, as a general rule, each meeting is composed of a few partisan friends of the persons selected. We mean no personal reference or disparagement to any person selected or who may be selected in this city when we say that of the sixty-six persons who will be nominated, and from whom alone the people will have any opportunity to select those who shall represent this great city in the General Assembly, not over ten, and perhaps not that number, would be selected by any business firm to attend to any private business for which personal honesty, knowledge, education, personal fitness, intelligence, and decent habits might be required.

Yet where is the remedy for this condition of affairs? In a city containing 100,000 voters both political parties combined cannot make out a list of thirty-three persons of ordinary fitness and respectable associations and qualifications to represent one-fifth of the population and property of the State in the highest and most important department of our Government. It is idle for the voter, whether a Republican or Democrat, on election-day to complain of the character of the men his party has selected as its candidates; he may be so disgusted as to be disposed to vote for the opposing candidates; but if he take up the candidates on the other ticket he will find an array of names duplicates in every sense of unfitness of those put up by his own party.

What is the remedy, if there be any, for this condition of affairs? The election in this State this year will take place in the first week of November. But every man knows that that election only confirms the choice of candidates previously selected by the primary meetings, and that the real selection of persons for office is made at the primary meetings. If a citizen wants to have proper persons selected for office he must go to the primary meeting and there labor and vote to that end. But what chance is there at the primary meeting? As a general thing, we candidly confess there is little; these meetings have fallen into disgraceful abuses, which corrupt our whole election system at its fountain. This, however, can be corrected. The remedy is with the people who are interested. That remedy is the purification of the primary. To show that the primary can be purified it is only necessary to refer to the example of the Twelfth Ward during the last ten days. There the efficacy of honesty and fair dealing, and especially the facility with which primary meetings can be made honest, fair, and satisfactory, was clearly and emphatically demonstrated. What was done in that ward is possible in all wards, and the voters who are expected to vote for the nominees of primary meetings have only to refuse to vote for any candidate not selected by an honest primary.

CHICAGO ASSESSMENTS—THE REMEDY.

Controller Gurney and South-Town-Assessor Drake are both right to a certain extent in the apparent controversy between them over the assessment of Chicago property. There is no doubt that the assessment as a whole is absurdly low. The real and personal property of this city is valued at about $103,000,000 for taxable purposes, when its actual value is probably not less than $500,000,000. But, to illustrate the system of assessment which is responsible for this undervaluation, Mr. Gurney selected certain blocks in the business district of the South Side. This illustration standing alone would indicate that the deficiency in the assessment is due to the low valuation of property in the South Division. Fortunately, Mr. Drake has a complete answer to any intimation of that kind. The assessment of the property, real and personal, in the South Town is $8,000,000 more this year than it was three years ago, while the valuation of the property in the West and North Towns is about $800,000 less than it was three years ago. It will scarcely be contended that the increase of value in the property of Chicago has been entirely in the South Division. Any such theory would omit from consideration all the improvements that had been made within three years in the North and West Divisions, besides making no allowance for the increased value of real estate and the additions to stock of goods and household effects. It may be that not enough has been added to the valuation of the South Town, but certainly much more has been added in proportion—$8,000,000—than in the other two towns, where $800,000 has been taken away from the valuation of 1879.

Mr. Drake says that the rule of assessment is one-third of the actual value of property at a forced sale, which averages about one-fourth the ordinary cash value. If Mr. Drake, in assessing the property of the South Town, had raised his average from one-third to one-half the value at forced sale, and the Assessors of the West and North Towns had adhered to the old rule, the discrepancy would have been so glaring as to create persistent opposition to the payment of taxes in the South Town. The first and most important consideration in law and equity is to secure uniformity in valuation, in order that the property-owners and business-men of one section shall not be required to pay more taxes in proportion than those of other sections. But it is evident that so long as there shall be a separate system of assessment for each of the three towns into which the City of Chicago is divided it will be the aim of each Assessor to see that his constituents do not pay a larger proportion than those of the other Assessors. In view of the pressure for an increased assessment as the only means for enabling the city to raise a revenue adequate to its present necessities, Mr. Drake seems to have acted more fairly than the other Town Assessors within the city; but the rivalry between the towns on this question has operated to prevent any material increase in valuation.

The only way in which the valuation of the property of Chicago for taxable purposes can be advanced to anything like adequate proportions and at the same time assure uniformity of assessment is to consolidate the three assessment districts into one. In order to do this it is necessary to unite the three towns—North, South, and West Chicago—under one township organization. An attempt was made to do this in 1879, but failed because the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the particular statute under which the change was made. The general law of township organization provides that "two contiguous towns" may be united when one-fourth of the voters in each shall petition the County Board for consolidation and the union shall be confirmed by popular vote. The Legislature undertook to make the consolidation of the three towns in Chicago an easier matter by passing a law that "the County Board in any county under township organization may provide that the territory embraced within any city in such county shall be organized as a town, provided such territory shall have a population of not less than 3,000, and provided the City Council in such city shall by resolution request such action by the County Board." Under the authority of this statute the Chicago City Council made the request for the consolidation of West, South, and North Chicago under one township, and the Cook County Board passed the necessary resolution. But a case was taken to the Supreme Court to test the validity of this action, and the court held that the law was unconstitutional because it failed to provide for a submission of the proposed consolidation to the people. The movement in favor of consolidation was dropped at this point. It should be renewed. It will undoubtedly be a matter of great difficulty to proceed under the general law, and procure a petition of one-fourth of the voters in each of the three towns and unite them one by one; but it will be better to undertake this than not to bring about the consolidation at all. It would seem, however, that the Legislature might easily amend the later law of 1877, applying to territory embraced within any city, in such manner as to make it conform to the requirements of the general law. It is very certain that the only remedy against insufficiency and inequality of assessments in Chicago is the consolidation of the three towns, and some careful measure should be adopted by the next Legislature to enable Chicago to do this with the least possible trouble, but in such manner as will be sustained by the courts.

EGYPTIAN INVASIONS.

The Pall Mall Gazette, philosophizing upon the recent war in Egypt, indulges in some historical reminiscences which show that Egypt has been preëminently the land of invasions. Cambyses commenced them and was followed by Artaxerxes, Alexander, and Amrou, who marched overland from the East. Amrou, who was the Caliph Omar's trusty General, won Egypt away from the Greeks for the Mohammedans in the year 639, defeating the Greeks near Cairo, who thereupon retreated to Alexandria, where they held out for fourteen months, not being subjected to such ironclad devastation as was Arabi Bey, and they finally surrendered. The most powerful effort made for its recovery was by Louis IX. in 1250, who landed at Damietta, where Abdallal Bey is now holding out. He defeated the Saracens and took possession of the town, but a few months later he was defeated at Mansourah, where he and his whole army were taken prisoners.

Napoleon's great invasion of Egypt was in 1798. On the 18th of July of that year he reached Alexandria with 30,000 men and the next day he took the city. Two weeks after that he defeated the Mamelukes at Ramanieh. Nine days later he became master of Egypt by the total defeat of Murad Bey in the great battle of the Pyramids, and two days afterwards he entered Cairo. The next month Nelson destroyed the French fleet in Aboukir Bay, but he could not disturb Napoleon's position. In 1801 the English invaded Egypt to drive out the French, and on the 21st of March Abercromby won the battle of Alexandria against 27,000 French, though he lost his own life. Two months later the English entered Cairo. At this point they were joined by the English forces from Bombay under Gen. Baird, and the united forces then marched against Alexandria, when the French army capitulated and evacuated Egypt. The second English invasion of Egypt was in 1807, when the Turks declared war at the instigation of the French. Gen. Fraser, at the head of 5,000 men, took Alexandria on the 21st of March, but during the next month was compelled to retire from Rosetta with much loss, and ultimately to evacuate the country.

The Gazette, studying these various invasions, arrives at the conclusion that a force which does not advance from the coast at once upon the key of Egypt—Cairo—whether from the east by the desert road or up the Nile before its rising, is predestined to failure. The affirmative of this proposition was certainly proved by Sir Garnet Wolseley's advance and attack from the east, and his speedy occupation of Cairo, which closed the war. Had the advance been made from Alexandria upon Kafr-el-Dwar instead of from Ismailia upon Tel-el-Kebir, disaster might have been expected, if the Gazette's proposition is a sound one.

HOW THE PROHIBITIONISTS EXAGGERATE.

It is to be deplored that the prohibition issue is not submitted fairly by the people who support it. As a rule, those in favor of coercive temperance legislation make high pretensions to moral superiority; yet, as a rule, all the declarations which they put forth in regard to prohibition are so exaggerated as to touch upon the region of untruth. A striking instance of this fact is furnished by the platform adopted at the Prohibition Convention held in New York State during the past week, which starts off in the following extravagant style:

> Believing and affirming that the liquor traffic is a crime against good government, an offense against public welfare and against God, we further declare that human brotherhood, the precepts of Christianity, the laws, National prosperity, and the teachings of a wise political economy demand absolute prohibition of the manufacture, importation, and sale of all intoxicating liquors as a beverage; that this prohibition should be grounded in the organic law of the Nation and the State, and should thus be kept sacred from the frequent disturbances of legislation, etc.

It is simply unreasonable to denounce the sale of liquor as "a crime against good government, an offense against public welfare, and against God." Is there no good government on earth? There is certainly no Government which treats the selling of liquor as a crime, and the Government which should undertake to do so would make itself conspicuous for its intolerance. If the element of "crime" enters into this question at all it consists in the act of drinking rather than selling liquor, for it is certainly a greater "offense against public welfare and against God" to drink intoxicating liquor than it is to sell alcohol which may be used for medicinal or mechanical purposes. But it can scarcely be a "crime" to drink so long as the church continues the use of wine for the communion table. The fact is, that the zeal of the Prohibitionists betrays them into ridiculously extravagant statements. Intemperance is certainly an offense against society and the public welfare. Government does what it can to repress intemperance by providing punishment in those cases where it becomes an infraction of public order. Other influences of society—the church, the home circle, business relations, etc.—are expected to do much more than Government can do for the repression of this vice. But the offense of intemperance does not warrant Government taking the ground that men shall not drink temperately, or that it shall be a "crime" to sell the extract of corn, the juice of the grape, or the product of the barley. Good government needs to be founded in good policy. It is not good policy to construe appetite as a crime, nor to undertake the enforcement of laws which experience proves to be impracticable. It is not good policy to arouse animosities over a difference of taste or abstract ethics among the people. It is not good policy to pass laws which are not sustained by public opinion or precipitate conflicts between the people and the authorities. It is not good policy to abate the public revenues upon an unsubstantial theory of "crime" in the demonstrated absence of the power to coerce popular submission to such a theory. "Wise political economy" does not teach any of the doctrines laid down by the Prohibitionists in the wild language they are accustomed to employ. But there is a reason for their resorting to extravagance in terms. No moderate or practical interpretation of the province of Government justifies the attempt at universal prohibition of the manufacture and sale of liquor, and they are forced to use exaggeration in order to advocate the extreme measure which they propose. Unless the manufacture and sale of liquor is a "crime," Government has no authority to prohibit it so long as the people sustain it by drinking liquor. Hence the Prohibitionists assume it to be a "crime."

THE PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

The nomination of candidates in this city for Congress has already made some progress. In the First District the list of candidates seems to have closed with Messrs. Aldrich, Coy, and Dore, unless Mr. King may be still included in the list. A new feature in this canvass, and seemingly a good one, is the appearance of all the candidates at public meetings in the several wards, and a full and frank discussion by them of public affairs, particularly of matters pertaining to Chicago interests in Congress and with the Government at Washington. This system brings the several candidates in direct acquaintance with the voters of the district, and we have no doubt is fully appreciated by the public. The meetings, we understand, have been largely attended, and the interest in them grows as the time for nomination approaches.

The Second District, which is Democratic by any majority that party may decide to have, has nominated Mr. Henry F. Sheridan; but in a district where the Democratic vote is so exclusive the possibilities of several candidates are large. Already one independent Democrat, Mr. Curran, is announced, and during the next six weeks there may be several more. The election is a free one, and open to all.

In the Third District Col. George R. Davis has been nominated for reëlection. As the fact that he is unquestionably the choice of a large majority of the Republicans of his district has become evident, the Republican opposition to his election has been abandoned. The tender of Republican votes to Mayor Harrison if he would be the Democratic candidate was made in behalf of a very few persons, and, as it was declined, will hardly be renewed by any others.

In the Fourth District Mr. Adams and Col. Thomas have been having a most harmonious and dignified canvass preliminary to the nominating convention. It has been earnest and continuous, with what result the action of the convention can alone decide.

No candidates have been suggested by the Democrats so far in the First, Third, or Fourth Districts.

The nominations for the State Legislature have been so far very few. Of course, George White has been nominated for reëlection to the Senate in the Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Wards district, and two friends of White have been nominated for Representatives in the same district. As the Republican leaders in that district control the bulk of the Democratic voters, these candidates may be said to be certain of election. The candidacy of any Democrat will at least be only nominal.

In most of the districts the number of persons seeking the nomination is very great. Some who are named are respectable persons who would creditably fill the places they seek, but unfortunately many are not of that class. It is stated that employés of the Post-Office are proposed in some of the districts, and whether any of the force employed by the Internal Revenue Department want to go to the Legislature we cannot say. Human nature is, however, in all probability, the same in both branches of the public service.

Within a few days there has been an organization of the Prohibition party in the city with a view to nominate candidates for the Legislature. Whether this movement means seriously to contest in this county for places for that body will depend on developments to be made at a later day. Hardly less important to the people of this city will be the election of five County Commissioners to succeed an equal number whose terms expire this fall. No selections have been made for these places, which really ought to be non-partisan, and ought to be filled by responsible, respectable, and intelligent citizens, at least reasonably superior to corruption. For the county offices the number of nomination-seekers is legion.

ESTHETIC NONSENSE.

The Harpers of New York, through their various publications, have become or affect to be the organs of the new esthetic craze and the esthetic world of Postlethwaites and Bunthornes and their angular admirers, as well as all the yellow-hued followers of the Cimabue Brown school, who paint their fences in three colors, so as to give a dado and frieze to the wooden barriers which separate them from their neighbors, fly to these publications, the Weekly, the Bazar, or the Monthly, for instructions as to the last homely or awkward affectation.

The latest pronunciamento from one of these oracles informs young ladies how to fit up their rooms, and lays down its conventional decrees with a Draconian rigor that is amusing, and even intimates as the penalty for not following these decrees that the young woman who does not obey is hardly fitted for good society, and has had serious deficiencies in her early training. First of all, she is informed that she must not have gas at all, for gas is low and vulgar. She must have lamps or candles. It would be curious to know why gas is low and vulgar, but the oracle does not enter into a discussion of the subject or inform us why gas is more vulgar than kerosene, tallow, or wax, or why a clean, inodorous light is more vulgar than a lamp which smells badly at its best estate, or a candle which is greasy, and drips, and has to be snuffed. The explanation probably is that the lamp and the candlestick are medieval, but if a young woman must have a medieval lamp or candlestick in order not to be low and vulgar, why should she not be compelled to burn medieval oil or tallow instead of the greasy, unsavory compounds sold by modern dealers, and why should she not demand that her grocer or oil-dealer should be arrayed in the vestures of the medieval mercer? But to return to the young lady's room. She must have long mirrors, and the furniture must be of ormolu, with a profusion of roses and blue ribbons. If she has these things, we are informed that her interior (the room's, not her own) will "breathe the spirit of Pompadour." Why should it breathe the spirit of Pompadour? Why should a young lady's boudoir breathe the spirit of the mistress of one of the most sensual Kings living in one of the most sensual times of the world? Her room must also be festooned with pink and blue silk, covered with lace or tufted satin, let into the walls. Notice, this is not a conditional decree; it is not a suggestion that such a room may be dependent upon the purse; it must be done or the young woman cannot belong to the fashionable world. Anything less than a boudoir breathing the spirit of the Pompadour relegates her to the sisterhood that is not fashionable and breathes the spirit of simplicity, economy, and old-fashioned duties. But this is not all. The oracle gives us more things that are essential. The first of these is a bunch of peacock's feathers. Fortunately these have now become so common that they are in the hands of every street-peddler and can be had for almost nothing. Second, she must have "a brass potful of cat-tails." Why the pot should be of brass is one of the mysteries, but it is evident that unless the pot is of brass the young woman cannot completely live up to it and be medieval. Why it should be filled with cat-tails, rather than with canepoles, or base-ball clubs, or umbrellas, or faggots, or curtain-rods, all of which are more beautiful and graceful than cat-tails, is equally mysterious. Finally, she must have a medieval candlestick. Evidently it is not necessary that there should be a candle in it, or it would have been mentioned. It is a little remarkable that the oracle did not insist that a peacock's feather or a cat-tail should be stuck in it, rather than leave the medieval candlestick without a tenant. These things are the essentials. Then there are a few optional things which we are given to understand will highten the general effect. These are, first, Japanese fans, probably because the Japanese fan is the most hideous fan ever made; second, an easel, probably because the young woman paints flowers; third, a few straight-backed chairs, probably because they are uncomfortable; fourth, a brown curtain embroidered with sunflowers, probably because that is as ugly a thing as can be made; and last, but not least, a Persian cat. Why Persian, when a Persian cat is not medieval, we are not aware, or why it should be a Persian rather than a Maltese or tortoise shell or plain old Tabby or Thomas.

After the young woman has secured all these things and dumped them into her boudoir or bedroom higgledy-piggledy, for it is low and vulgar to have a few really beautiful things tastefully arranged, we are informed that the effect is "simple but choice"! And this room without a really beautiful thing in it, without a curve or a beautiful line in it, filled with a promiscuous aggregation of awkward, angular rubbish, supposed to be medieval and beautiful because it represents a period when people knew nothing about art or beauty, is essential to preserve one from the contamination of contact with the low and vulgar. We submit that the effect of all this would be hightened if the young woman herself could only be arrayed or painted in some manner to represent a human dado, intermediary, and frieze. In no other way could she faithfully live up to her astonishing boudoir. But would it not be well now that that peripatetic illusion, Mr. Wilde, has left us, to drop this esthetic craze and return to common sense and the beautiful, and drop the fishpole and circular-saw style of decoration?

THE School Superintendent of Lackawanna County, Pennsylvania, after commenting severely on the lamentable want of method in district-school management which has kept many school-houses in such ill-repair that for weeks and months the children have suffered from cold, snow, rain, and smoking chimneys, declares that there will never be any marked change in "this execrable state of affairs" until women constitute a part of each board. "I submit," he says, "that every School Board should have at least one woman among its members." Mr. Brooks mentions one school in which for two months last winter the stove smoked so badly that the windows and door had to be kept open until 11 o'clock every morning. Thus the children were compelled to sit day after day with smarting eyes, inhaling smoke and soot, and shivering in the drafts from door and windows. In another district he visited a school in the spring, when he found that all winter the grate in the stove had been broken, lights out of the windows, and shutters off. All day the rain blew in through the windows and made pools of water on the floor; and it was not possible to prevent it. This is a sort of evil, he asserts, that a practical woman is apt to remedy promptly, and without groveling to the idol of Circumlocution.

AMONG the official instructions issued by the Conseil d'Hygiène, Paris, as necessary to be observed in case a person is bitten by an animal, either mad or supposed to be so, are the following: First, by a sufficient amount of pressure, the bites, whether deep-seated or superficial, should be caused to bleed as abundantly as possible, and then washed in water, with a jet if possible, or in any other liquid (even urine), until caustics can be applied. Second, cauterization can be made by Vienna paste, butter of antimony, chloride of zinc, and by red-hot iron—the latter being the best of all; any piece of iron—the end of a rod, a nail, a key, etc.—may be used for the cauterization, which should penetrate to every part of the wound. Third, as the success of the cauterization depends upon the promptitude with which it is executed, any one is able to practice it at once, before a doctor's arrival. Fourth, cauterizations made with ammonia or different forms of alcohol are inefficacious.

A GERMAN Professor argues against the growing habit of painting brick and stone houses with oil-color, which he considers the cause of much illness, temporary or permanent. Experiments made by Prof. Pettenkofer prove that the air constantly filters through bricks and walls that are unpainted, in millions of bubbles. The air thus filtered is of course purified of all germs of disease floating in the air; and the atmosphere in an unpainted house is therefore always pure and wholesome, even in winter when all direct access of air through windows is prevented. By painting the house the air-filtering process is arrested; and this accounts for the feeling of oppression, the heart-beating, and the headaches of which the pallid inhabitants of such houses are constantly complaining.

WHEN Dr. Harkness told the San Francisco Academy of Sciences, some time ago, that the famous footprints uncovered in the prison-quarry near Carson, Nev., might have been made by primeval man, and need not necessarily be attributed to ponderous prehistoric animals, his statement provoked considerable criticism. The imprint called for feet about eighteen inches long, which could not decently be claimed by any man less than twelve feet high. But Dr. Harkness has turned the laugh on his critics by discovering in Sonora, Cal., a living man whose boots are seventeen and a third inches long, and who, dreadful to add, boasts a friend of the other sex with feet still larger than his own.

THAT discouragement has fallen upon the growth of barley and hops in England, owing to the use of substitutes in brewing, is proved by the fact that in the last seven or eight years the acreage of hops has been reduced from 75,000 to 65,000 acres, and that the acreage under barley during the present year shows a reduction of over 7 per cent. The decrease in the consumption of beer has been attributed to the "improved habits of the people"; but others account for it by the growing inferiority of the beer, and urge the brewers that they must return to former standards if they wish to compete successfully with the legion of non-alcoholic drinks now offered to the public.

EVER since manufactories, bakeries, etc., have been compelled in London to consume their smoke, splendid chrysanthemums have been produced in the gardens of the Temple (inn of court) which abut on the Thames Embankment, and it is said that "The rhododendrons of St. Paul's Cathedral promise to be famous for their beauty and color; which shows what can be done by culture against all difficulties. The Charter-House is not less successful with its fuchsias. This year the grounds are brilliant, and quality is no less remarkable a feature of the show than quantity. Seen from any point the effect is equally good, for the planning has been done by the hand and eye of an artist. The [illegible] height of six or seven feet, are full of [illegible] and of superb condition."

A remarkable illustration of the successful pursuit of flowers under difficulties may be seen, says the New York Times, at the Brooklyn Navy-Yard. What is known as the Cob Dock, alongside of which the Colorado, the receiving ship, is moored, has within a few months been transformed from a wilderness into a charming flower garden. This is due to floriculture being the hobby of the Colorado's Captain, who, wherever stationed, keeps the lookout to increase his horticultural treasures and experience. He has met with gratifying assistance from the men of his ship, some of whom have shown the warmest interest in his gardening enterprise. The Cob Dock is the most international ground conceivable, being composed as it is of the dumpings of ballast in the shape of earth from all parts of the world.

THE shocking destruction of a school-house, together with its inmates, including both grown persons and children, is reported from the Town of Grodno, the capital of one of the governmental departments of Russia. A hardware-dealer used the cellar of the house for storing powder, in which he secretly conducted a contraband traffic. While he was going about incautiously in this place with a light the powder was ignited and the whole building blown into the air. The number of persons killed was not at last accounts accurately known, but many disfigured corpses and mangled limbs and fragments of bodies have been taken from the ruins.

THE Chinese in California are quick and shrewd to take advantage of the scarcity of labor which the exclusion of their countrymen from the country is sure to produce in that State. At San Francisco, the other day, a corporation, wishing to employ a Chinese contractor to furnish a large number of Chinese laborers, was met with this reply: "I furnish you men now, you only pay one dollar and one bit; bymby, no more Chinamen come, you can find plenty for work, then you give me dollar fifty cent. I have work now, I no get; I think I wait for dollar fifty cent. Good-by."

IT is generally supposed that the practice of adulterating articles of food is of modern origin, but Prof. Erdmann has shown in an article in Nature that the ancient Greeks and Romans already were the victims of this practice. Among the articles commonly adulterated he mentions flour, grain [illegible], spices, and especially wines.

THE Louisville School of Pharmacy is now open to women, its first young lady student having recently entered with the intention of taking a full course. A practical druggist in Louisville declares that, after having employed both men and women, he is persuaded that the latter will make the better drug-clerks.

Yes, I know; most fellows will;
Went and tried it once myself, sir,
Though you see I'm single still.
And you met her—did you tell me—
Down at Brighton last July,
And resolved to ask the question
At a soirée? So did I.

So you strolled along the terrace,
Saw the summer moonlight pour
All its radiance on the waters
As they rippled on the shore;
Till at length you gathered courage
When you saw that none were nigh—
Did you draw her close and tell her
That you loved her? So did I.

Well, I needn't ask you further,
And I'm sure I wish you joy;
Think I'll wander down and see you
When you're married—eh, my boy?
When the honeymoon is over,
And you're settled down, we'll try—
What? The deuce you say! Rejected!
You rejected? So was I.

PEKIN, Ill., Sept. 23.—A wild freight, carrying stock to the State fair, on the Wabash, in charge of Conductor C. F. Flettemyer, encountered a broken switch two miles south of this city early this morning. The engine and entire train passed safely across, excepting the caboose and rear car, which left the track and were completely wrecked. In the box-car was Richard Stone, of Stonington, Ill., and his nephew, William Pointing, aged 16, the son of a wealthy farmer. They were in charge of the stock.

THE LIST.

The boy was struck by a box and killed.

Mr. Stone escaped with a broken collar-bone, a scalp wound, and internal injuries. Although badly hurt, he will probably survive.

Dan Meyers, a tramp, had his scalp nearly torn off.

In the caboose, B. C. Lane, of Springfield, received slight injuries.

The conductor also escaped with minor bruises.

F. V. Pratt, of Hollis, had two fingers mashed.

Thomas Wyley, of Jacksonville, a brakeman, received a bad cut in the cheek.

Strange to say, no stock was seriously hurt. The wounded are quartered at the Bemis, in this city. An inquest was held, in which the company was not censured.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 23.—A wild freight-train with live-stock for exhibition at the State fair which left Springfield at 11:30 last night via the Wabash in charge of Freight-Conductor Flettemyer came to grief at Gravel Bluff switch, seven miles south of Pekin, at 4 o'clock this morning. All the train, with the exception of the last freight-car passed safely. This left the track and was THROWN VIOLENTLY IN THE DITCH.

In this car were a number of fine sheep and hogs in boxes.

Richard Stone, of Stonington, Ill., had his collar-bone broken, eye gashed, and injured internally.

William Pointing, his nephew, a boy of 16 years, son of a wealthy farmer, was instantly killed, a box of heavy hogs striking him on the head.

A man named Connelly was severely but not fatally injured.

Dan Meyers had his scalp torn off.

B. C. Lane, of Springfield, a scalp wound.

The brakeman, Thomas Wyle, gashed on the cheek.

Conductor Flettemeyer, who was in the car, escaped with a scratch.

None of the sheep or hogs were injured. The injured are under the care of the Wabash Company's surgeon at Pekin. It is not supposed any of the injured will die.

Grounding of an Ocean Steamship Near Cape May.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LEAVILLE, N. J., Sept. 23.—The steamship Nuphar, Capt. Brooke, from North Shields, England, for Philadelphia, with pig-iron and drugs, grounded on Townsend Inlet Bar, about twenty miles above Cape May, at 4 o'clock this morning, and now lies directly across the inlet. She draws nineteen feet of water. Her cargo is being jettisoned. A tug has been telegraphed for with the expectation of getting her off. She was boarded by the crew of Life-Saving Station 34. The Nuphar is a new iron vessel of 1,963 tons register, and was built at North Shields, England, last year. She left Newcastle on Sept. 5, with a cargo consisting of pig-iron, grindstones, and chemicals, valued at about $50,000. The steamship is valued at $250,000, and her owners are Joseph Robinson & Co., of North Shields.

LATER.

The value of the cargo is $50,000. At a late hour this evening she was expected to go to pieces.

Yesterday's Developments in the Tunnel Slaughter at New York City.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—William C. B. Rawson, the telegraph operator in the employ of the Harlem Line at Ninety-eighth street, near the scene of yesterday's accident, was arrested this morning, as also were Conductor Rood and Brakeman Robbins, of the Port Chester special. The prisoners were locked up in the Nineteenth Sub-Precinct Police Station in the Grand Central Depot. Rawson, the telegraph operator, is only 18 years of age. The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad officials insist that he should have detained the Harlem rapid-transit train until he received notification from the Eighty-sixth street station that the Port Chester special had started from that station to the Grand Central Depot.

SUPERINTENDENT J. N. TOUCEY, of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, which exercises authority over all the territory where the tunnel is located, and Capt. Tooker of the police station, listened to a statement made by Rawson, but declined to acquaint the public with the details. It was discovered at this time that Robbins, who was supposed to be the rear brakeman of the Port Chester special, was in fact the "water-boy" of the train, and the disappearance of the actual brakeman was unaccounted for. It was said by railroad men, not connected with the New York Central & Hudson River and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads, that the officers of the first-mentioned road, representing the New York & Harlem Railroad Company, intend, if possible, to fix the blame upon the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad people.

THE CONDITION OF THE WOUNDED

in the Grand Union Hotel and in the Roosevelt Hospital was much improved. It was thought that the Misses Viola Bennet and Georgiana Bennet, stepdaughters of John K. Matthews, United States local inspector of steam vessels, may be removed from the Grand Union Hotel within a week. Miss Viola, who was wounded in the head, believed that she had sufficiently recovered today to go her home, but she proved unequal to the journey, and was returned to her bed in the hotel. Miss Lizzie Crommeline, who is also confined to a bed in the hotel, was suffering considerably from her injuries, and Prof. Bull, of Bellevue Hospital, thought it her left arm, and was decided by the surgeons not to amputate Alonzo Bray's leg. William Brinkerhoff and James Harper, who are also in the hotel, are slowly recovering from their injuries. Sherman Abramson, who had his left leg broken, is in a private room in the Roosevelt Hospital. Dr. Edgar T. Weed, of the hospital, thinks that Mr. Abramson will recover. Elizabeth Grimble, who lives at Mount Vernon, and whose left limb was amputated by the surgeons, was said to be recovering today.

MIGHT BE NECESSARY TO AMPUTATE

A POOR, OVERWORKED BOY BAILED.

To the Western Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—At the Coroner's inquest tonight concerning the disaster in the tunnel of the New York Central Road, Rawson, the telegraph operator, testified as follows: I held the New Haven from 8:49 to 8:56, when I received a signal and sent it on, and noted the leaving-time in the office, and reported to Eighty-sixth and One-Hundred-and-Tenth street. I had a number of train reports that I had to send to the dispatcher, and as no train was in sight I went on with my reports, and as there were a number of other offices trying to report trains I had a great deal of trouble to get in my reports to Eighty-sixth street and One-Hundred-and-Tenth street. While engaged in reporting coming down at about Ninety-eighth street. At the same time the operator at Seventy-second street reported to Eighty-sixth street, "Train not clear yet," and I then knew the train at Eighty-sixth street could not be clear either. I ran out to lower my flag, but the ram had twisted the rope, but I could not put it out before the train passed under my station. I telegraphed Eighty-sixth street to stop her, and received answer, "Brakemen will stop her." I did not put out my flag after the New Haven train on account of business on the wire and my attention being called to the main track. I am 18 years old.

I SAW A RAPID-TRANSIT

ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY-EIGHT TRAINS

pass my office a day. At the time the rapid transit came along I was nervous and excited, trying to get my reports in and flag out. Testimony was given to show that brakeman Robbins had plenty of time to go back and stop the approaching train. The Coroner held the operator in $3,000, and Robbins, the brakeman, and Rood, the conductor in $2,000 each. Bail was furnished.

THE LATEST FROM PARIS.

How the New Styles Appear Simultaneously in Paris and Chicago.

The ladies will be interested in the fact that Messrs. A. Bishop & Co., 156 State street, received yesterday the first invoice of new styles in silk and fur-lined garments direct from the well-known house of Revillon Frères, 79 and 81 Rue de Rivoli, Paris, who rank as the leading house in the line of furs and silk garments in France, and are recognized as the authority on styles by the fashionable world. These styles are taken to London and sometimes to New York, and ordinarily they would not come to Chicago till the following year. This season, however, thanks to the enterprise of Messrs. Bishop & Co., who secured advance patterns, the new styles are shown in Chicago simultaneously with their appearance in Paris. In addition to this display Messrs. Bishop & Co. are showing new and rich designs in fine seal garments, having by a similar stroke of enterprise secured a large stock of extra choice seal skins, colored by a new process by the best London dyers. They also have some particularly graceful and elegant designs in ladies' seal hats and caps. Messrs. Bishop & Co. wisely dispense with the formalities of a regular "opening," but are pleased to see their friends and show their goods at all times.

CLEAN AND HEALTHY FEATHERS.

There is nothing that enters into our domestic economy of more vital importance from a sanitary standpoint than that of pure and healthy conditions in our sleeping apartments. Recognizing this fact, THE TRIBUNE is glad to herald the advent amongst us of the Cold Blast Feather Company, wholesale and retail dealers in clean and odorless feathers, who have just located at 74 Adams street. The system controlled by the company for cleansing and purifying feathers is destined to create a complete revolution in this branch of industry. In all other systems the feathers are simply steamed and dried by excessive heat, thereby destroying all vitality of the quill and fibre and reducing them to powder after short use, and also allowing the dust, grease, and animal matter to adhere to the feathers and become hard and permanently fixed upon them, producing while in use the most unwholesome odors, generated by the heat of the body. In the Cold Blast system all this is obviated; after the washing and sweating process, and while all deleterious substances are soft and but slightly adhering, the feathers are whirled through an immense revolving cold-blast machine, traveling miles of space during the process with the velocity of the wind and the force of a cyclone, till all the obnoxious particles are removed and the feathers come out absolutely clean, pure, and sweet. The company buy and sell only new goods, but they clean old feathers for those who wish to avail themselves of this new process.

THURBER & CO., FANCY GROCERIES.

One of the most attractive exhibits at the Exposition is that of H. K. & F. B. Thurber & Co., manufacturers of fancy groceries. They have establishments in New York, New Jersey, and France, and specimens of all the articles they put up—peaches, pears, prunes, sardines, etc.—are shown. They are the largest manufacturers of farinaceous goods in the world. The arrangement is very artistic, immense columns of canned goods flanking a pyramid composed of bottled articles, the effect of the whole being very beautiful. Everything looks fresh and wholesome, and "I wish I had some," is the remark made by all the people who stop to admire the display. The name of Thurber, it is unnecessary to state, is synonymous with good quality and honest quantity. Mr. C. H. Smith, Room 6, No. 150 Dearborn street, is the Chicago agent.

Close of the Chicago Trotting Meeting—The Four-Year-Old Record Beaten by Jay Eye See in Two Heats.

The closing day of the trotting meeting in connection with the Horse Fair was an eminently successful one, especially in regard to fast time. The most notable performance of the afternoon was the trotting of the 4-year-old gelding Jay Eye See, the record for horses of his age being lowered three-quarters of a second in both the third and fourth heats of the race. Three years ago last July the now celebrated mare Trinket started at Louisville in a race for 5-year-olds and under, she being then in her fourth year. The first heat of the race was won by Von Arnim in 2:22, Trinket taking the next three, and trotting her fourth mile in 2:19¾. Until yesterday this record remained unbeaten, although numerous attempts to lower the figures set by the Kentucky filly have been made. Jay Eye See, it will be remembered, trotted a remarkable race over the Chicago track last July, winning the fifth heat in 2:22¾ and the sixth in 2:23½, after making a bad break in the last quarter. The wonderful speed shown by him on that occasion determined his owner, Mr. J. I. Case, of Racine, to fit him for a trial mile this fall, in the hope of lowering the 4-year-old record. As matters turned out the colt was engaged in a special race for horses of his age offered at the fall trotting-meeting here, and in this race the only other starter was the bay mare Bronze. With no large field to bother or interrupt his colt Mr. Case decided that the attempt to beat the record should be made in the race. The first heat was trotted and won by Jay Eye See in 2:22¼, no effort at a high rate of speed having been made. In the second heat, where it was expected that fast time would be shown, the colt made an unfortunate break at the first turn, and another one when near the three-quarter pole placed him so far behind Bronze that no effort to win the heat from the mare was made, she jogging home at her ease in 2:29½. In the third heat Jay Eye See went away steady and fast, trotting the first quarter in 35¼ seconds, the half in 1:09¾, and the three-quarters in 1:44. He came down the home-stretch at a gait that certainly would have brought him to the wire in 2:18, but a break about one hundred feet before the mile was finished lengthened his time to 2:19. Although this beat all previous records the performance was inasmuch as the colt had finished on a break. "He will go the next mile faster than ever," said Budd Doble, who drove the colt in his race here last July, to Mr. Case. Before Jay Eye See and Bronze were called out for the fourth and last heat of their races nearly an hour had elapsed. The sun was almost down and the air entirely too chilly for the best exhibition of a horse's speed. After appearing on the track and scoring down once the 4-year-olds were sent away on their journey. Bither went around the turn very carefully with the black gelding, evidently fearing a repetition of the break which he had made in the second heat near the draw-gate. The time of the first quarter was 36 seconds, a 2:24 gait only, and when Col. Tough, of Kansas, the official timer, announced the figures to the knot of horsemen who had gathered in the timing-stand, all agreed that the pace was entirely too slow for the record to again be beaten. When the little black horse passed the half-mile pole the watches were stopped at 1:11. In an instant it was seen that Jay Eye See's speed was increasing very fast, and around the lower turn it was evident that he was going a 2:14 gait or better. When it was announced that the time of the three-quarters was 1:43¾, there was a hurried figuring, and then it was known that the third quarter of the mile had been trotted in 32¾ seconds—a 2:11 gait. There was no faltering as the horse came down the home-stretch, and he went under the wire trotting steadily in 2:19, having placed to his credit the fastest record ever made by a 4-year-old and the fastest three consecutive heats by a horse of that age. The credit of this wonderful performance is due in a great measure to the skillful manner in which the colt was driven by his trainer, Edwin Bither, a young man who has had sole charge of Jay Eye See since he was a 2-year-old. But while the performance of Jay Eye See was of course the overshadowing event of the day, the wonderful speed displayed by Bronze should not be overlooked. In the third heat she was right with the black colt at the finish of the mile in 2:19 and was timed separately in 2:20¼.

NOT AN ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY ONE,

IN THE FREE-FOR-ALL PACING RACE, which was first on the card, Flora Belle drew the pole, Mattie Hunter second place, Lucy third, Buffalo Girl fourth, and Gem the outside. In the pools Buffalo Girl was the favorite, bringing $50 to $10 for Gem and $10 for the field. A nice start was effected in the second scoring, Gem and Hunter at once showing in front, while Lucy broke at the turn and fell behind. At the quarter in 33¾ seconds Gem was in the lead, with Flora Belle a good second, Hunter third, and the others strung up. Gem held her advantage until just after turning into the home-stretch, when a break lost her the lead. Buffalo Girl came along very fast, and won handily by a length from Mattie Hunter in 2:27, Flora Belle third, Gem fourth, and Lucy last.

Buffalo Girl now sold $25 to $5 over the field, and the ease with which she won the second heat justified the odds. The start was a good one, Buffalo Girl at once going into the lead, with Gem second. These two mares were really the only ones in the heat, but Gem could never overtake the other, who won with something to spare in 2:15¾. Lucy and Mattie Hunter had quite a race down the homestretch for third place, which the gray mare won; Flora Bell last.

The scoring for the third heat was prolonged for over half an hour, the object being if possible to tire out Buffalo Girl, but when the word was given she went away from the others as if they were tied, and was a length to the good when the south turn was reached. Hickok pulled out of the ruck with Lucy and set sail after the bay mare. The first half was paced in 1:07½, Buffalo Girl being then two lengths ahead of Lucy. Before the lower turn was reached the gray mare made a bad break and fell back, Gem going into second position. She was never able to reach the leader, however, Buffalo Girl winning easily by two open lengths in 2:16¾.

A Great Display of Trotters by the Kittsondale Stable.

The greatest display of trotters and pacers belonging to one man ever seen was given at the Driving-Park yesterday afternoon, when eleven horses whose actual cash value is more than $100,000 were displayed on the quarter-stretch all being the property of Commodore N. W. Kittson, of St. Paul. The horses were paraded in front of the judges' stand one at a time, and their records and pedigrees announced by Mr. W. H. Wilson, of Cynthiana, Ky.

The first to appear was Little Brown Jug, whose pacing record of 2:11¾ is the best, and who has to his credit the fastest three consecutive heats ever trotted or paced.

Gem was next brought forward. She is a handsome bay mare by Tom Rolf, and her pacing record of 2:16 was made this season.

So So was the third animal shown. She is a bay mare by George Wilkes, and trotted when a 3-year-old in 2:31, which record stood for several years as the best ever made by a horse of that age. Her present record is 2:17¾, made last year at Hartford.

Fanny Witherspoon, the fast and game daughter of Almont, was next exhibited. Her record of 2:18¼ was made this year in a race against some of the fastest horses on the turf.

Minnie R. was fifth on the list. She is a bay mare, sired by J. C. Breckinridge, and is noted for her staying qualities as well as speed. At the meeting in this city last July she won the 2:33 race from a fine field, and acquired her record of 2:19 in the first heat.

Von Arnim, a fine looking bay stallion by Sentinel, with a record of 2:19½, was also shown. He has lost but one race this season, and is capable of lowering his present record whenever called upon to do so.

Then came Blackwood Jr., "the Iron Horse of Tennessee," whose wonderful succession of victories as a 4 and 5 year-old are still fresh in the minds of horsemen. He is one of the handsomest horses ever seen, and his record of 2:22¼ was obtained as a 5-year-old.

Lady Rolf, record 2:22¼, is one of the speediest animals on the turf, and at the time of her purchase by Mr. Kittson, trotted a half-mile in 1:05. She is by Tom Rolf, the great sire of pacers.

A beautifully-formed white mare with an intelligent head and gay appearance generally attracted considerable attention when led before the stand. It was Sannie G., by Almont, and out of a mare by the imported Arabian stallion Mohikadi. Her record is 2:27, and she is known as the greatest mud-trotter in the world.

Pilgrim, a high-headed 5-year-old bay stallion by Smuggler, and out of May Morning, record 2:30, was also shown. He has no record, having never taken part in a race, but has frequently trotted miles better than 2:25.

Spotswood, by Blackwood Jr., was the last horse exhibited. He is a 3-year-old, and full brother to Ravenswood, who has a 4-year-old record of 2:26.

The extensive manner in which Commodore Kittson has entered into the breeding of trotters and runners is too well known to need mention here. The trotting and pacing horses are kept at the great stock farm known as Midway Park, near St. Paul, and the entire establishment is presided over and managed by Mr. Ben Woodmansee, to whose judgment and care the entire stable of trotters and pacers is confided, and no higher compliment could be paid the gentleman than the fact that there has never been even a suspicion that the horses belonging to the Kittson string were not driven to win every race in which they started.

A $10,000 Offer for Phallas Refused.

A feature of the sport at the Driving Park Friday afternoon was the trotting of the 5-year-old stallion Phallas, owned by Mr. J. I. Case of Racine, the colt being first given an easy mile in 2:27½ and then sent for speed in the second heat—the time of which was 2:22¼. Phallas is a handsome bay, and was sired by Dictator, dam Betsy Trotwood, by Clark Chief; second dam by Ericsson; third dam by Sir William, a son of Sir Archy. He was bred by Col. H. C. McDowell, of Woodlake, Ky., and purchased when a 2-year-old by Mr. Case, on whose farm near Racine his speed has been developed. The clean, easy manner in which the colt did his mile in 2:22¼ Friday excited the admiration of everybody who witnessed the performance. Among those present was Mr. W. H. Corbett, of San Francisco, and during the afternoon he conferred with Mr. Case in relation to purchasing Phallas. Yesterday morning he made an offer of $10,000 cash for the animal, which was refused, Mr. Case having slept on the matter and decided not to part with his horse.

Notable Sales of Trotting-Stock Yesterday.

Mr. H. D. McKinney purchased yesterday from Maxwell & Simons, of Louisville, for Mr. J. I. Case, of Racine, the 3-year-old gelding Rodock, by Gen. Thomas, dam by Tom Hal. Rodock, besides being a horse of great speed, is an exceedingly beautiful and stylish animal, and has secured blue ribbons at the Chicago, Lexington, and Bowling Green Fairs. He trotted a mile at the Driving Park last Wednesday in 2:31¼, the last half-mile being done in 1:14, and the last quarter in 31 seconds.

C. E. Abbott sold yesterday to Porter Leonard, of St. Louis, the black gelding Jim Raven, record 2:29¼. The horse was driven a trial mile in 2:25½ before the sale. He will be used on the road by a St. Louis gentleman as a mate to the well-known trotter Little Fred, record 2:20. Price $1,500.

Mr. Abbott sold yesterday to S. P. La Monte, of this city, a 7-year-old bay mare by Daniel Lambert dam by Ethan Allen. The mare showed 2:33¼ to road-wagon before the sale. He also sold to the same party the gray gelding Cheek, 8 years old, and capable of trotting in 2:40.

Cornelius Sullivan, of Riverside, has purchased from Mr. J. I. Case the well-known trotting stallion Narragansett, by Rhode Island, first dam of pacing blood; second dam by Davis' Hambletonian. Narragansett is a half-brother to Gov. Sprague, and although he has had but limited opportunities in the stud a number of his colts are fast trotters, and all his get possess style, size, and speed.

Jerome Eddy About to Be Sold for $20,000.

For several days three different parties, two from New York, and one from California, have been negotiating for the purchase of the trotting stallion Jerome Eddy, record 2:16½, and before the present week is past there no is doubt that the transfer will be made at the owners' price of $20,000. Mr. Dewey, who bred and owns Jerome Eddy, left for his home in Michigan last night, and the matter will be definitly settled in a few days.

The Meeting at Springfield, O.

Following the meeting this week at Cincinnati a meeting will be given at Springfield, O., which boasts one of the best half-mile tracks in Ohio. The dates are Oct. 3, 4, 5, 6, and the purses aggregate $4,000. Mr. J. L. Kidder, a worthy and reliable business-man of Springfield, is at the head of the association, and there is no question of the reliability of the management. Many of the horses now in Chicago will go to Cincinnati, and from the latter point Springfield will be conveniently accessible.

Horse-Fair Awards.

The following awards were made in connection with the Horse Fair yesterday:

THE GREAT EXPOSITON.

Notes on Chief Exhibits.

The tenth annual Exposition of Industrial Products excels all previous exhibits in the fullness, perfection, and harmonious arrangement of all departments, and shows most clearly its identification with the business interests and growth of the metropolis of the West. There is less crowding of articles than usual, the exhibitors wisely seeking to represent the quality rather than the quantity of their goods. We note briefly some of the chief exhibits, in different lines, that seem to be worthy the attention of visitors, for uniqueness, completeness, utility, beauty, artistic excellence, and good taste.

N. Matson & Co. make a magnificent display of watches, clocks, silver and copper ware, bronzes, vases, and diamonds. Seventy-five thousand dollars' worth of goods could not have been more judiciously selected to represent the largest and finest jewelery house in the West. Chas. Gossage & Co. exceed all exhibits in their elegant and tasteful display of rich, artistic upholstery decorations, lace, worsted and silk draperies, and India and Turkish rugs and carpetings. There is no surplusage and no deficiency. The trained eye, on looking it over critically, sparkles with delight, and telegraphs its verdict: This is my ideal of an exhibit. Burley & Tyrrell display very rich and beautiful decorated china and cut glass, at prices suited to all purses. For forty years the chief house in its line here, they worthily maintain their preëminence. A. H. Andrews & Co. exhibit school, church, and office furniture, of which they are the largest manufacturers in the world, and their unequaled parlor folding bed, which, folded up, represents book cases, dressing cases, etc. Henry Dibblee has a unique and exceedingly beautiful exhibit of slate and wood mantels, hand-painted tile splays in Egyptian and Limoges styles for wood mantels; tile hearths, grates, brass andirons, fire sets, etc. It is a fireside poem, full of domestic bliss. Persons wishing to see the largest assortment in this line, should visit his warerooms, 268 Wabash avenue. The Western Sand Blast Company have a marvelously attractive exhibit of ornamental glass, engraved by the sand-blast process, for vestibule doors, bank and office counters, railroad cars, and cut-glass advertising signs. The only firm of the kind west of New York, and surpassing all in the excellence of their work, they have made their enterprise, after six years of indefatigable industry, a great success.

Wilson's adjustable chair, manufactured by Mathias Klein, and exhibited by the inventor, George Wilson, is a thing of beauty and a joy forever to the sick and weary, and meets a universal want. It took the first honors at the Centennial in 1876, at the Paris Exposition in 1878, and at the Mechanics' Institute Fair in Boston in 1881, and stands approved by the highest medical and surgical authority in both hemispheres. It prolonged the life of Vanderbilt—say his physicians—three days, and alleviated the sufferings of President Garfield during his last hours. All who have used it deem George Wilson a benefactor.

P. L. Smith & Co.'s show of carriages, including landau, landaulet, Victoria, Surrey, jump-seats, side-bar road-wagon, and Chicago road-carts attracts great attention and is the fullest and best exhibit.

H. J. Edwards & Sons, besides pony-phaetons, road-wagons, etc., exhibit Edwards' popular, new, patent "lightning" jump-seat buggies, which can be changed instantaneously from single to double seats, and vice versa.

Charles Emmerich & Co. have a fine exhibit of feathers, in which they are the only large wholesale dealers here.

Schmer & Co.'s fine exhibit of grand and upright pianos, by their superior workmanship, durability, sweetness of tone and delicacy of touch, is a welcome introduction to music-loving Chicago. The brilliant playing of Miss Lillian Utter of Rockford, E. D. Kline, N. L. Clark, and I. S. Boston has drawn crowds of visitors, where admiration seemed about equally bestowed upon the pianists and the pianos.

THE HOWE MALTING MACHINE.

An unpretentious-looking exhibit of galvanized iron, occupying about ten feet square, in the north part of the building, is the latest triumph of inventive genius, is an entirely new departure in germinating and drying barley—converting it into malt—and is destined to cause a complete revolution in malting. By the old system the soaked barley is placed on immense floors—thousands of bushels on a floor—and stirred every three or four hours by shovelers, who mix it over and over to keep it from drying on top, and from fermenting and growing too much, and matting together. When it is sufficiently grown it has to be removed to another great iron floor and kiln-dried, and during this process the shoveling has to be continued, else the lower portion would be baked and the top not dried. Perfect malting requires equal temperature and moisture throughout the mass, and thorough oft-repeated mixing to prevent matting, and uniform drying at the right stage of growing, and this cannot be done by the hand-shovel in a large room. Some grains will be grown, or dried, too little; others too much. So that a large percentage—15 to 20 per cent—is lost in this way by the old process. Beside, the men, in shoveling, trample on and crush the soft kernels, causing them to sour and become very injurious, thus entailing a still further loss. By the new process, uniform moisture and temperature is secured at all seasons, and the mixing is done by the simplest machinery, the drying is regulated perfectly, and all loss is avoided. By the old process some seven or eight days are required for malting. By the new, it can be done in five, at a fraction of the cost, and dispense with malt-houses and kilns entirely. This machine—the first one built—patented Aug. 28, 1882, is the invention of a Chicago citizen, Mr. William F. Howe, and has been thoroughly tested by expert maltsters, and proved to do just what is claimed for it. It consists of a square metal box, car, or vessel mounted on wheels, resting on rail tracks and placed in a germinating-room, so that it can be rolled under the steep to receive the wet barley, moved over the fire when ready to be dried, or into the refrigerating-room, if too warm, and cooled. The vessel is divided by floors, or partitions, into compartments, with sieves running between them, and by rolling the vessel over the track the barley is changed at each half revolution, and in falling through the sieves is broken up and kept from matting, or if desirable to save space the vessel is run onto friction rollers placed in the track and by means of a crank it is easily turned over and over without changing its location, thoroughly mixing the grain. One man can tend ten cars of 100 bushels each, and smoke his pipe at his leisure, while it would require seven men to do the same mixing, imperfectly with the shovel.

By simply reversing the machine the kernels change places upside down, so that all parts of the berry are equally dried, a thing impossible by the old process.

The malt made by the new process has the true flavor of the barley, because the aroma is caught and retained as it passes through the floors, one above the other, just as the apple cured by the Alden process, with layer above layer, has the nice aroma which makes it far superior to ordinary dried apples. By the new process they get more extract and far better flavor.

The vessels for malting by the new process can be made of any capacity. A syndicate, we understand, has been formed with sufficient capital to push their manufacture. And as they effect a saving of 65 per cent in labor and buildings, and 18 to 20 per cent in loss over the old system, it seems as if the only limit to their general use will be the ability of the syndicate to supply the demand for them.

THE EUREKA SPRING STAGE ROBBERS.

WATERFORD, Ont., Sept. 23.—Most of the business part of the town is burned. Loss, $70,000.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Arend's Kumyss should be the reliance of the physician in all those cases of debility in which prompt improvement of the general tone is imperative. Kumyss is the blandest and most easily digested food, and as such the best nourishment for a weak stomach; at the same time, through the process of fermentation which Kumyss undergoes, medicinal qualities are developed, which we vainly look for in materia medica. In nausea, vomiting, extreme cases of dyspepsia, Kumyss acts like a charm, promptly relieving all the distressing symptoms of such cases. When the stomach rejects all else, Kumyss is retained and assimilated, affording the patient nourishment, strength, and comfort, and, as a logical consequence, nervousness ceases and refreshing sleep follows. In scarlet, intermittent, gastric, and typhoid fever, Kumyss is the best diet. It satisfies thirst and hunger and allays the fever. Kumyss has considerably the advantage over drugs, in that it never can do harm. To dose an irritable stomach with drugs is an absurdity which no intelligent physician attempts in this day. But not only in extreme cases should Kumyss be resorted to; it should be the chief remedy for a weak stomach under all circumstances. The dyspeptic brain-worker with a few glasses of Kumyss a day will improve his digestion and his nerve force. Ladies would be less nervous, more vigorous, and healthier-looking if they would add to their daily diet a few glasses of Kumyss."

Send for treatise on Kumyss. Beware of imitations.

Arend's Kumyss is not sold to the trade, but to consumers only.

A RUMOR.

VICTORIA AGAIN SHOT AT.

Special Cable.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—There is a rumor in town late tonight, at the clubs, that the Queen was again shot at in the stables at Balmoral this afternoon.

EGYPT.

THE DIPLOMATS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The New York Tribune's London cable special says: The surrender of Damietta finally disposes of the Egyptian rebellion. The English and the foreign press are in the thick of the discussion on the resettlement of the country. It seems to be forgotten that it practically remains with Mr. Gladstone to say whether there shall be a reference to Europe or not. The Powers agreed to British intervention on the understanding that any modification of the status-quo should be submitted to general consideration. At present the status quo only is revised, since the Khedive is resuming the Government with the old arrangements, including in which the French representative takes part. It is quite probable, however, that Mr. Gladstone's scheme will make necessary serious changes. It is most likely that they will be submitted to Parliament, and that then a conference will assemble. As to the purchase of a suzerainty, it is strongly pressed on the Government. England declares that she will not encroach on the Sultan's rights. On the other hand, we hear from Vienna that Europe is quite willing to grant England the wardenship of the Suez Canal, with the protection of the territory on either side.

THE ANGLO-FRENCH CONTROL,

THE FRENCH PAPERS

failing to observe that the Control still exists, are demanding that England shall compensate them for exclusion from Egypt by consolidating their influence in Syria. Mr. Gladstone's triumph in Egypt is a crushing blow to his opponents at home. Tory orators are reduced to such mentions as that of Lord Bury, who, having been Under Secretary for War in the last Government, coolly takes credit for all the arrangements of the present war and suggests that the war was precipitated to reëstablish Mr. Gladstone's reputation. The same spirit has shown itself in many of the party organs, proving the strong position the Government has assumed in the popular estimation. Nevertheless it is perfectly true that Mr. Gladstone has ridden off under the smoke of the guns at Tel-el-Kebir.

THE TORIES ONLY HOPE is that he may blunder in the conference. Lord Dufferin shares the congratulations heaped upon Sir Garnet Wolseley by the Irishmen. Whether by the stupidity of the Porte or by careful design, he kept the Turks out of Egypt and prevented the execution of the commission given the Sultan without offending the Powers. The Times says he is a worthy successor to Stratford de Radcliffe.

The project of a second canal across the Isthmus of Suez, the Times says, has probably served its purpose. In Paris it produced a scare, and De Lesseps will satisfy English opinion.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM.

Special Cable.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Jennings' special says: The Government is now beginning to realize the truth of the fact that I have repeatedly insisted upon in these dispatches, that there are many and great difficulties encountered in the process of arranging the Egyptian question. Settling-day has arrived at last, and the claimants are beginning to be clamorous. The Gambettist organs in Paris, to begin with, are demanding the revival of the joint Control, with the influence of France in the affairs of Egypt utterly undiminished. At present, however, the British Government does not seem disposed to consent to any such proposition.

THE OLD CONTROL

is believed to have had a great share in producing Arabi and the National party in Egypt, and consequently to have led to the war. Further, it is held that France has no right to enter Egypt on equal terms with England, having declined to take any part whatever in putting down Arabi's insurrection. The irritation in France at thus being calmly and contemptuously elbowed out of the way can naturally be imagined, and it is evidently increasing every day and may give rise to serious complications.

THE NEXT STEP

will probably be to submit plans for the settlement of the Egyptian question to a European Conference. This, of course, will cause great delay, and in the meantime the British occupation of the Khedive's country will go on and perhaps gradually—almost perceptibly—slip into a final settlement. In a matter like this possession is half the battle, and it is quite among the probabilities that those who fondly believed that Mr. Gladstone would get out of Egypt "bag and baggage"

AS SOON AS THE WAR WAS OVER

will find that once again they have made a total mistake. Russia is arming extensively, and is said to be preparing to put in a demand for the whole Balkan peninsula. Whether she will or not, she will certainly endeavor to get another slice out of the Sultan's dominion by way of compensation for any gains that England may make, or be supposed to have made, in Egypt.

ITALY

is also determined not to be left out in the cold, if she can help it by diplomacy or menace, so you will see that the prospect is darkening so rapidly that it will be by no means surprising should Mr. Gladstone's administration alter its mind about recalling its troops from Egypt, and decide instead to leave by far the larger part of the army in that country.

AT ALEXANDRIA.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 23.—Gen. Wood, on his march to Damietta, reached Chirbin last evening, and was to remain there until 3 o'clock this morning. The railways are blocked by deserters from Abdellal's army.

Gen. Wood telegraphs that Abdellal's troops continue to desert. Of the 7,000 originally, only 800 blacks remain, and they have plundered the barracks, the Governor's house, many private residences and exchanges.

Two men implicated in the June massacres were hanged today.

The fact that several partisans of Arabi still hold Government appointments under the protection of certain Ministers is much commented upon.

The Khedive has issued a manifesto declaring England has great interests in Egypt, both in regard to finances and traffic through the Suez Canal; that for the protection of those interests she was compelled to interfere, but that she has no intention of annexing the country. The Khedive announces that he has authorized Gen. Wolseley to represent him in restoring order and punishing the rebels. All loyal Egyptians are called upon to render Wolseley every assistance. Any one refusing will be treated as a rebel.

AT DAMIETTA.

DAMIETTA, Sept. 23.—Gen. Wood, with two regiments, arrived at Damietta today. Abdellal surrendered at the railway station. The negro garrison, instead of surrendering, fled, taking, besides plunder, a quantity of ammunition.

AT CAIRO.

CAIRO, Sept. 23.—Gen. MacPherson and staff arrived last night. The Indian troops leave Zagazig tonight to march hither.

The British cavalry marched through the city today for the purpose of making a demonstration to intimidate the natives and prevent disorders in the Arab quarters.

THE CANAL.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A Paris dispatch to the Times says: "Certain Directors of the Suez Canal have taken alarm at the view expressed by the Times in its article on the Suez Canal. In order to dispel any anxiety in regard to England starting a second canal they seem inclined to effect an understanding which would give England full satisfaction and perfect security for the future while guarding the general interests at stake. This will probably be the way in which the canal question will be settled."

THE SECOND WAR.

A CONFERENCE OF POWERS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 23.—Count Corti, the Italian Ambassador, has invited the representatives of the Powers to a conference on Sunday to discuss the Greek frontier question.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

FIFTEEN SOLDIERS DROWNED.

AGRAM, Austria, Sept. 23.—While the Wixas passenger and baggage train was crossing the River Drave, near Eszek, today, part of the bridge fell in and the engine and baggage cars pitched into the river, dragging with them some of the passenger cars containing a number of Hussars on furlough. Fifteen soldiers were drowned and thirty injured. The coupling-chains breaking, the remainder of the train stopped on the bridge. The accident is attributed to high water. The bridge is of wood, and supported on wooden piles.

GREAT BRITAIN.

FREE LAND.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The New York Tribune's London cable special says: The trades congress has just concluded its annual session in Manchester. The congress pronounced in favor of the nationalization of the land doctrine promulgated by Mr. George, taken up by Mr. Davitt, and denounced by Mr. Parnell. Mr. Davitt is shortly to introduce the subject to a West-End audience in London. Mr. George has already laid the scheme before a gathering of clergymen. The distrust of Mr. Parnell among the English Liberals has been increased by the publication of a letter in which he insisted on the retirement of the Land-League candidate for Derry to secure the defeat of the Solicitor-General by his Tory opponent.

DARWIN THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN A LITTLE HERETICAL.

In a letter written three years ago Darwin says: "Christ and science have nothing to do with each other. I do not believe any revelation has ever been made as to the future life. Every one must draw his own conclusions from vague and contradictory probabilities." This is held to settle the question of his theological opinions.

THE SOCIAL SCIENCE CONGRESS,

THE CHINESE.

The proposal to introduce the Chinese coolie labor here has roused the indignation of the London Democrats, who are about to appeal to the Prime Minister to influence the Chinese Government to stop the exportation. It is questionable whether coolie labor would succeed here, since it is impossible, save in one or two disagreeable and ill-paid occupations, to undersell the natives.

EARL SPENCER

professes himself satisfied with the evidences his recent tour afforded him of returning peace in Ireland.

MR. GRAY'S SUGGESTION, made from Richmond jail in Dublin, that the American Government should modify its duties in favor of Irish productions has attracted no attention here. In such a matter the English Foreign Office would have the say, and the suggestion is obviously impracticable.

STOCKS.

Special Cable.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Jennings' special says: Our stock markets are naturally a good affected by the uncertainty in foreign affairs, but, upon the whole, business here must be said to be remarkably good. Our harvest, after all, came out much better than was anticipated so that the famers generally have more money at their command than they have had for several years past. The root crops as well as the cereals have been wonderfully good, and the spare cash thus obtained by the agriculturists will naturally flow towards the Stock Exchange. This fact is already keeping up the prices of securities beyond the point usually anticipated at this dull time of the financial year. All the American securities held in this country are good, but the general list is affected by the state of the New York money market. The stringency is likely to be relaxed here next week in the opinion of competent judges.

"BARON" ALBERT GRANT'S PALACE AT KENSINGTON, descriptions of which have, I think, already been published in your columns, fetched only £10,000 at auction. It cost at least $250,000 to build. Everything was sold for "old building material," and a few builders assembled and had a regular "knock-out" auction, carting off the most valuable materials for a few shillings. The mantelpieces and fittings alone cost £50,000. The site of the mansion and its gardens will be made into fashionable streets.

INCREASED WAGES DEMANDED.

THE GRAND SHEREEF OF MECCA DEPOSED.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 23.—It is officially announced from Jeddah that the Grand Shereef of Mecca has been deposed and imprisoned at Taiffe, where Midhat Pasha was a prisoner. Abdalleh Abricoun has been named as Grand Shereef. He is brother to the Shereef murdered some time ago, as supposed, by orders from the Sultan, because he was favorable to the British.

A Mummy's Experiences—How a King of Ancient Times Made His Second Entry into Cairo.

Railroad Gazette.

Egypt furnishes the last bit of railroad humor. Prof. Masperro discovered the mummy of King Merenra. The Arabs had plundered his tomb, taken him out of his sarcophagus, and even robbed him of the numerous folds of cloth in which mummies are wrapped, and the body lay on the ground like a stick of dry wood. To get it to the museum at Boulak was the task of the Professor, and for this purpose it was put across the back of a donkey and so carried to the nearest railroad station at Bedreschin. The person in charge wished to take him as baggage. But on the Egyptian railroads there is not only a charge for baggage, but the charge is not according to weight but according to class. How to classify the dead King bothered the station-agent. After rumaging all his tariffs, new and old, and finding "mummies" in none of the classes, he finally threw down his books and said: "What is the thing good for, anyway? What is it made of?" When the museum people told him it was a man, he said: "Very well, if it's a man he must pay for his ticket;" and, in fact, they were compelled to buy a ticket for his sainted majesty King Merenra, and it is said that out of respect to his rank they bought a first-class ticket for him. But this was not the end of it. At Cairo the mummy was put into a carriage and started for the museum. Arriving at a bridge, toll was demanded, and the gate-keeper asked what was in the carriage. What a mummy was he did not know, and tolls were according to the object passing, and he must know what class the mummy belonged to before he could pass it. Fortunately it occurred to some one attached to the museum that often a fish had been sent from Upper Egypt, and that one of these sun-dried fish had about the color of the mummy and was not very unlike in appearance. So he says to the bridgekeeper: "Don't you see that it is a dried fish?" Thereupon the bridge-keeper took his book, looked up the rate for dried fish, weighed his majesty, and calculated his charge according to the weight. And so King Merenra, who 7,000 years ago may have entered Cairo in triumph, returned to the Capital as a dried fish.

THE RAILROADS.

East-Bound Freight Shipments Still Decreasing—The Prospects of the Eastern Roads for This Winter Not Very Flattering.

The railroads leading East from this city are getting discouraged. For weeks have the Managers of these roads been predicting an increase in shipments, but instead of an increase nearly every weekly statement shows a decrease. The week just past was no exception to the general rule, and the record of shipments again shows a decrease. During the past week the total shipments of flour, grain, and provisions by the six lines leading East from this city amounted to 27,187 tons, against 29,812 tons for the week previous. For the corresponding week last year, when the Eastern roads claimed not to be contracting any new business at this point because the Eastern lines had so large a local traffic that most of them had become blockaded, the shipments East from this city amounted to 57,036, or more than twice as much as the same roads took out of this city during the past week. It is certainly strange that east-bound shipments from this city should be so light at this season of the year. The crops have been very prolific everywhere in the West, and grain is coming forward quite freely. The Southwestern Association roads running into this city are now doing a heavier business than ever before. But nearly all they bring in either goes into elevator or goes East by the lake lines. This proves conclusively that the business cannot stand the freight charges made by the Eastern roads. There is but little demand in the East and in Europe, and little of our grain will go there unless the prices of grain go lower or the railroads reduce their charges. As matters now stand, the Eastern roads cannot hope to increase materially their business from this point until the close of navigation, and navigation will be open for six weeks yet, and by that time a large percentage of the small grain raised this season will have been disposed of. Even after the close of navigation the Eastern roads will have considerable competition from the Mississippi River barge lines, which will be able to run from St. Louis all winter. While the bulk of the Western business now comes to Chicago to take the lake lines from this city east, it will go to the Mississippi River after lake navigation has closed, and take the barge lines down the river to New Orleans. The Eastern lines from this city are likely to do a small business the coming winter, unless the corn crop should prove unusually heavy. The prospects for this, however, are not very flattering. At the best there will not be more than three-fourths of a crop. The drouth and hot winds have severely damaged the corn in Kansas and Missouri, and in the Western States some damage has been done to the corn by the frosts during the last two nights. The damage done to the corn crop in the West and Northwest by the frost thus far is estimated at from 15 to 20 per cent, and if the present cold spell continues any longer the damage may be still greater.

With a light corn crop, the prospects of the Eastern lines are not very flattering, especially as the business that is to go forward from this city this winter will have to be divided with two additional lines—the New York, Chicago & St. Louis and the Chicago & Atlantic—both of which will soon be ready for business. They may not be able to get a large volume of business in the beginning, but there can be no doubt that they will get some of it, and whatever they get will be so much loss to the old lines. It is not likely that either of the roads will make a war on rates. They are not in a condition to do this, as one of them—the New York, Chicago & St. Louis—has no independent outlet from Buffalo, and the Chicago & Atlantic is owned by the Erie, which is now one of the pool lines. There can hardly be a doubt that they will be admitted into the Eastern pool and given a small percentage of the business. Vanderbilt may kick a little against the admission of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis on the ground that it has no independent Eastern outlet from Buffalo; but as the new road runs nearly parallel all the way to Buffalo with Vanderbilt's Lake Shore and can inflict great damage upon the local traffic, Vanderbilt will no doubt give in at last and accede to the admission of the line into the pool. Much, however, depends upon the arrangements the Eastern trunk lines will be able to make with the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Lehigh Valley Roads, both of which are about ready to open new through lines between Buffalo and New York. If these two lines are not brought within the folds of the trunk-line pool they are quite likely to strike hands with the New York, Chicago & St. Louis, and in such an event a general war among the Eastern lines could hardly be avoided. That the new roads are ready to join the Eastern pools if fair terms are offered them is generally admitted. Yet Vanderbilt may throw such obstacles in the way of their coming into the pool that they will prefer to make an independent fight. Vanderbilt is known to feel rather sore on account of the construction of so many competing lines, and he may consider it best for his interests to make war upon them.

The following statement shows the amount of flour, grain, and provisions shipped East by the six Eastern lines from this city for the week ending Sept. 23, and also the amounts shipped for the corresponding week last year:

	Flour, brls.	Grain, tons of 2,000 lbs.	Provisions tons of 2,000 lbs.	Total tons.
Mich. Cent'l	15,523	1,568	1,896	5,015
Lake Shore	5,574	3,905	1,504	5,965
Ft. Wayne..	15,500	3,997	1,935	7,482
Pan Handle	4,275	966	2,224	3,617
Balt. & Ohio	1,458	1,034	611	1,780
Gr'd Trunk.	11,095	1,712	507	3,328
Total, 1882	53,425	13,182	8,677	27,187
Same week 1881........	85,063	39,518	9,015	57,036

The percentages this year were: Michigan Central, 18.50; Lake Shore, 21.90; Fort Wayne, 27.50; Pan Handle, 13.20; Baltimore & Ohio, 6.60; Grand Trunk, 12.30. The percentages last year were: Michigan Central, 24; Lake Shore, 32.50; Fort Wayne, 13.70; Pan Handle, 10; Baltimore & Ohio, 9.30; Grand Trunk, 10.50.

Threatened Strike of Locomotive Engineers on Gould's Western System of Roads.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 22.—The locomotive engineers of the Gould system west of the Mississippi are on the verge of a great strike. Frequent meetings have been held of late and a plan of action agreed upon, and a demand made upon the management, which, if not complied with, will lead immediately to the abandonment of their engines. The demand was formulated some days ago, but the non-receipt of a satisfactory reply has added greatly to the discontent, and a most anxious and uneasy feeling prevails among the men. So ticklish is the situation that Arthur, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood, who lives at Cleveland, has been telegraphed for, and will arrive tomorrow morning.

Col. Hoxie being out of the city, Mr. Talmage, General Transportation Manager, has acted for the Gould system. Yesterday a committee of the men waited on Mr. Talmage, and were chillingly received by that official. Mr. Talmage promised to forward his response to their demands in writing. Today the engineers held another meeting, none but members of the brotherhood being admitted. One of the engineers stated to a reporter the case from the engineers' standpoint: "At present," he said, "the men are paid according to the runs they make. In order to earn living wages some of them are compelled to make very long runs, as from St. Louis to Texarkana, and thus are compelled to lose a great deal of necessary sleep and comfort. The average wages do not exceed $75 per month. Now, what we want is a change in the system. We want to be paid by the day, instead of according to the mileage we make. We are in earnest in this business, and shall not back down."

"How do the railroad officials treat your demand?"

"Well," said the engineer, "they keep a very stiff upper lip; but I think we have the best of the position. Suppose Mr. Gould's representatives refuse to accede to our request, and we all strike—why, in that case they would not be able to operate their roads at all. There are not enough locomotive engineers in the country to supply the places of the strikers."

"Have the men made up their minds to quit work unless the Gould managers come to their terms?"

"I can't say that positively, because that depends largely upon the action of the meeting today, and upon the advice received from our President, Mr. Arthur, of Cleveland, who is expected to be in the city in a day or two. But every one of the men to whom I have spoken are of the same mind as myself."

"In case the men quit work will there be any interruption of the mails?"

"No, sir. We have no quarrel with Uncle Sam; and even if the Gould managers persist in their refusal to grant our demands the public need fear no interference with the forwarding of the mails. The last thing in the world we want is the least symptoms of trouble. We began this only in a business view, and not as a crowd of strikers. It is our determination to settle amicably, if possible; and I assure you the officials are also so disposed. Yes, there is no doubt of a settlement being made. The truth is, there is no way out of it; and if Talmage refuses us, then Gould himself will have to come in. But, as I said, if no settlement is made, then I anticipate trouble."

"In what respect?"

"Well, we can't go idle, and they can't fill our places. One reason is the men are not to be had, as about 800 engineers are not to be picked up so readily; and the other reason is we won't let them run the engines, even though there were men willing to attempt it. No, sir, the end will be a raise, as we demand, and the men will go right on as though nothing had occurred. Our men are represented by the committee, which is composed of fine, smart men; and I see no reason why the officials do not concede to justice, for that is all it is—justice."

The committee are very reticent, refusing to give any information at all; but it is very evident that they are determined to gain their point or stop trains just as the big St. Louis Fair opens a week from Monday, which would be a great calamity to the city. So far as can be learned, the principal demand of the engineers is extra pay for extra work. They want so many hours fixed as a day's work, and to be paid extra for overtime. By tomorrow it can be told, probably with certainty, whether the difficulties will be amicably and promptly settled or not.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 23.—Mr. Arthur, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, arrived here today to advise with the engineers who are making demands upon the officials of the Gould railroads for more pay and a change of running time. He presided at their meeting today, but their action is unknown. Mr. Arthur thinks the matter will be compromised when General-Manager Hoxie reaches here Monday next, and that there will be no strike.

Rates on Texas Cotton.

Commissioner Frink has just issued the following circular regarding rates on Texas cotton:

At a meeting of the Trunk Line Executive Committee held Wednesday, Sept. 20, 1882, a communication from Mr. S. Frink, General Freight Agent of the Missouri Pacific and St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railways, was read, in which he stated that his line was unwilling to accept a prorate on Texas cotton, as by the New Orleans route it would secure its full local rates. He suggested that the lines east of the Mississippi River should establish low rates from Mississippi River points, to apply on Texas business only.

It was decided that the suggestion of Mr. Frink could not be adopted, and that rates on Texas cotton must be prorated through as provided in Joint Executive Committee circular No. 402.

The request of Mr. D. B. Morey, General Freight Agent of the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans Railroad, that he be authorized to make special rates from New Orleans to Eastern cities on cotton coming from Texas in competition with the steamship lines, was considered, and it was decided to decline the request.

Miscellaneous Items.

The Grand Trunk Railway yesterday brought in three car-loads of European emigrants.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway yesterday discontinued for this season the Lake Geneva passenger-train, which used to leave this city at 8 a. m. The time of the other Lake Geneva train remains unchanged.

Mr. Horace Tucker, General Freight Agent of the Illinois Central Railroad, has just returned from an extended trip through Texas, where he has been looking up business for his road. He reports the business prospects in Texas highly flattering.

Mr. B. F. Horner, General Agent of the passenger department of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad at this point, states that his road will undoubtedly be opened for business by Oct. 15, and that he will be ready to sell tickets at his new ticket-office, No. 61 Clark street, by that time.

Mr. George L. Carman, Commissioner of the Northwestern Traffic and Central Iowa Associations, has appointed Mr. E. F. Laik chief clerk. Mr. Laik has had long experience in freight affairs, and during the last five years has filled an important position on the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad in Nebraska.

Some very valuable improvements have lately been made in Stoelker's "Travelers', Shippers', and Mail Guide." There have been added new and corrected shipping guides for Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and Colorado. A new guide for Dakota will be added next week, and new guides for Missouri and Indiana are now in preparation. As a protection for changes that may occur in shipping directions a supplement has has been added which gives an alfabetical list of all roads in the territory bound by Pennsylvania in the East and the Rocky Mountains in the West, stating where they start and terminate and their total mileage. There are also given the latest shipping directions from Chicago for all points on such roads, and the door or part of freight-house to which goods should be delivered. It also shows the roads with which Chicago roads have joint freight tariffs and between what points said tariffs apply.

How the Bey of Tunis Lives.

London Spectator.

The palaces of the Bey are splendid and incongruous; the Bardo, an hour from the capital, is a fine sample of Oriental architecture and decoration, spoiled by Parisian upholstery and vulgar European carpets. Dar-el-Bey, his only town residence, is magnificent and neglected; his real abode is in a separate building, walled, and standing in a garden, near the Bardo. He goes to the Bardo once a week to sit in judgment on his subjects, and receive the Ambassadors and Consuls of the Great Powers; and then there is a brief stir, and the Court presents a stately picture. "It is, however, only an external brilliancy, and it cannot deceive the visitor as to the misery reigning within the Moorish Empire." Mahomed Es Sadock Pasha Bey is an amiable enough Prince, by all accounts, fond of children, but childless, and very simple in his habits. He has only one wife, and though he pays her a formal visit of an hour's duration at her castle every day, he rarely sees her, as the hour of his visit is generally one appointed for devotion, and on his arrival he goes to a small room in the palace to pray.

He is supposed to know nothing of the management of his possessions; before him all is splendor, behind his back all is desolate ruin. Whichever of his palaces he shall die in will be dismantled and left to decay, for a Bey must not live in a palace in which a predecessor has died. None of them has had himself transported into the street on death approaching, and there are more than a dozen palaces in Tunis today which cannot be used by the Beys. A melancholy example of this absurd custom is Mahomedia, once the magnificent residence of Achmet Bey, who had it built thirty-five years ago, at a cost of 10,000,000 francs. This palace, with its secondary buildings and villas for Ministers and dignitaries, was situated two miles out of town; and when Achmet Bey died the furniture was moved, the floors, glazed tiles, doors, and windows were broken out and dragged to another palace. The heavy marble columns, statues, the curbs of the wells, etc., remained behind with the walls, and he who passes those imposing ruins today might think thousands of years had passed over them. The hand of the Arab destroys thus in our day in the midst of peace, as his ancestors, the Vandals, did centuries ago, only in time of war. So much for Oriental culture!

Georgia Hospitality.

Detroit Free Press.

As I got beyond Rossville, in riding out to the battlefield of Chickamauga, it began to rain, and the way the thunder roared and lightning flashed and the floodgates opened was appalling. A farmer just over the Georgia line beckoned me in out of the wet, and there I stuck from 1 o'clock until dark. It was a steady storm, without a break for a minute, and as there were no signs of its clearing up before midnight the man said I had better stay all night. It looked that way to me, too, but it was a log house with only one room, and only two beds for the twelve of us. There were six children, some half-grown, the farmer and his wife, an old woman, a son-in-law, a young woman, and myself. It looked as if some of us would have to stand up to sleep, and along about 9 o'clock I began to get nervous. Perhaps the man noticed it, for soon after that he said.

"Stranger, we'll step out and look at the weather."

We went to the barn, and after a look at the horse returned and found all the women in one bed and the light out.

"Shake off and jump into t'other bed," whispered the man, and I followed directions. I was no sooner in bed than he followed. Then came the young man, and then the old one, and then three boys lay across our feet, the upper one resting across my knees. It was impossible to move or turn, but in ten minutes all were snoring away as if that was their usual way of going to bed. I heard the old clock strike 11, 12, 1, and 2, and was finally dozing off when some one opened the door, walked in, and began to undress. The noise aroused the farmer, who carefully called out:

"Who's that?"

"Me!"

"Who's me?"

"Jim Baker."

"Oh, Jim, eh! Want to stay all night?"

"I reckon."

"Well, strip off and pile in between the fust two on the front—there's only four of us lying len'thwise."

Jim piled in without another word being said, and was soon asleep, and as I was sliding silently out to finish the night on the floor the farmer sleepily queried:

"That you, Tom? Pull off yer butes and slip in here—lots of room left yet!"

The Failure of Alonzo Follett a Very Serious Affair.

He Had a Fine Business, Handling $125,000,000 of Paper Yearly.

He Kept a Palatial House and Finally "Dabbled" in Grain.

His Liabilities Are Estimated All the Way from $400,000 to $700,000.

Comments of the "Sun," "World," "Journal of Commerce," and "Post" on the Same Interesting Subject.

ALONZO FOLLETT.

HE HAS RUINED HIMSELF AND HIS FRIENDS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—On a suit brought by Henry Warner in the Supreme Court against Alonzo Follett, the Wall street broker and dealer in commercial paper, who is seriously embarrassed financially, Judge Donohue has granted an attachment against the property of Mr. Follett, and this afternoon the latter filed an assignment, without preferences, for the benefit of his creditors, to Mr. Solomon Hanford, attorney, at No. 35 William street. Mr. Follett is said to be the owner of property in Illinois worth $100,000, and he also owns valuable property in Massachusetts. He is reported to have paid $90,000 recently for the handsome dwelling where he resides in West Fifty-third street. The amount of

is not known, but it is variously estimated at from $400,000 to $700,000. Speculation in the grain market, an attempt to carry friends who were financially embarrassed, and extravagant living far beyond his means are the causes assigned for Mr. Follett's financial troubles. He was the second largest broker of his class in the city, and dealt only in gilt-edged paper, his principal customers being the leading leather men and some of the most prominent iron, grocery, and dry-goods houses in the city. Mr. Follett's office in Wall street was open during business hours today, but no business was transacted. To all inquirers Mr. Follett's chief clerk stated that his employer had not been in the office.

IN "THE SWAMP,"

JACKSON S. SCHULTZ, of Schultz, Southwick & Co., leather dealers, at No. 111 Cliff street, said today that his firm had lost $15,000 through Mr. Follett's embarrassment. Cashier Baldwin, of the Manhattan Company's State Bank, No. 40 Wall street, stated today that he did not believe Mr. Follett's embarrassment was caused by any demand that the bank had made upon him. "Mr. Follett's financial distress did not begin with our demand for the money he owed this bank," said Mr. Baldwin; "he had other obligations that he could not meet." The commercial papers, amounting to about $125,000, which Mr. Follett had given the Manhattan Company's bank for a one-hundred-thousand dollar loan, will be advertised for sale next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The terms of the loan, it is claimed, give the bank the right to sell all of the securities.

is a partner in the firm of Tuttle & Follett, who have a large nursery at Bloomington, Ill. Dispatches received at Bradstreet's Mercantile Agency stated that the Sheriff had taken possession of the property, which was attached by Henry A. Richardson, of the firm of Richardson, Boynton & Co., of this city. Other attachments are expected to follow. The nursery was established in 1852. Tuttle & Follett succeeded F. K. Phoenix as proprietors in 1878. The capital invested in the business is said to be $120,000. The firm owns 600 acres of nursery land valued at $100 per acre, and which is assessed at $28,000. They carried an insurance on stock and buildings of $80,000. Mr. Tuttle was regarded as the capitalist of the firm, and was rated worth $500,000. Mr. Tuttle was reported to be the associated with Mr. Follett in his business here. Mr. Follett was formerly in the manufacturing business, and the originator of the ladies' paper bonnets which were quite the rage some twenty years ago. They were said to be made of wood pulp, in imitation of chip straw. He made a bad failure and involved several firms, one of which, it is said, lost $400,000.

MR. HENRY WERNER, LEATHER DEALER, of No. 68 Cliff street, who had been doing business with Mr. Follett for some time past, stated this evening that he could not account for Mr. Follett's failure in any other way than that he had been speculating. "Why," said he, "Mr. Follett had a splendid business. He handled the best paper in New York. I presume that he handled more than $125,000,000 worth of commercial paper in a year, and his commission was one-quarter of 1 per cent."

AMONG THE BANKS

that have bought commercial paper from Mr. Follett is the Importers' and Traders' National Bank. President Perking said today that the bank had never lost a dollar through him, and would not be affected by his failure. It was reported that Mr. Michael Snow, Vice-President of the Alta Northern Mining Company, was associated with Mr. Follett in the negotiation of commercial paper among dry-goods houses in this city, but Mr. Snow denied tonight that he had any business relations with Mr. Follett for three years.

MR. TUTTLE'S STATEMENT.

Mr. John S. Tuttle, one of the gentlemen badly involved by Mr. Follett's failure, tonight said that he cannot tell how deeply he is involved, as his losses will depend to a great extent upon the number of failures which will follow. He had indorsed to a large amount the paper of both Mr. Van Wagenen and Mr. Richardson, and the paper of both has been protested. He saw Mr. Van Wagenen this evening, and the latter stated that he was involved to a very large amount—several hundred thousand dollars—he having indorsed for a brother to a considerable sum. Mr. Van Wagenen informed Mr. Tuttle that he thought he could meet all his liabilities if he could have a little time in which to dispose of his real estate. Last winter in first-class paper to Mr. Follett to keep, Follett representing that he could dispose of it to advantage. While West Mr. Tuttle wrote about the paper, but could get no reply. On his return home he found that Mr. Follett had sold the paper and appropriated the money to his own use. Since then he has obtained from Mr. Follett only about $20,000. The secret of Mr. Follett's failure was revealed by Mr. Tuttle. Mr. Follett told him recently that last winter he went into a pool with three other gentlemen, one of whom was Mr. Henry A. Richardson, of Richardson, Boynton & Co. This pool was for a deal in grain. In it he said that the members of the pool lost $30,000 in all. Subsequently Mr. Tuttle discovered that each member of the pool lost $30,000, or a total of $120,000. Since that time both Mr. Follett and Mr. Richardson have been operating heavily in the grain market, and this, he is certain, is the reason for the financial embarrassments of both. He says he knows that Mr. Follett has been a heavy operator.

MR. TUTTLE INTRUSTED $135,000

THE FIRM OF RICHARDSON, BOYNTON & CO.,

whose failure was reported today, are dealers in stoves, furnaces, and ranges at Nos. 232 and 234 Water street, and have their foundry in South Brooklyn. The firm was established in 1849, and has done a large and profitable business ever since its establishment. It was learned that paper of the firm of Richardson, Boynton & Co. amounting to $37,500 went to protest during the past week. The firm's foundry and plant in South Brooklyn, the original cost of which is stated to have been about $135,000, is mortgaged for $100,000. It was reported on the street today that the failure of the firm of Richardson, Boynton & Co. was brought about in part by Mr. Henry A. Richardson's unsuccessful operations in grain. It is asserted that at the time of the recent break in the market Mr. Richardson was CARRYING ONE MILLION BUSHELS OF GRAIN.

The break involved a loss of 20 cents a bushel, or $200,000. In order to meet his engagements his paper was put on the market so freely as to create suspicion. In connection with this allegation is the assertion that Mr. Alonzo Follett became involved in trying to carry the firm and save them from impending ruin. One estimate of the amount of paper that Richardson, Boynton & Co. have out is $300,000.

MURPHY.

WHAT HE DENIES—TWEED'S TESTIMONY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The World tomorrow will have the following: As Mr. Henry C. Murphy announced that he was willing to answer any inquiries that might be asked him concerning any misconduct of his as President of the Board of Trustees of the East River Bridge, a World reporter put the following questions to him yesterday. His answers are given in his exact words:

"Mr. Murphy, you are charged with having authorized Tweed to bribe the New York Common Council to pass an ordinance taking New York into the bridge control. Is this so?"

"It is not."

[Mr. Tweed in the summer of 1877 distinctly swore that Murphy did this. His testimony is as follows: "After I was in the Senate, a brother of Senator Murphy called on me and stated that he desired to have the Common Council authorize the Controller to issue bonds or give money to the amount of $1,500,000 for the benefit of the bridge. I told him I had nothing to do with the Common Council at that time, and was not a member of it. 'But,' said he, 'can't you influence them?' I told him I hadn't done any lobbying business there,

BUT MIGHT, IF NECESSARY.

Shortly after he called again. In the meantime I had conversed with a gentleman occupying a position in the Board of Aldermen which entitled him to credence, and he told me the appropriation could be passed by paying for it. I forget how much he told me; it was either $55,000 or $65,000 was agreed upon. I informed the Senator of that fact. He told me to go ahead and make the negotiation. I did so, and the money was authorized to be appropriated or the bonds issued. I can't tell the manner in which it was done, but that was the result. The Brooklyn bridge was authorized to get $1,500,000 in bonds, and a little while after that I paid into the hands of the President of the Board of Aldermen either $55,000 or $65,000."

Q.—Did you tell the Senator that you were going to get the necessary ordinance passed by paying for it? A.—That was the understanding.

Q.—Did you tell him subsequently that you had done it? A.—Yes, sir.]

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

PROMPT DENIAL OF THE "HERALD'S" CHARGES.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The Mail and Express, which was referred to in the Herald's remarkable article this morning as one of the quartet of newspapers supporting Jay Gould's alleged endeavor to control the New York Associated Press, hits back in its edition of this evening in a vigorous manner. It terms the Herald's editorial "astounding," and copies it, as it states, for two reasons, which are, to use its language, "first, because this editorial contains statements and inferences which, as regards this paper, are without any foundation in fact; second, because these inferences are so extraordinary, unprovoked, and peculiar that we want our own readers to contemplate them in their original form, lest it might be thought that or misrepresented our contemporary." After showing the drift of the Herald article, the Mail and Express says: "Now, we only propose to speak definitly and authoritatively for the Mail and Express. If the proprietor of the Herald were in this city we could and should satisfy him in five minutes that its assertion or inference that Mr. Gould, or any other man or set of men outside of the proprietorship of the Mail and Express has or have any sort of 'control' over its course and policy is absolutely false. The statements, inferences, and insinuations to that effect are collectively and in detail absolutely false. The Mail and Express is as free to oppose Mr. Gould in the Associated Press as the Herald is. Ever since it started it has been represented at the Associated Press meetings by who was requested to do so because he had been familiar with the workings of the Associated Press from its beginning. Will the Herald or the Times dare charge that Mr. Brooks, as our representative, has been acting in the interests of Mr. Gould? Mr. Brooks was selected as the representative of this paper in the Associated Press for the purpose of continuing, through his experience in that partnership, the policy by which the greatest news association in the world was built up. We will add that the Express was bought and merged in the Evening Mail solely because the former was a member of the Associated Press. The proprietors of the Mail and Express know too well the conditions under which public confidence in any news association is maintained, and paid too much for their Associated Press franchise to favor any sort of 'control' or policy that would change the original and essential character of the partnership—viz.: that of seven free, equal, and independent partners."

WE HAD EXAGGERATED

THE HON. ERASTUS BROOKS,

THE "WORLD,"

replying to the Herald's charges says: "If it should ever become necessary in the interest of truth or of the public to disregard the sensible rule of conduct adopted nearly ten years ago, and binding still in honor upon the respectable members of the New York Associated Press 'that the proceedings of the association be considered private,' the World may possibly have a word or two to say in regard to an extraordinary and grotesque attack on the majority of the Associated Press which was yesterday made simultaneously in three New York newspapers constituting a minority of the association. Oddly enough, these happen to be the three newspapers which, through the courtesy and confidence of their associates, have hitherto furnished the association with a President and with two members of the Executive Committee."

THE "SUN"

says editorially: "A number of our partners in the Associated Press have most foolishly undertaken to discuss in public the private proceedings of that body. Some of them do it more sensibly and judiciously than others, but in this latter category we can hardly include the Journal of Commerce, whose remarks we here quote: 'The Western Associated Press, it is now charged, has made an alliance of some sort with Mr. Gould, and as it is seen that the partnership with the telegraph company would hurt both sides, the new proposition is to place the entire press service of the country in the hands of a joint committee of these two associations, the Western and the New York City, the New England, New York State, and other organizations to be subject to this regulation and buy the news thus provided at such prices as may be exacted. To secure the adoption of this plan by the New York Associated Press, great pressure, it is said, has been brought to bear upon the New York Sun to give a vote in its favor. Its editor-in-chief is a personal friend of the leading manipulators, and will go as far as he safely can to favor their views. But will he vote to put the whole press business of the country into such hands and subject to such influences? This is the problem which time alone can solve. Mr. Dana has backbone enough, if he rebels against such dictatorship, to stand for the right, and if his paper has not been sold out, we believe that they who count upon his surrender reckon without their host. If the Sun votes for such an arrangement the public may draw their own conclusions as to the ownership of the establishment of which he has so long been the presiding genius.'

"We regret to say that these observations partake very strongly of the nature of nonsense. In fact, they incline to be lunatical. There is a just and a justifiable hostility toward the interference of Mr. Jay Gould with the press of the country. That wealthy gentleman has become the proprietor of one of the newspapers belonging to the Associated Press, while he holds the control of another through enormous advances of money, which are secured by the pledge of its stock. At the same time his friend and ally, Mr. Cyrus W. Field, is also the owner of another of these journals, and thus the two speculators, together, can dictate the action of three out of the seven newspapers which comprise the Associated Press. On the other hand, the Times, the Herald, and the Journal of Commerce regard Mr. Gould's schemes and purposes with a natural and creditable detestation, and in this feeling we fully share. But we regret to say that they do not seem to us to be in a state of mind to resist his machinations with sense and efficiency. In fact, the course that they are inclined to pursue is, in our judgment, a course whose result can only be favorable to Gould's designs. This does not seem to us the proper place to discuss these questions in detail, but we'll say that instead of uniting the independent press of the country—and we use this word solely with reference to the operations of these great speculators—in an effort to maintain its independence and to resist the manipulations and the projects of Gould, our three contemporaries seem to us to be pursuing a policy which renders the success of the independent press against him exceedingly difficult and tends to promote Gould's purposes most effectively. What the Journal of Commerce says about the Sun and its editor surpasses our understanding. What does it mean by alleging that we are a personal friend of the leading manipulators, or that we may not rebel against such dictatorship, or that this paper may have been sold out? This is a sort of false suggestion that we were not prepared to expect from a man like Mr. David M. Stone, who is not habitually demented, and we will add that while the manipulators of whom he speaks will have to wait forever before the Sun becomes subservient to their ends, the Journal of Commerce appears to be already enlisted in furthering their designs to the utmost of its ability. It is not practicable for a limited number of half crazy men to beat Jay Gould. It takes judgment and coolness to do that, and we prefer to exercise those qualities in this case as in all others."

Upon this same topic

THE "JOURNAL OF COMMERCE"

says: "More recently there sprang up a difference between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the New York Association, and Mr. Gould and Gov. Morgan, in behalf of the telegraph company, met a committee of the press to negotiate for a settlement. In that interview Mr. Gould laid claim, on behalf of the Western Union Company, to the right to be interested in the collection and sale, as well as the transmission of news, and proposed a joint partnership between the New York press and the telegraph company for that purpose. This having failed, a new proposition was brought forward to join the Western Associated Press, the telegraph company, and the New York Press in such a partnership. It was evident to most, if not all, of the members of the New York association that any connection of the telegraph company with the collection and the sale of the news would be disastrous to both parties. It is even now more than hinted that when any profit can be made out of such leakage no private dispatch containing important intelligence is safe on the telegraph wires. But suppose the telegraph company was a partner in the profits to be realized out of furnishing the news, and it was made a part of the duty of every telegraph operator to send any interesting intelligence of any kind that came under his notice to headquarters, who believes that any private dispatch embodying such news would be held sacred, and the specials which each large newspaper in the country now receives from its own agents would also be tapped for this purpose? Or, if not, they were not, and the telegraph company acted in the most noble and disinterested manner in refusing to profit by what others might intrust to its wire, the natural distrust on the part of its customers would be sufficient to cut off a great portion of its business."

THE "POST"

says: "There is, we believe, another issue involved in the controversy—whether the Associated Press shall allow itself to be forced into an exclusive contract with the Western Union Telegraph Company binding all its members and clients to give all their business, general and special, to the Western Union Telegraph Company, under a threat that if such a contract is not made the latter will take the news business into its own hands. We can understand how the Sun may desire to avoid a quarrel of this kind without intending ever to admit the telegraph company into a partnership into the news business. The exclusive contract system, however, is manifestly a species of tyranny and ought to be resisted upon grounds of public as well as private policy."

M'VICKER WRITES A LECTURE.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Manager McVicker, of Chicago, has written a lecture on "The Press, the Pulpit, and the Stage." He says the stage never was so opulent and independent as at present—the only institution in the country that gives literature any rewards.

GERMANS.

To the Western Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The German Republican Central Committee met last night and passed resolutions to the effect that the German Republicans "hailed with satisfaction the candidates nominated at Saratoga."

PINKERTON.

In the suit brought by Allan Pinkerton against the City of St. Joseph, Mo., to recover $8,[illegible] for services rendered in procuring the return of $100,000 of stolen bonds of the city, and the arrest of the thieves, an attachment has been granted against the defendants' property in this city, on the ground of its being a foreign corporation.

A Chili Irishman.

Catholic World.

Don Patricio Lynch, who in the recent war between the rival Republics of Chili and Peru obtained a well-deserved celebrity, is at present Commander-in-Chief of the Chilian army in occupation of Lima. Son of a wealthy Irish merchant who married a Chilian lady, Rear-Admiral Lynch was born in Santiago in 1825. His naval career began on board the sloop-of-war Libertad, which formed part of the expeditionary squadron sent by Chili to Peru in 1837 with the view of liberating that Republic from the tyranny of Santa Cruz, a Bolivian adventurer, who had united two Republics in the hope of erecting a throne on the ruins of popular liberty in Peru and Bolivia. In that expedition young Lynch exhibited so much address, intrepidity, and intelligence that the Government of Chili sent him to England, where he entered the navy and served under Admiral Ross. In the war against China, on board the frigate Calliope, and under command of an Irishman named Sir Thomas Herbert, he was repeatedly rewarded with knightly distinctions for brilliant services in naval engagements. On returning to England he successively served in several men-of-war, and in this way visited the most celebrated harbors in the Mediterranean, whose historical renown excited his scholarly interest. In 1847 he returned to Chili, where he entered the navy as lieutenant. We find him, when 30 years of age, in command of a frigate, which he gave up to the Government in 1854 and retired from the service, when the frigate in question was converted into a State prison for the detention of political prisoners. Eleven years afterward, in 1865, he reëntered the service when Spain was waging war against the Republics of the Pacific, and the naval talents of Lynch were deemed necessary to the safety and honor of Chili. In this war he held successively the appointment of Naval Governor of Valparaiso, Colonel-Organizer of National Guards, and Commander of a man-of-war. In 1872 he became Minister of Maritime Affairs, and in 1879, when war broke out between Chili on the one hand and Peru and Bolivia on the other, he was still a member of the Government. Among the many services which he rendered to Chili during this memorable war, the most brilliant was unquestionably his expedition to the north of Peru. At the head of a naval and military expedition he undertook the invasion of the Northern Provinces of Peru, which up to that time had been unvisited by war, and which furnished the enemy with abundant supplies. This expedition, which required on the part of the Admiral courage and science of no ordinary character, was conducted with consummate ability and terminated in brilliant success. With a mere handful of soldiers he ravaged the enemy's territory, spread desolation far and wide, captured cities containing [illegible] inhabitants, and then, retreating to the south, took part in a campaign which reduced Lima, and terminated in a glorious and decisive manner the war between Chili and Peru. A division of the Chilian army was commanded by Admiral Lynch in the famous battles of Miraflores and Chorillos, where the Chilians, 27,000 in number, routed the Peruvians, intrenched in admirable positions and 40,000 strong. In these battles the part taken by Admiral Lynch was decisive in its results, perilous in its daring, and glorious in its renown.

Cheap Travel by Water.

Rochester Herald.

The announcement of a 10 cent steamboat line on the Hudson, although made by telegraph yesterday, is scarcely new. The line spoken of was organized in New York as early as Aug. 1, when the steamer Shady Side was chartered and began running between New York and Yonkers, carrying passengers for 10 cents, whereas the old steamboat lines, as well as the railroads, had charged 30 cents. The most important feature in connection with this is probably the fact that the line, which is known as the Columbian Line, is owned by the secret order known as the Sons of Columbia, which claims a membership of 88,000 in New York State and 800,000 in the United States. The Yonkers boat, besides carrying passengers, also took freight at a correspondingly low rate. The business proving profitable, the trips were extended to Nyack, then to Haverstraw, then to Peekskill, and then, as the telegram of yesterday announced, to Poughkeepsie, a distance of about seventy-five miles from New York, and another and larger steamboat was secured. It has been determined further to put on two boats between New York and Albany, and the regular fare for the entire distance is but 10 cents, and if this system is successful the order intend to put a line on the Mississippi from New Orleans to the head of navigation, and another from Buffalo to the Upper Lakes. Just what object the order had in engaging in this business none of the members have chosen to say, except that they desire to see how cheap travel by water could be made, and whether there is such a thing as monopoly of docks. Both questions seem to have been decidedly satisfactorily, for the manager of the Columbia Line says the boats have more than paid expenses, and a signal victory was won at Yonkers, where the docks were all owned by individuals and a landing denied the Shady Side.

THE CITY.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Lieut. J. A. Emery and wife, U. S. A., are at the Leland.

Mr. C. W. Chase, a leading attorney of Kansas City, is a guest at the Palmer House.

The internal-revenue receipts yesterday amounted to $28,708, of which $22,739 was for spirits, $1,574 for cigars, $3,352 for tobacco, and $1,202 for beer.

For stealing $17 which his wife had saved up as rent money and spending the amount for whisky, Andrew Ullman was fined $25 yesterday by Justice Walsh.

C. H. Bacon, of Boston; George W. Lattimore, of Detroit, Mich.; George R. Curtis, of New York; E. J. Adams and J. F. Kirk, of Pittsburg, Pa.; H. H. Sheldon, of Providence, R. I., and William Fielding and wife, of London, England, are at the Tremont.

A. J. Clark, of Albany, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Tucker, of New Bedford, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Bushnell, of Springfield, O.; Thomas K. Milliken, of New York; J. Beavun, of Liverpool, England; and James W. Squires, of Bristol, England, are at the Palmer.

J. H. Murphy, of Davenport, Ia.; George B. Gibson, of New York; S. C. Owens, of Red Bank, N. Y.; William Liddell, of Belfast, Ireland; A. M. Grant, of New York; Dr. J. H. Peabody and wife, of Omaha, Neb., and Thomas R. Lyon, of Ludington, Mich., are at the Sherman.

On 'Change yesterday the chief items of interest were corn and lard. In the corn market there was a lively demand for the longer futures, the orders coming from country operators, who were in a rush to fill in their short sales. In October and November lard speculation was unusually brisk.

Gov. S. M. Cullom and family, of Springfield, Ill.; H. D. Dement, Secretary of State, Dixon, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Hope, of New Zealand; A. D. Shepard, of New South Wales; Dr. G. A. Tucker, of Sydney, Australia; J. W. A. Sanford, Attorney-General of Alabama; and Dr. D. W. Bliss, of Washington, D. C., are at the Pacific.

Although Jim Colbert's name was placed on the black list of saloonkeepers and refused a license he kept right on selling whisky and beer at No. 445 Clark street as though a license was something unheard of. He was arrested yesterday and brought before Justice Wallace, who fined him $52, the cost of a license. The fine was paid.

The giving way of the support of a scaffold on the building at the corner of Thirty-ninth street and Michigan avenue precipitated to the ground Frank Birli, who was at work upon the house painting it. His collar-bone and right arm were broken, and he was taken to his home, No. 436 West Erie street, by the Thirty-fifth street patrol wagon. He will recover.

Lieut. Martin Hayes, one of the officers at the armory, was tendered a pleasant surprise reception last Wednesday evening at his residence, No. 25 Miller street. Something like 150 of his friends from the Seventh and Eighth Wards participated in the festive event. They brought a band of music along and were royally entertained by the Lieutenant and his family.

An erroneous statement has been made in one of the city papers that Prof. Swing had returned and services would be held at Central Church today. The facts are that Prof. Swing sailed from Liverpool on the Servia on the 15th inst., and the steamer is not expected to arrive in New York till tomorrow. This will give Prof. Swing ample time to reach Chicago and hold services a week from today.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lawson, of Nottingham, England, passed through the city yesterday on their way home from Wisconsin. They were accompanied by Mr. William Whiting, father of Mrs. Lawson, of Bloom Prairie, Wis., who will accompany them to England for a year's visit. They were accompanied as far as Toledo by Mrs. Mary Wetherell, another daughter of Mr. Whiting.

G. W. Page, an old man who was at one time quite a well-to-do and very respectable citizen, and who until recently was supposed to be as honest as when he owned property, was caught stealing from J. B. Adams' grocery store, at 480 West Lake street, Friday evening, and was yesterday fined $10 by Justice Walsh, the charge against the penitent old sinner being changed from larceny to disorderly conduct.

Whisky closed the earthly career of two men Friday night soon after they had been locked up by the police to sleep off the effects of a drunken debauch. One of the men, Pat Milligan, died at the Deering Street Station, and the other, John Leonard, at the Chicago Avenue Station. The former was 45 years old and the latter 37. Both men were homeless drunkards. Apoplexy, caused by alcoholism, was found to have been the cause of death in each case.

George Vest called at the armory last evening with a used-up countenance and empty pockets. He said that he went into Paddy Ryan's resort on State street, and that while there he was beaten out $10 by the bartender, robbed of $40 by a woman in the place, and when he made a "kick" for his money the gentlemanly bouncer appeared, and, after pounding him, threw him into the street. He was told to call Monday and get a warrant.

As two officers of the Humane Society were on their way to the police court to attend the trial of Alex Alexander for cruelty to animals they went through the Randolph street market and captured Fred Cregier, a peddler, who was using a horse with a sore shoulder; Charles Kerr, a peddler, working one with sore shoulder and sore leg; and Fred Gray, a peddler, with a horse whose shoulders were both raw. The quartet were taken before Justice Walsh, of Desplaines Street Station, and fined $5 and costs each.

Senator David Davis, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Swayne, will arrive by the early evening train on Monday and will stop at the Grand Pacific. This will be the Senator's first visit to the city since his elevation to the Presidency of the Senate. There has been some talk of tendering him a general public reception on his arrival, but it is understood that engagements already made will prevent him from doing more than receiving such friends as call in the most informal way.

The Saturday Evening Herald completed its eighth year yesterday, and in commemoration of the event came out with a double number handsomely printed on paper expressly made for the anniversary edition. The principal feature of yesterday's issue was a dozen or so of special articles written by prominent clergymen, lawyers, musicians, and litterateurs of the city. Some of these essays are quite bright and instructive, and are all worth reading. The Saturday Evening Herald has achieved a success, and its energetic owners, Messrs. Glover & Dandy, are entitled to a continuation of public confidence and esteem.

Some time ago Mr. L. K. Ely, a prominent Kinzie street business-man, disappeared mysteriously from his home at No. 380 East Chicago avenue. He went out for the purpose of making some small purchase, and when he did not return within a reasonable time the fears of his family were aroused. Information of his whereabouts was sought for in every direction, the aid of the police being called in. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Ely notified the police at the East Chicago Avenue Station that they need trouble themselves no longer, her husband having turned up at Denver out of his mind.

The gambling cases against John Walpole and the pair of inmates arrested with him—John Robertson and John Morrison—were not tried yesterday owing to the absence of young Rosenberg, the undutiful son who "dropped" $90 of his father's money at Walpole's faro bank and swore out the warrant for the arrest of the gamblers. The cases were continued to Sept. 25 at 2 p. m. Rosenberg appeared in court about an hour later and explained that he would have been on hand when the cases were called but for the fact that he was engaged elsewhere in celebrating the Jewish holiday.

The National Polish Alliance, composed of about twenty-five delegates, representing Polish societies in all parts of the United States, is in session at Twelfth Street Turner-Hall. The convention was called for the purpose of forming a National society, to which all other societies would be subordinate, thus centralizing the work. But little business has so far been transacted, the session being given up to hearing reports from different societies. The following were chosen officers to serve at this meeting: J. Andrzejkowicz, President; J. Mankowski, Secretary; M. Kucera, Marshal. A constitution has been drafted for a National organization, and will probably be adopted.

The Saturday Evening Herald celebrated its eighth birthday yesterday afternoon by issuing a paper incased in a handsome cover, and containing more than the ordinary amount of valuable matter. The chief feature consists in a dozen or more articles from the pens of some of the most noted professional people in Chicago. The various essays may be enumerated as follows: "The Stage as a Field for Education," by George C. Miln; "The Organ by the Sea Shore," a poem, by Canon Knowles; "Emerson at Home," by the Rev. John H. Barrows, D. D.; "The Christian Ministry and Modern Literature," by the Rev. Dr. W. C. Dandy; "The New Religion," by the Rev. H. W. Thomas, D. D.; "The Leaders of Society," by the Rev. Dr. George C. Lorimer; "Statesmanship and Society," by the Hon. C. C. Bonney; "The American Voice," by the Rev. Dr. Clinton Locke; "American Opera," by Frederick Grant Gleason; "English Opportunities for Individual Advancement," by Edgar L. Wakeman; "Technical Requirements for Singing," by Frederick W. Root; "Thoughts on Singing," by Mrs. Sara Hershey Eddy; "An Ode," by Mrs. Arabella Del Armitage; an original story, etc. In addition to all this there is a very interesting exhibit of general editorial and other matter.

At 9 o'clock last night James H. Clark, a switchman in the employ of the Rock Island Road, stepped between two trains of freight cars on the Rock Island track near Thirteenth street on the east side of Clark for the purpose of coupling them up. The trains came together with such force that the bumpers were forced out of place, and Clark being caught between the cars was crushed to death. The armory patrol wagon took the body to the morgue. His residence is unknown, but he is thought to be a single man who came here from Wisconsin, and who boarded on Madison or Desplaines street in the neighborhood of the Lyceum Theatre. A gold watch and chain found upon him were taken charge of by the police.

A Scandinavian named Ole Olsen, hailing from Ishpeming, Mich., struck a jovial party at No. 83 North Ann street last evening, and while enjoying himself he was introduced to three of the guests who struck him a terrible blow in the right eye, flooring him, and then went through him, robbing him of $45. The Union street patrol was called to the place, and the robbers were still in the house when the police arrived. One made his escape through a rear door, another, named William Frazer, jumped from a window and was shot at by Officer Bowler, the bullet grazing his face and putting a stop to his flight. The third man, James Williams, attempted to slip past Officer Reid as he entered the front door, but was captured. Both men were identified by Olsen, and are at the Desplaines Street Station charged with robbery.

Representatives of all societies disposed to take part in the training school corner-stone and dedication celebration to take place at Feehanville Oct. 8 are requested to meet the Board of Managers of the school at the Union Catholic Library Hall, No. 204 Dearborn street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. All Catholic benevolent and charitable societies—the German, French, Polish, Bohemian, and Italian, as well as the English speaking societies—are especially expected to be represented, also the temperance societies, the Irish national societies, and all societies, religious or otherwise, organized for charitable or benevolent purposes, or who may take an interest in the success of the training school. It is to be hoped that the societies will be largely represented.

John Walsh, 19 years old, allowed his fascination for the game of fifteen-ball pool to get the better of his honesty, and the result was a shortage of $54 in his accounts. He was employed as a collector by Mr. Robert Stafford, dealer in canned goods at No. 11 Franklin street, and was arrested yesterday by Constable Scanlon on a warrant for embezzlement sworn out by Mr. Stafford. When brought before Justice Brayton the young man acknowledged with tears in his eyes that he had taken the money and played it away on pool. He asserted that he was only $54 short, but Mr. Stafford fears that the amount of the young man's peculations is considerably larger. The case was continued to Oct. 3. Young Walsh stated that he had lost part of the money at Mueller's saloon, corner of Chicago avenue and Wells street, and part at a saloon at the corner of Illinois and Wells streets. An officer of the Citizens' League has his attention called to the case, and the saloonkeepers will probably be prosecuted, Walsh being a minor.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD met yesterday. Three employés tendered their resignations. Five or six lady employés sent in communications accompanied by a physician's certificate asking that they be paid for the time lost during sickness. Such a formidable female sick list provoked a discussion on the advisability of allowing full wages, and the matter was at last referred to the Committee on Administration. The board voted to set apart $500 for the use of the Library Committee in the purchase of books and periodicals. It was decided to have the library-room examined, with a view to improving the ventilation. Mr. Poole reported that the number of books taken out in August was 30,213, against 28,674 for the same time in 1881. The number of visitors in the reference department was 2,413, an increase of 20 per cent over last year. In the reading-room the number was 28,525, against 20,560 in 1881. It is supposed that the records for last year were incorrect, which accounts for the apparent heavy increase in visitors this year.

A VALUABLE PRESENT.

The Hon. E. B. Washburne yesterday made a formal present of seventy-six large volumes of autograph letters to the Chicago Historical Society. Some of the letters date back over forty years, but most of them were written and received during Mr. Washburne's long and eventful public service. Those written by him "from the front" during the Southern Rebellion, and from Paris at the time of the siege and Commune, are intensely interesting and of great historic value. From the fact that the Historical Society has not ample space in its fire-proof vault, already nearly full of precious historical books and documents, Mr. Washburne will keep the collection in his custody till the society has more ample accommodations for such a valuable collection—probably the best private one in this country.

WELCOMED HOME BY THE WHEELMEN.

Mayor Harrison was paid a rather novel visit last evening at his residence, corner of West Jackson street and Ashland avenue, the bicycle clubs calling upon him in a body mounted upon their machines. There were about forty men on wheels, including the Chicago, Ariel, Hermes, and Owl Clubs. They came down Ashland avenue from Monroe street, each wheelsman carrying a little lantern on his bicycle. They arrived at the Mayor's house about ten minutes to 9 o'clock, and endeavored to execute some maneuvres, but the street was too muddy. The display was a pretty one. They halted and dismounted before the Mayor's house, when T. S. Miller stepped to the front and welcomed Mr. Harrison home. They had desired to do so in their own style, and to thank the city through him for the privileges that had been accorded them, which made Chicago the paradise of wheelmen.

Mayor Harrison responded very humorously, and said that he was a bicyclist in everything but his legs, but that they had tricycles for old men like himself. He believed in bicycling because it was rapid locomotion, and this was a fast people. In Paris and London bicycles were popular, and there were no prejudices there against people going on wheels. He then invited them in. They finally took their departure, well pleased with their visit.

A NILES CENTRE ROBBER CAUGHT.

The story of the robbery of William Staats last December at his farm-house in Niles Centre, this county, was rehearsed yesterday before Justice Wallace on the occasion of John Vallentine's examination on the charge of being one of the leaders in the outrage. Valentine, who is a bright-looking individual about 40 years old, with clean-shaven face and white hair, was arrested about two weeks ago by Detectives Londergan and Ryan, and was positively identified as one of the robbers (two are now serving time in Joliet for the job). Yesterday Mr. Staats, who is an aged German, swore positively that Vallentine was the man who came to his door that December night and rapped for admission. There were three or four other men back of him. Almost as soon as the door was opened Staats was set upon by the gang and knocked down and bound hand and foot. Then his niece, Mrs. Ambler, was subjected to similar treatment, as was also her brother, at the hands of the robbers, who escaped with $2,400 of the old farmer's money, the prize which had lured them on to the commission of the crime. Mrs. Ambler was in court yesterday, and was as certain as her uncle that the defendant was the man who had led the gang. The defense did not attempt to offer any evidence, and Vallentine went to jail in default of $3,000 bail to await an indictment.

SUBURBAN.

GRAND CROSSING.

The project of a large ditch or canal, some twenty or thirty feet wide and four feet deep, from Grand Crossing to Calumet Lake for drainage purposes is about to become a cause of considerable controversy in Hyde Park. The project is proposed and earnestly indorsed by the Citizen's Association of Grand Crossing, composed of the prominent citizens and property-owners of that point. It is claimed by them that the proposed ditch will solve the drainage problem and clear Grand Crossing of the surface water. The matter is to be brought before the Board of Trustees tomorrow evening. The town has already appropriated $3,000 to be expended upon the drainage of Grand Crossing, and the association will ask that the appropriation be expended in the manner stated above, and that the remainder of the expense be defrayed by special assessment upon the property benefited. It is certain, however, that the Calumet & Chicago Canal & Dock Company will oppose the project most vigorously. The following reasons were given by the officials of the company to the reporter for their opposition:

The proposed ditch runs through a large amount of property belonging to the company. Lake Calumet is two feet higher than Lake Michigan and is one foot lower in dry weather than the land at Grand Crossing. In wet weather or in a heavy wind on shore the level of Lake Calumet is frequently the same or higher than that of the land at Grand Crossing. In such case the water would flow back in the canal and drown out the land adjacent to the ditch and Grand Crossing itself. The company will pay no assessment unless obliged to do so, and will oppose most decidedly the construction of the ditch. It would be a damage to the property instead of a benefit.

PULLMAN.

The Pullman Company are considering a new arrangement of paying their men, which will be put into operation at an early date. By the present system the men are paid semi-monthly. By the new system weekly payments will be made, and the men will be divided into six divisions, one division being paid daily. The daily pay-roll will average $4,000.

After Oct. 1 no visitors will be allowed in the shops of the company. Several hundred daily visit the town and throng in the shops, plying the workmen with questions and causing a serious interruption in the work. Visitors will have free access to the various points of interest in the city, and will be excluded from the shops alone.

Capt. J. L. Whelan and Sergt.-Maj. H. M. Johnson, of the Second Regiment, I. N. G., visited Pullman yesterday, with the purpose in view of forming a militia company in Pullman. They appeared to be much pleased with the prospect of success.

The number of visitors yesterday was estimated at 700.

IRONDALE.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Calumet Iron and Steel Company recently held the resignations of C. S. Brice and Charles D. Rhodes were accepted, and Dan P. Eells, of Cleveland, and Gen. Joseph T. Torrence were elected to the vacant positions in the Board of Directors. Treasurer Charles D. Rhodes handed in his resignation as Treasurer, and John M. Brown, the present Secretary of the company, was elected to that position. The Directors of the company are now: C. R. Cummings, D. C. Bradley, W. B. Howard, Dan P. Eells, J. T. Torrence, George I. Seney, New York City, and W. H. Brown. The officers are: C. R. Cummings, President; D. C. Bradley, Vice-President and General Manager; J. M. Brown, Treasurer and Secretary.

The mills of the Calumet Iron and Steel Company are located at Cummings, in Hyde Park, where it owns ninety acres of land and gives employment to 1,100 men. The capacity of the blast-furnaces is 3,500 tons of pig-iron per month; rolling-mills, 3,750 tons of nail, plate, and bar iron monthly; and of the nail factory 30,000 kegs of nails per month. Four open-hearth furnaces are in operation, with a capacity of 1,500 tons of homogeneous iron or open-hearth steel per month. This material is used in plows, nails, springs, and machinery.

The pay-rolls of the company average $50,000 per month, and the producing capacity of the works is about $3,000,000 per annum.

The ore used in the mills comes from the Lake Superior region, and is transported by water and landed at the docks of the company on the Calumet River. The officials of the company look forward to a prosperous year, and are making preparations for extensive additions to the works. The city offices will be moved to new quarters in the First National Bank Building Tuesday.

SOUTH CHICAGO.

The long delayed improvement of Ninety-first street is to be pushed forward as long as the weather will permit. The work will begin at South Chicago avenue, and the street will be macadamized and the ditches deepened through to State street.

ALMOST A PANIC.

The Scarcity of Money at Bradford Creates Wild Excitement.

Cleveland Leader.

BRADFORD, Pa., Sept. 21.—For several days past the tightness of the money market has seriously affected the price of oil, and banks here who have never heretofore refused to receive oil certificates as collateral on a 10-cent margin yesterday utterly refused to accept them. This action very nearly precipitated a panic in the exchanges. Such a flood of certificates of oil was never before witnessed, it being estimated that at least 3,000,000 barrels were thrown on the market to be taken care of today and yesterday. Matters reached a climax today, many holders of oil being forced to sell at the lower figures, and the Bradford Exchange is seriously contemplating a suspension of business until the money market shall ease up. Carrying rates, which under ordinary circumstances are but 60 cents per day per 1,000 barrels, advanced to $5 per day, and in several instances as high as $12.50 was paid. This afternoon as the matter approached a large amount of money appeared, sufficient to provide for nearly 2,000,000 barrels, and the danger was thus bridged over. It is rumored that Russell Sage and one or two other wealthy New York capitalists advanced the money.

MANITOWOC'S FIEND.

The Red-Handed Slayer of His Wife Not Yet Caught.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MANITOWOC, Wis., Sept. 23.—The murderer Rothsack has not yet been found, although the country has been pretty thoroughly searched by a large number of officers. A small reward of $200 was offered by the Mayor this morning, which, it is expected, will be sufficiently increased by the county tonight, so as to put mettle into the heels of all our home detectives, and probably draw some from abroad. The two men in Appleton and Sheboygan arrested yesterday proved not to be the ones wanted.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

A Man Shoots His Wife Through the Heart and Then Puts a Ball into His Own Head.

SEDALIA, Mo., Sept. 23.—A man named Porter White shot his wife here this evening about 6 o'clock and then shot himself. Cause, domestic trouble. White's wife left him about two years ago because he abused her. He shot her through the heart and she died instantly. He then shot himself in the right temple, but lived about two hours. They leave two children.

DICK GLASS.

The Celebrated Negro Desperado Escapes.

WINFIELD, Kas., Sept. 23.—The notorious negro desperado, Dick Glass, for whose arrest for numerous murders Chief Bushyhead of the Cherokees offered $600, tied his irons in jail today and escaped amid a shower of bullets. Glass formerly lived among the Cherokees.

MADAME NIME MARIANNE DURAYD.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23.—This morning it was discovered that a woman calling herself Nime Marianne Durayd had disappeared during the night, and a number of confiding ladies mourn over her. She came here about a month ago, opened a "temple of fashion and dressmaking studio," where about twenty-five ladies, attracted by her advertisement, paid her sums ranging from $5 to $10 for a dressmaking chart and instructions which are practically worthless. In addition they all contributed of their work to swell the madame's exchequer. Several creditors are also left to bewail her departure. The woman professed to come from Syracuse, N. Y., and it is believed she has either gone to St. Louis or Cincinnati.

A HORSE-THIEF CAPTURED.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 23.—Detective N. S. Murphy, of Lena, Ill., arrived in this city yesterday in pursuit of a horse-thief who had stolen a team and carriage from a liveryman at Prairie du Chien, Wis. The fellow hired the turnout on the 15th inst. The officer, after being on the trail for several days, lost track of the object of his pursuit at Rockford. He came to this city by rail hoping to intercept. The city police were posted, and at about 10 o'clock last evening Officer Healin captured the thief as he drove into the city. The fellow gave as his name Edward Putnam, and his residence Chicago. He was accompanied by a woman claiming to be his wife. Both departed for Wisconsin this morning in charge of an officer.

THE WHIPPING-POST AND PILLORY.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 23.—Seven black men, two white men, and one white boy were publicly whipped in the jail-yard at Newcastle, this morning, in the midst of a driving rain. The black men took their punishment as a matter of course. Six received twenty and one ten lashes. The white prisoners, two of whom received forty lashes, suffered excruciating agony all through, jumping and begging for mercy. The boy's misery was pitiful, and his back was badly mutilated, although the Sheriff was lenient with his blows. Two white men and one black man stood for an hour in the pillory, being drenched to the skin.

SUICIDE.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MARSHALL, Ill., Sept. 23.—Nineveh Craig, a prominent Democratic politician of this county, was found dead in his bed at the Sherman House this morning, where he had committed suicide the night before by taking sulphate of morphia. Craig is supposed to have become partially deranged. He told several parties yesterday he intended to commit suicide, and spoke to an undertaker about burying him, but no attention was paid to his threats. He retired early last evening, and is supposed to have taken the deadly drug soon after he went to his room, as no sounds were heard in the apartment after 9 o'clock. He leaves a wife, but no children.

Can Sleep Release the Soul Like Death?

London Spectator.

ONGAR, Essex, Aug. 26.—In illustration of the mysterious brain or "will" power supposed to exist, this story appears to me more remarkable than any of the narratives that have yet appeared in your columns. A friend of mine told me that it was related to him many years ago by my mother—the "Ann Taylor" of "Original Poems," "Hymns of Infant Minds," etc.—and that she mentioned the name of the family concerned. Certain circumstances lead me to believe that the family referred to was that of the Watkinsons, resident at Lavenham, in Suffolk.

A son of this family had gone to America. One summer Sunday afternoon they were attending service and occupying a large, square pew near the pulpit, in what I take to have been a meeting-house. It was hot, the door of the small building was wide open, and one of the party, who sat looking down the aisle, could see out into the meeting-house yard, which was shaded by tall trees. Suddenly, to his intense surprise, he saw the absent brother approaching through these trees, enter at the chapel door, walk up the aisle, come to the very door of the pew itself, and lay his hand upon it, as if to take his seat among them. At this moment others of the family, sitting so that he was only then within their sight, saw him also, but at that same moment he vanished.

This strange occurrence naturally raised sad forebodings, but in course of time a letter arrived from the subject of them of later date than that of the vision, and it appeared that he was still alive and well. He was then written to, and asked if anything peculiar had happened to him on that particular Sunday. He replied that it was odd he should remember anything about a Sunday then so long passed, but that certainly something peculiar had happened to him that day. He had come in, overpowered with heat, and had thrown himself upon his bed, had fallen into a sound sleep, and had a strange dream. He found himself among the trees before the country chapel; service was going on; he saw them all, the door being open, sitting in their pew; he walked up the aisle, he put his hand on the pew-door to open it, when he suddenly, and to his great chagrin, awoke.

The question arises, Can sleep release the soul like death?

New York Commercial Advertiser.

An interesting incident occurred the other day at the Western Union Telegraph office. A number of gentlemen interested in stock operations were clustered around the tape, elbowing each other anxiously, to read the quotations. A little man with a black beard entered and approached the tape, which he could barely reach. A big, burly, good-natured fellow in the crowd took him by the sleeve, and, patronizingly saying: "You are a little fellow, and we'll let you in!" shoved him into position. The little man smiled and looked at him through the corner of one eye, glanced at the tape, thanked his new-found friend, and retired. An amused bystander stepped up and said, "Do you know who that is?" "No," said the other carelessly. "Well, that was Jay Gould!" Tableau.

DEFEATED AND DISGUSTED

After a Whole Night's Work the Burglars Were Foiled and Left Unrewarded.

On the night of Aug. 24, 1882, burglars broke into our store with the intention of robbing our safe, which was made by Hall's Safe & Lock Company. They first knocked off the dial of the fire-proof door and expected to drive in the lock, as is usually done with other safes, but the steel plate over the lock prevented this, and they had to drill and chisel before opening the fire-proof door. They then directed their attention to the burglar-proof chest inside of the safe, where they made great effort to secure an entrance. But it saved our money and foiled the burglars.

POLITICAL.

A VERY IMPORTANT MEETING OF the Irish-American Club will be held at their rooms, 90 Washington-st., this afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members are urgently requested to be present.

SECOND SENATORIAL—THE REPUBLICANS of the Second Senatorial District are requested to select and send delegates to the Senatorial District Convention to be held in Judge Anthony's court-room, County-Building, Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating two persons to be voted for at the November election for members of the House of Representatives of the Illinois Legislature. Primaries will be held between the hours of 3 and 7 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 3, excepting in the Town of Hyde Park, where the delegates will be elected under the Hyde Park Club Convention system. The plan of holding the primary meetings, the names of the judges, and the number of delegates to which each district is entitled are as follows:

Fourth Ward, south of Twenty-ninth-st.—Sixteen delegates. Polling-Place, South Park-av. and Thirty-third-st.; George H. Sidwell, F. B. Barnard, D. E. Livermore, judges.

Hyde Park—Ten delegates, to be appointed under the Town Club Convention system.

Lake—Seven delegates. First Precinct, polling-place Town Hall, Stock Yards, J. B. Thomas, H. Stock, A. L. Cory, judges. Second Precinct, polling-place, Hose-House, Englewood; Fred L. Kimmey, Earnest Pierpont, A. Calvin, judges.

G. A. FOLLANSBEE, Chairman.

GEO. P. JONES, Secretary.

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF the Fourth Senatorial District:

The Republican voters of the Fourth Senatorial District are requested to send delegates to a convention to be held on the 28th of September, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m., at Owsley's Hall, northwest corner of Madison and Robey-sts., for the purpose of nominating two candidates for Representatives in the Legislature. The primary meetings to elect delegates to said convention will be held in the various wards (and in the nine precincts of the Twelfth Ward) on the 26th of September, 1882, from 4 to 7 o'clock p. m. The places for holding the primary meetings and the names of the Judges, together with the number of the delegates to which each ward or precinct is entitled, are as follows:

Eighth Ward—Eight delegates. Polling-Place, southwest corner of Halsted and Harrison-sts. Judges, Dr. C. Hogan, Col. James A. Rogers, and James F. Caulfield.

Eleventh Ward (being that portion of said ward bounded by Van Buren-st., Ashland-av., Twelfth and Loomis-sts.)—One delegate. Polling-Place, 53 Nebraska-st. Judges, Thomas Kenner, August Koehn, and Harry Ball.

Twelfth Ward—First Precinct—Two delegates. Polling-Place, 696 West Madison-st. Judges, R. E. Jenkins, H. F. Kraaft, and Charles Johnson.

Second Precinct—Three delegates. Polling-Place, corner Winchester-av. and Madison-st. Judges, G. W. Speck, Col. Follansbee, and George H. Watson.

Third Precinct—Three delegates. Polling-Place, corner West Madison-st. and Hoyne-av. Judges, George W. Plummer, Fred Sherman, and Jacob Grass.

Fourth Precinct—Three delegates. Polling-Place, 1011 West Madison-st. Judges, T. S. Albright, A. T. Doty, and H. P. Thompson.

Fifth Precinct—One delegate. Polling-Place, 1248 West Madison-st. Judges, B. Van Buren, G. W. Spofford, and W. S. Fox.

Sixth Precinct—Two delegates. Polling-Place, 436 Western-av. Judges, L. L. Troy, W. S. Elliott Jr., and Eli Montgomery.

Seventh Precinct—Two delegates. Polling-Place, 329 Ogden-av. Judges, W. H. Nickerson, W. T. Hull, and E. B. Baldwin.

Eighth Precinct—Two delegates. Polling-Place, 211 South Hoyne-av. Judges, J. S. Barnett, S. Jennings, and George Foster.

Ninth Precinct—Three delegates. Polling-Place, 660 West Van Buren-st. Judges, Louis E. Clark, T. A. Parker, and Frank B. Maroney.

JOHN STEPHENS,
Chairman of the Fourth Senatorial District Republican Committee.

Opening!

We have a Daily Opening at our Store of Beautiful Paris and Berlin Novelties, which are not common and which positively cannot be found elsewhere. We have selected and purchased these goods personally in Europe. In CLOAKS we offer the largest selection of Medium and Fine Imported Garments to be seen in this city, and they consist of Dolmans, Pelisses, Paletots, Circulars, Military Jackets, &c., in all the latest and novel fabrics, and in MILLINERY we show the largest number of imported Paris Pattern Hats ever shown. All the rare and new colorings. Ladies who wish a Hat or Bonnet unlike every other she sees will do well to inspect our stock.

Remember we shall have no formal OPENING, and also remember that we have saved the importer's profit by importing all our own goods, and at the same time remember that we propose to give said profit to our customers, which will make these goods cheaper than they have ever before purchased them.

Imported Libotschanar Beer.

"The demand for this well-known and celebrated brand of Bohemian Beer has increased so enormously that many ask for the cause.

"Those in the habit of consuming Beer prefer it for reason of its gratifying taste, which surpasses that of any other Bohemian Beer.

"It is largely called for in families on account of its being strongly recommended by the medical faculty for its nutritive qualities. It is made at the Domaine Libotschan, near Saatz, Bohemia, which district is noted for its superior Hop-Fields and Malt-Houses.

"By a peculiar but natural fermentation the alcoholic parts are nearly entirely destroyed, while the nutritive qualities are retained."

The importation of this famous brand of light-colored Bohemian Beer is four times larger than that of any other Bohemian Beer.

Paddy Ryan's Truss.

The details of the prize-fight in Mississippi between Sullivan and Ryan attracted the attention of Dr. A. H. Parker, President of the Common-Sense Truss Co., of Chicago, who felt confident that he could adjust a truss which would securely hold Ryan's rupture. Ryan expresses his views in the matter as follows:

CHICAGO, June 28, 1882.

To the Afflicted: I take pleasure in stating that after many fruitless attempts to secure an effective support, I called on Dr. A. H. Parker, and was fitted with one of his Retentive Common-Sense Trusses, which holds my rupture so firmly that I now feel no inconvenience from the injury, and I firmly believe that I shall be actually cured.

BASE-BALL.

The Championship Still Vibrates Between Chicago and Providence,

With a Good Prospect that It Will Finally Settle Where It Belongs.

Buffalo to Play Its Last Three Games with Chicago in This City.

The Chicagos Turn the Tables on Cleveland, Winning Yesterday by a Score of 8 to 0.

Providence Wins from Worcester 4 to 0, and Buffalo Pounds Detroit Cruelly.

The Championship Race.

The privilege of flying the league pennant for 1883 now rests between the Providence and Chicago Clubs, each of which has won fifty games, or one more than Buffalo, their nearest competitor, can possibly win. Buffalo is now third, Boston fourth, and Detroit and Cleveland a tie for fifth and sixth, and the only thing now certain is that Troy will be seventh and Worcester eighth. With Chicago and Providence a tie in games won, Chicago still has the best chance, having lost one game less and having one more game to play. Chicago's defeat at Cleveland Friday, by a score of 15 to 6, was a genuine surprise, and only illustrates again the phenomenal uncertainties of base-ball. That day Goldsmith was powerless to pitch his usually strong game—for what reason no man can tell. Yesterday, on the other hand, Corcoran was in great form, and Chicago won by a score of 8 to 0. Such reversals puzzle the inexperienced base-ball patron, and he is unable to account for the defeat of the stronger team except on the hypothesis of "Something wrong." It takes time and the exercise of strong common-sense to get rid of this notion. As the case now stands, Chicago seems almost a certain winner, though the result may not be known until the end of this week. Chicago plays another game in Cleveland tomorrow, then goes to Buffalo for one game, and then returns with the Buffalo team to finish the season in Chicago on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week. Providence has two games with Worcester and two with Boston. By winning all of these games Providence can reach a total of fifty-four games won; to reach the same total Chicago must win four out of five—that is to say, must win at Cleveland tomorrow and three out of the four with Buffalo. It may easily happen that the end of this week will see Chicago and Providence a tie in games lost, which would necessitate a play-off series between the two clubs. Chicago has scored an important point of advantage by the arrangement to play the last three games with Buffalo in this city, permission to that effect having been given by the league at its special meeting in Philadelphia. The proposition for this change of the schedule came from the Buffalo Club, and was prompted by the certainty of four or five times the receipts in Chicago that could be had in Buffalo. In this case the visiting club takes two-thirds of the receipts, and the home club one-third. It is an arrangement advantageous to both clubs, and one which will be peculiarly satisfactory to the friends of base-ball in Chicago. Thus far the Buffalo Club has won six out of the eight games, but, as Harry Wright sagely remarks, "That is no sign for the future." The games will be tremendously interesting and exciting, and with good weather will draw out three very large crowds. The situation of the championship race at present is as follows:

	Boston	Buffalo	Chicago	Cleveland	Detroit	Providence	Troy	Worcester	Games won	Games yet to play
Boston	—	7	6	7	8	5	8	7	43	4
Buffalo	5	—	6	6	4	6	6	11	44	5

Chicago 8, Cleveland 0.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—The champions played a good, steady game today, and won with ease. Corcoran was somewhat wild at times, but his strategic pitching puzzled the home nine, who generally gave easy chances for put-outs. But two Clevelanders reached second base, and none third. McCormick pitched a good game throughout, but was miserably supported in the fourth and fifth innings. The sun shone brightly, making it difficult work in right field. In the third inning Flint made a three-base hit to right field and was thrown out at the plate by Glasscock on a questionable decision. In the fourth Williamson opened the inning with a two-baser to right field, Anson followed with a fly which Shaffer muffed, Williamson remaining at second. Phillips fumbled Kelly's grounder, and the bases were full. Williamson scored on Burns' out at first, Anson and Kelly scored on Corcoran's three-baser to right, and Quest's long fly to Rowe let Corcoran in. In the fifth Dalrymple made a hit and took second on Bradley's passed grounder. Gore followed with a hit, and stole second. Shaffer made a bad miss of Williamson's liner, Dalrymple and Gore scoring, and Williamson going to third. Then Dunlap fumbled Anson's grounder, and Williamson scored. Kelly flew out, and Burns died at first on a hit to right field, Anson reaching second. Phillips fumbled Corcoran's grounder, and Anson got third. Briody threw the ball to Dunlap to prevent Corcoran stealing second, and before the ball was returned Anson scored. About 800 were present.

Providence 4, Worcester 0.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 23.—Providence won her fiftieth game today, defeating Worcester 4 to 0. Richmond pitched finely for six innings, but let up towards the end of the game. In the seventh Start reached second base on Denny's out at third, and Hines batted him in with a three-bagger. In the eighth, Ward went to first on balls, stole around to third, and scored on Carroll's fly. In the same inning Radbourne got first on called balls, York got his base on an error, and Wright's three-bagger brought them both home. The Worcesters could not find Radbourne's pitching, and were kept from scoring by the matchless fielding of the home club. Only 700 were present, the weather being bad. Joe Start was presented with a watch and chain, worth $175, from his many Providence friends. Providence and Worcester play two games at Worcester Monday.

Buffalo 15, Detroit 1.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The Buffalos defeated their worst foes—the Detroits—by a score of 15 to 1. Buffalo presented Galvin in the box, and he pitched a great game. Dolan supported him in good shape; Rowe lying off on account of sore hands. Derby pitched for the Detroits, but was hammered hard. Purcell, White, Richardson, and Brouthers each made three safe hits and brought in runs. The Detroits played a good game, considering the pounding Derby received. Their run was obtained on Farrell's double and two outs. Bennett and Powell played a brilliant game for the visitors, while O'Rourke, Brouthers, and White made several fine catches. The Buffalo management has agreed to play the postponed Buffalo-Chicago game here on Tuesday, and then the Bisons will go to Chicago and play there on the 28th, 29th, and 30th. From the game the Buffalos are playing the Chicagos must look sharp not to lose two games to them.

George Wright's Wild Throw.

Harry Wright has a rather extravagant conception of the ball-playing capacity of Kelly, the Chicago right-fielder and change catcher. In an interview at Detroit Harry said of the second Chicago-Providence game that it was true that George Wright's wild throw lost the game; "but," he added, "do you know what made the throw wild?" "No." "Kelly." "How's that?" "When George squared himself to throw to Start he found Kelly right in front of him. George stepped toward second base so that he could have an open field, when Kelly made a jump back toward second, and then, starting for third again, brushed against George at the moment he was delivering the ball. The umpire, of course, saw nothing of this, for he was looking at first base to see if the ball got there ahead of the batter. The ball went among the spectators and two runs came in."

"It's a cold day when Kelly doesn't work some racket or other."

"He is the quickest man in the league to see an opportunity to take advantage, and he never misses an opportunity. When he is running bases his eye is on the umpire all the time. If the umpire should happen to be looking in the other direction he would not hesitate to run right across the diamond from second base to the home-plate. He never goes near third base unless the umpire is looking."

"If you had won that game you would have had a good chance for the championship."

"Yes. Instead of being tied at forty-eight games each, we should have had forty-nine and the Chicagos but forty-seven, and two games is quite a lead at this late day in the season. We have got two games to play with Boston and three with Worcester; they, three with Cleveland and four with Buffalo."

"Buffalo has been their stumbling-block so far."

"That is no sign for the future. The Chicagos are playing a stronger game now than earlier in the season."

"Then you think they will win?"

"Not necessarily, but the chances are in their favor."

Gossip of the Game.

The Prairie Queens beat the Clippers 10 to 7.

Hankinson, of the Metropolitans, is reported to have signed with the Philadelphias for next year.

A St. Louis paper says that the lowest salary that will be paid a member of their next year's nine is $1,200.

"John G., Peoria:" The bet is a draw, and neither wins. A score of 1 to 0 is not a score in the proportion of 2 to 1.

Brouthers denies the report that he is going to leave the Buffalos and link his fortunes with an American Association club.

"A. S., Waverly, Ia.:" If both clubs agree to call the game a tie and a draw the umpire cannot force them to play it out; and the umpire has no authority to decide the game a tie and a draw unless both clubs consent, or darkness intervenes.

"J. A. M.:" Devlin was never connected with the Chicago Club after the organization of the league. He played with the Louisville team first in 1876, the year the league was organized. Burns, prior to coming to Chicago, played with the Albany team.

The Metropolitans have arranged to play league clubs at the polo grounds on the following dates: Sept. 20, 21, 28, Oct. 9, 10, 11, Boston; Sept. 26, 27, Oct. 18, 19, Providence; Sept. 30, Worcester; Oct. 2, 3, 4, Chicago; Oct. 6, 7, Buffalo; Oct. 12, 13, 14, Detroit; and Oct. 16, 17, Cleveland.

For the forty-two league games constituting the regular championship season in Chicago the attendance has been upwards of 117,000, an average of a fraction less than 2,800 to the game. There is no other sport in existence that could draw an equal number of people, and no city in America except Chicago which can turn out such crowds.

The chances in base-ball were never better illustrated than in the closing game of Providence at Detroit. With two men out Hanlon muffed an easy fly, whereupon four runs were made before the inning ended. Hanlon's muff may have decided the championship in favor of Providence, and may have lost Detroit third, fourth, and fifth positions.

The management of the St. Louis Browns have signed five league players for 1883, and will give the names away when the league season closes. Two of the five are catchers, two are pitchers, and one can play at second, third, or short. This information is official.—Globe-Democrat. Don't be in too much of a hurry about giving the names. There's many a slip between signing a man and playing him.

It is a significant fact that the Metropolitan Club are signing their next year's players with American Association contracts. The Mets are not fools, and they know where the money lies. This is no roorback.—Cincinnati Enquirer. This may be "no roorback," but it sounds just a little fresh and previous in view of the fact that at last Friday's special meeting it was definitly decided that the Metropolitans shall enter the league for 1883.

Mr. M. H. Ford, one of the Directors of the Grand Rapids Base-Ball Club, writes in correction of the statement of Manager Chapman, of the Worcester Club, as to the reason why the latter did not fulfill its engagement to play at Grand Rapids on the 18th inst. Mr. Ford makes out a case of very bad faith and shabby treatment against Mr. Chapman, and from the proof offered in the matter it is clear that the league is in honor bound to make good the actual expense incurred by the Grand Rapids Club in advertising and preparing for the game with Worcester.

Philadelphia Record: "Two weeks ago the Record announced that of the Athletic nine who were likely to remain with the club next season were Messrs. Latham, Stricker, Birchall, O'Brien, and Blakiston. It is now certain that the first four players named have been reëngaged, while Blakiston would have been if he had not promised to go back to California. Five league players will also constitute a portion of the team, and those most prominently mentioned are Whitney and Deasley, of Boston, Corey and Stovey, of Worcester, and Knight, of Detroit. It is asserted that $1,000 has already been advanced by the club in support of contracts for next season."

Neither Bennett nor Weidman will leave the Detroit team. There has been a good deal of talk about the former going to Pittsburg next year, and he had under advisement an offer from President McKnight, of the Alleghenys. After mature consideration of all the circumstances both Bennett and Weidman have decided to remain with the Detroit Club another season—a decision reached yesterday and now announced by authority. This information will be peculiarly gratifying to all patrons of the game in this city, as these two men form a battery it would be very difficult to spare.—Post and Tribune.

THE COURTS.

Suit Over a Dead Trotting-Horse.

A motion was made yesterday morning to set aside the judgment rendered about ten days ago in the suit of John Hoffman, for the use of Jere Dunn, against Frederick Leavens and J. J. Gore. This was a suit on a replevin bond given by Leavens in 1879 to get possession of the trotting-mare Lady Alice. In 1878 Dunn, who was then the owner of the celebrated trotting-mare, borrowed $1,000 from Leavens, and gave him a bill of sale for the mare as security. In 1879, Dunn not having paid the debt, Leavens demanded possession of the mare, and, as Dunn refused, took it on a writ of replevin. In this suit he gave a replevin bond of $2,000, with Gore as his bondsman; but, being out of the city at the time the trial came on, the suit went against him by default. Meanwhile, on the same day that Leavens replevined the mare from Dunn a man named Cornelius Mahoney, now in the Post-Office, replevined it from Leavens, Mike McDonald going on his replevin bond. The affidavits say that Mahoney had no pretense of ownership, and began this suit as the tool of Dunn, and as soon as he got the mare he turned her over to Dunn. Dunn then took the mare to Michigan, where she soon afterward died in a race. About the same time all of the papers in the Mahoney replevin suite, including Mike McDonald's bond, were stolen from the files. This left Dunn ahead just $1,000. But, notwithstanding that, he began a suit against Leavens and Gore on the first replevin bond. To this suit Gore put in a plea, but owing, it is said, to an assurance from McDonald that it would not be prosecuted, neglected to watch the case or prepare for trial; and the result was that the case was tried ex parte, and a verdict given against him for $2,000. The application Saturday was to set this judgment aside, and on hearing the affidavits read the Judge at once ordered the verdict to be set aside and a new trial granted.

A Nice Question as to Tax Titles.

An argument was had yesterday before Judge Gary on the petition for mandamus in the case of P. E. Stanley against E. F. C. Klokke. Stanley had a tax title on a piece of land, but the affidavit on which the deed was issued did not state that he had served the requisit notice on the owner or occupant of the land as required by law. Desiring subsequently to begin an ejectment suit, he discovered that his title had this flaw, and applied to the County Clerk to amend his affidavit and have a new deed issued to him. The County Clerk refused, and Stanley filed a petition to compel him to issue the desired deed.

The parties appeared before Judge Gary, and County-Attorney Bliss stated the facts.

The Judge was inclined to think it was a proper case for a mandamus. He thought it was the business of the County Clerk to see whether the papers on which the deed was issued were sufficient or not.

Mr. Bliss argued that it would be devolving a heavy responsibility on the County Clerk to make him in fact a judicial officer. Either the affidavit on which the deed was founded was a record, and must be corrected as all other records by a bill in chancery, or, if it was not a record, the party ought to be permitted to prove the fact independent of the deed. If the County Clerk was to be made a judicial officer instead of a municipal one, he might be applied to half a dozen times to issue deeds on a lot, if the owner desired to amend or change his affidavit.

The Judge said that the owner of the lot ought to have an opportunity to be heard if he desired to, and he would therefore reserve his decision until notice was served on the owner of the application for a new deed. The matter will probably come up again Tuesday.

A Neighbors' Quarrel.

A sealed verdict for the plaintiff in the case of Nicholas Cordell vs. James Keenor was brought in in the County Court yesterday morning. Keenor owns the lot at No. 3615 Wentworth avenue, and Cordell owns the next one north. Cordell's house is built about three feet north of his line and he supposed that Keenor's house was built exactly on the line. There was no fence between the lots, and Cordell claims that for a long time Keenor's people have been been looking into his house through their side windows and have been throwing things out on to the heads of members of his family. To prevent this he erected three barricades as close as he could to Keenor's house, effectually shutting up his windows. Then he covered the planks with sheet-iron and painted them black. The sombre aspect of the view from his windows exasperated Keenor and he took his little hatchet and knocked the barricades down. Cordell put them up again and they stand today. Then he began a suit for trespass in the County Court against Keenor, laying his damages at $1,000. Meantime he discovered that Keenor's house was not built on the line and he thought the barricade might be on his ground. Surveyors were called in, and, after nice measurement, Cordell's surveyor swore that Keenor's house was but an inch and an eighth off the line, while Keenor's surveyor swore it was fully two and an eighth inches off. After a great deal of oratory on the part of the counsel the jury awarded Cordell $75 damages. Keenor was mad and entered a motion for a new trial.

The Cornell Quo Warranto Case.

In the case of The People ex rel. Charles Walsh against Paul Cornell, to test the right of Cornell to act as South Park Commissioner under appointment by the Governor of the State, a demurrer was filed yesterday by the State's-Attorney to the second plea, on the following grounds:

That the statement that the Governor of the State of Illinois had the right and authority in and by virtue of the Constitution and laws of the State to fill all vacancies occurring in the Board of South Park Commissioners is a conclusion of law.

Second, that the plea does not set forth the provision of the Constitution nor the law of the State under and by virtue of which the Governor was vested with the power to fill the vacancies in such office of South Park Commissioner.

The argument on the motion for leave to file the petition was had some weeks ago and the merits of the case virtually decided. Since then the petition proper has been filed and pleas put in in reply. The present steps are preliminary to a final decree, so that the case can be appealed.

Criminal Court.

In the case of Gordon vs. Grunda, bastardy, the motion for a new trial was overruled.

Frank Wilkin for assault was given ten days in the County Jail.

John Murray was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary for robbery.

Willie Ross, larceny, was given three years in the Reform School.

John Behan was found guilty of burglary and given one year in the penitentiary.

Henry Neimyer, in jail on the charge of bastardy, sought a release on a writ of habeas corpus, but was unsuccessful and remanded.

Before Judge Moran forty-one prisoners were arraigned. Two of them pleaded guilty to minor offenses, but the others all pleaded not guilty. Among the latter were Eugene Dougherty, William Rowly, Charles Slater, and Francis Hall, indicted for murder.

W. W. Kimball Company are conducting their great organ factory, corner Twenty-sixth and Rockwell streets, on a broad system. Owning their own black walnut forests in Arkansas, manipulating their own lumber business, running their own saw and planing-mills, with a factory covering 20,000 feet of ground, with the finest and most expensive machine equipment in the world, employing 300 educated workmen, and with a capacity for supplying the select trade of the whole West, they are also shipping largely to the leading Eastern dealers and rapidly attaining supremacy throughout the entire American field.

CHEAP BEEF.

The Boon that Chicago is Conferring on Sister Cities of the East.

The Immense Cold-Storage Warehouses of Baltimore and Boston.

One Thousand Tons Dead-Weight in a Single Refrigerator Warehouse.

"Chicago Beef" Becoming as Familiar in Baltimore as "Baltimore Oysters" in Chicago.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 21.—The importation of American cattle into England and Continental Europe soon attained such vast proportions as to provoke unfriendly legislation in the interests of "protection." But it has overleaped these barriers, and at the same time attracted millions of European capital to the immense cattle ranges of the West, and given an impetus and volume to the movement which is no longer content with the most advanced conditions of comfort and healthfulness for the cattle in transitu, nor yet with the refrigerator ships and store houses at European ports. The great "cattle kings" are no longer masters of the situation. Thousands of others have rushed in to participate in their immense profits. The densely populated States and cities of our own sea board have become impatient to share in the "cheap beef" which was flowing past them. The "refrigerator car" has made its appearance upon all the great trunk lines—city after city has rapidly provided itself with convenient store houses, and the overflow of the tide which was at first intended only for the relief of Europe, is now sweeping rapidly over our whole Atlantic border.

CHEAP PASTURES MAKE CHEAP BEEF.

There is a meaning in all the demonstrations of Nature. The prairies of the West and the savannahs of the South have their significance. If "cheap corn means cheap pork," so cheap pastures mean cheap beef. Our vast railroad system—the marvel and the miracle of our day—so freely denounced for its aggressive tendencies—nevertheless employs its Brierian arms in offices of beneficence, and is the obedient servitor of the laws of demand and supply.

The Railway World, in a recent article on the transportation of dressed meats and live cattle, says that, notwithstanding the increase of the transportation of dressed meats, a large number of consumers and dealers naturally prefer adherence to the old custom of killing cattle at or near the points where they are consumed, and this, notwithstanding the outcry against cattle-yards and slaughter-houses and the still more intolerable abattoirs and rendering-establishments:

> Much ingenuity has been displayed in improving methods for transporting live stock eastward from Chicago and St. Louis at high rates of speed and under conditions which make better provision for an avoidance of privation and cruelty to cattle than those which formerly existed. The ends aimed at are a great shortening of the time required for such journeys, a marked advance in the appliances for preventing severe jars, and avoidance of overcrowding, and the use of better facilities for feeding and watering. One of the appliances used with very good effect is an automatic car-coupler, which avoids the jarring that has hitherto caused much distress among the cattle when they were moved at comparatively high rates of speed. A Palace Stock-Car Company also use the Westinghouse automatic air-brake and the suspension truck.
> Two notable illustrations of the gain effected in the matter of time are of recent occurrence. A train of eighteen car-loads of cattle was sent from East St. Louis to Jersey City over the lines of the Vandalia, Pittsburg, Cincinnati & St. Louis and Pennsylvania in sixty-four hours. A Palace Stock-Car Company dispatched a train of twenty cars, containing 381 cattle, from Chicago on the evening of Aug. 30, at 7 o'clock, over the lines of the Grand Trunk and New York, Lake Erie & Western, and they arrived in Jersey City on Friday, Sept. 1, at 11:50 p. m., Chicago time, making the run in a little less than fifty-two hours. In both cases it is claimed that the cattle were in much better condition than those usually forwarded.

THE DEMAND OF THE TIMES,

however, is ahead of all this. The humanity of the cattle-drivers comes "too late." These "palace stock-cars" cost money, and the cry is now for cheap beef. This is the cry, and he is wise who makes haste to heed it. The men who are in the advance of this movement are not the millionaires, nor the representatives of the great cattle estates of the West. When these come to the front (as come they must) we shall have need of all the stowage that can be provided. City after city is preparing, and at Baltimore we find the most advanced appliances. At every railroad depot convenient storehouses are arranged along the tracks, and the welcome announcements of "Chicago Beef" are becoming about as plentiful in the "Monumental City" as the signs of "Baltimore Oysters" in Chicago. The butchers who at first set up a howl for "protection" and a cry of "frozen meat," are rapidly accommodating themselves to the situation and seeking to share in the advantage of supplying their customers with cheap beef. At one of the depots which your correspondent visited yesterday, and where a large storehouse is conspicuously lettered "Chicago Beef," it is no unusual thing to see a dozen wagons drawn up in line awaiting their turn to be supplied.

EASTERN STOREHOUSES FOR CHICAGO BEEF.

On entering this storehouse one is at once impressed with the extreme cleanliness of everything about him. A mass of ice is stored upon the second floor which sends a current of cold air to a carefully constructed chamber below, where the beef is suspended from a continuous iron rail or track by means of some 500 trucks which admit of its being freely handled. A uniform temperature of 40 degrees is maintained in this apartment, light being admitted through three thicknesses of sash. About fifty head of cattle are here disposed of daily. The well-known firm of G. F. & E. C. Swift are the proprietors, who have already eight similar establishments in Boston, and on Monday last opened another in Central Market, Washington.

But the greatest establishment yet devoted to this business is the new warehouse of the Universal Produce Exchange, just completed at Hooper's wharves, and which has only been put in use within the past few days. This is beyond doubt the most extensive and the most complete establishment of the kind in this or any other country. The property of the exchange is in the eastern section of the city, at the freight termini of five railroads, and at the headwaters of the Chesapeake Bay. Their buildings have a frontage of 235 feet on Wolf street, and their piers and sheltered coves an extent of 630 feet into the bay, where they have a depth of water sufficient to float the largest class of ocean steamships.

A GREAT REFRIGERATOR WAREHOUSE.

Their refrigerator or cold-storage warehouse is four stories high. Each floor has a stowage capacity of 60,000 cubic feet, and is capable of sustaining 1,000 tons dead weight. There are twenty compartments in the building—five on each floor—perfectly insulated and separate from each other. Each compartment has two windows with three thicknesses of sash, and one doorway provided with two heavy doors, one opening outward and one inward, each closing upon an air-tight joint. On each floor there is a freezing-room, so that the temperature may be promptly equalized and all dampness absorbed—a uniform temperature of forty degrees being generally preserved, although this is under control and may be varied at will. The building is also provided with one of Snowden & Cowman's elevators, with lifting capacity of 4,000 pounds.

REFRIGERATION BY MECHANICAL MEANS.

The most interesting feature of this vast establishment is the peculiar refrigerating process it employs. The vexatious expense, waste, and familiar annoyances attending the employment of ice are avoided, and refrigeration is effected by mechanical and chemical means entirely within the control of the operator. The apparatus is the new "small pipe absorption machine" recently patented by Mr. Thomas L. Rankin, who has been known as an inventor in this line for the past twelve years, involving principles and methods heretofore not attained by him nor by others.

A stationary engine forces a stream of cold brine from the ice-machine through pipes, which make the circuit of the building, securing a range of from 15 degrees in the freezing-rooms to any higher temperature that may be desired. The compartments already described are provided with coils of this pipe overhead, from which cold air descends upon a series of sheet-iron plates suspended beneath them—the air of the apartment condensing upon them until they become thickly and permanently coated with ice. Nothing can exceed the cleanliness of these apartments, nor the beautiful appearance of these draperies of artificial snow and ice. Your correspondent was taken quite by surprise by the singular beauty of the enamel deposited upon the small coils of pipe directly in front of the boilers. This looked like white glass or porcelain, but it was simply ice! In these machines a charge of ammoniacal water or aqua ammonia having been placed in a boiler or still, the gas is driven from the water by the direct application of heat. The gas being retained by valves in a series of pipes, pressure results precisely as in a steam-boiler. While under this pressure, running water passes around the pipes, and the temperature of the gas is sufficiently reduced, so that it liquifies under the pressure. And this liquified gas, after expanding in a series of pipes for the purpose of producing refrigeration by absorbing heat from surrounding substances, is again absorbed by the very water which originally held it in solution. It must be remembered also that this apparatus will give any degree of temperature desired, which can be quickly changed, as circumstances may require—a thing impracticable with ice or by any other means.

RETURN FREIGHTS.

In another paper I may undertake to show what this "Exchange" may effect in the way of return freights; so that the "refrigerator-cars" may not go back empty, as at present. It is by the demands of circumstances arising out of the needs of business that the great and indispensable trade-exchange systems of the world have been suggested, and the well-understood rule of establishing institutions to suit the exigencies of commercial progress holds signally good in the cost of this undertaking. GREEN GROCERIES.

Supplies and Prices on South Water Street.

Trade on South Water street is brisk as usual in the autumn months, when many are making provision for winter in the line of fruits and vegetables, both of which, as a whole, have seldom been more plenty than the present season. The daily drain made by the almost innumerable grocery wagons that crowd the thoroughfare presents an aggregate that would be marvelous to any but the frequent visitor to that bustling mart.

In fruits the apple is largely represented, though the quality thus far has averaged poorly. Most of the apples now for sale on the street are from Missouri, where the crop is reported the most abundant ever known. Some few come from Michigan, and still a smaller proportion from this State. Good to choice apples may be bought at $2 to $2.75 per barrel, but the bulk of the stock now on the market will range from the lower price down to 50c per barrel.

Pears are coming forward quite plentifully, but, like the apples, their appearance is not of a very inviting character. Most of them have a rough-looking exterior, and they prove better to the taste than to the eye, yet the general buyer is apt to shun them unless the price asked is pretty low. The Bartlett variety is scarce, as also are the Lekies, and stocks are generally made up of Flemish Beauties and odd varieties of which the dealers know little as to their designation. The range for pears is all the way from 30 to 75 cents per basket.

Peaches are and will continue to be for some time a prominent feature of the street. The quality of the receipts thus far has been below former years, the proportion of the Crawford variety being very small, and those coming principally from Southern Illinois. Michigan growers give notice that a considerable quantity of late peaches is yet to be marketed, and that though bringing up the rear of the season they will have a better record than any that have preceded them. Sales yesterday were made at 50 cents to $1.25, the latter price being paid for a very few choice lots.

Blackberries are coming forward daily to the extent of 2,000 to 3,000 cases, and sold yesterday at 90c@$1.22 per case, or 6 to 8 cents per quart. These are promised in daily decreasing quantities until freezing weather comes.

Grapes, like a large portion of the other fruit received daily, come mostly from Michigan, and indicate that that State is enlarging its acreage in this particular industry. The stocks are largely made up of the Ives and Concord varieties, which sell at 4@6c per pound, while the choicer Delawares command 10c per pound, and are eagerly sought for.

Plums, principally the Lumbards, and mostly from Michigan and Canada, are a drug on the market, and sell at 50c a basket, when dealers can get it.

Of melons there have been received far more than have been eaten, and some have found their way to the "dump" as the only available disposition to be made of them. Many firms have declined to guarantee the freight on watermelons, and many car-loads have been sold for the freight charges. Several thousands of them arrived yesterday, mostly from Kankakee County, this State, and were held at $10 per 100, but as nobody cared to pay that price they will probably sell for $5 or less. The Michigan nutmeg melon has also been too abundant, and were to be seen in front of almost any store, purchaseable at the low price of $1 per crate, or about four cents apiece.

Vegetables of all descriptions are plentiful and cheap, the dealers remarking with reference to several kinds, such as red cabbages, turnips, etc., that there was no market for them, meaning that they sold so low that it hardly paid to bother with them.

Potatoes are coming in daily in greater abundance than the market requires, and are moving slowly at 35@40c per bushel by the car-lot or 50@55c per bushel from store. Illinois sweet potatoes sell draggingly at $2.50 per barrel and Jerseys at $3.75@4.00.

The winter squash may be found in large numbers, selling at 50c per dozen as they run. Cucumbers have descended to the low price of 50c per bushel and tomatoes are held at 90c@$1.25 per bushel. Turnips, mostly from Michigan, are hard to sell at $1.50 per barrel, and large onions command $1.25@1.50 per barrel, while the little ones for pickling sell at 90c per bushel. Beets are offered at $1.50 per barrel, and celery sells at 25c per bunch of a dozen heads.

A. M. SULLIVAN, M. P.

A meeting of Irish citizens was held at the Palmer last evening to make arrangements for A. M. Sullivan's lecture Oct. 2. Judge Moran was chosen Chairman, Dennis O'Conner Treasurer, and Thomas Crean Secretary. These were declared permanent officers. A committee was then selected, which submitted the following committee and a long list of Vice-Presidents, headed by Archbishop Feehan. The report was adopted, and the list of Vice-Presidents was increased by about fifty. Following are the committees:

Committee on Arrangements—R. Prendergast, J. F. Finerty, Dr. J. Guerin, P. R. Higgins, M. Scanlon, J. R. Cook, J. J. Curran, T. P. O'Conner, H. F. Sheridan, W. Curran, W. J. Onahan, J. O'Brien, J. R. Coffey, P. F. McEleron, David Sullivan.

Reception Committee—Frank Agnew, W. J. Hynes, M. Keeley, J. Forsythe, P. R. Higgins, E. F. Dunne, T. P. O'Conner, H. O'Rurke, M. E. Stone, P. T. McEleron, T. Kavanagh, A. J. Sullivan, Arthur Dixon.

On Resolutions—J. F. Finerty, W. J. Hynes, W. P. Dunham, W. K. Sullivan, R. Perdergast.

It was decided that the proceeds of Mr. Sullivan's lecture be devoted to the object for which he visited this country. This is understood to be the cause of the Land League.

After adjournment the Committee on Arrangements met and appointed a sub-committee of five to block out a program and report at a meeting at McCoy's next Monday evening.

SENSIBLE YOUNG PEOPLE.

Many young men and young ladies are entering H. B. Bryant's Chicago Business College and English Training School in order to secure that thorough and practical drill in business matters which will prepare them for positions of responsibility and profit. The day session is in operation throughout the year, while those who cannot attend during business hours will derive great benefit from the evening session. Students may enter at any time, and may either confine their attention wholly to the English branches at first, or they may begin at once with short-hand and type-writing, or with the regular business course.

Increased in size by seventy-five rooms and suites, the St. Nicholas Hotel, Cincinnati, continues its prosperous career as "The Delmonico's of the West" under Mr. Ed Roth, who has beautified and keeps it up to the times.

WANT TO KNOW

WHAT YOU WOULD THINK

If we should say we had altogether the best collection of Overcoats, Suits, Pants, &c., for Men, Boys, and Children, within a thousand miles of us? Still, we don't believe we should exaggerate very much if we had said it.

The large majority of our customers belong to a very particular class of people, with correct ideas and tastes, who enjoy wearing thoroughly-made and handsomely-finished garments, who return year after year, and we have no difficulty in pleasing them. We look for results not in a day, but in the long run. So many new-comers, after looking elsewhere, return and purchase, demonstrates the fact that there is merit and goodness in the clothes we make and sell.

Have you any thought of a new Suit? Please do not forget we were the first to step out of the beaten track and to engage the most skillful cutters to prepare patterns to fit the various forms of men, and it will be a revelation to thousands of you—our achievement and grand success.

Some beautiful Suits at $23, $25, to $35, to show you.

No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881.

Gents:—The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredients.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:—

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers.

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. PAGE & Bro."

Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

The REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

HAWLEY'S

Improvements in House Construction, Floor Warming and Ventilation, and Heating by Air Radiators.

Nothing succeeds like success, may well be said of the popularity with which these inventions are received. Thinking men universally commend; insurance companies say everybody should be obliged to build as you do for the protection of the city; all heating firms say, We like to heat your buildings, because so much tighter than others.

Our Air Radiators beat any other known plan of heating.

These inventions are covered by seven separate patents, and our rights will be defended. We want agents in every city, and all can make it pay, as our terms are very liberal. Either one of these patents may be used separately, or two, three, or all in one building. Notice the names of some of the gentlemen who have recently adopted our plan of construction: S. H. A Glance Over the Fighting Congressional Districts—Probable Results.

It Is Too Early to Make an Inspection of the Legislative Field.

A Glance Over the State—The Fighting Congressional Districts and the Probable Results—Legislative.

The race for nominations throughout the State is gradually nearing the finish, and the winners and all are speeding around the big track, preparatory to the final dash which is to bring them under the wire or find them distanced. The important entries for the Congressional running meeting have all been made, with the exception of the Republican steeds in the First and Fourth Congressional Districts, in neither of which the Democratic nags will do much besides kick up the dust and come out several lengths behind. The same is true of the Third District, where Col. Davis is sure to pass the judges' stand first, no matter who runs against him. The Legislative entries, always late in the round-up, are pretty well made up in the rural districts, with the exception of scattering returns from La Salle, Madison, St. Clair, and some of the other larger counties, but more especially in Cook, where the six Republican nominations already made in the First and Seventh Senatorial Districts are equivalent to so many elections. The legislative entries, as usual, began in Egypt, where politics is the proper study of mankind, and have slowly worked northward. The remaining districts will gradually be heard from, and Cook will come in to complete the list. A campaign hereabouts is necessarily long enough and costly enough at best, and the apparent advantages of making it as short as possible, particularly in view of the "off"-year character of the contest, have served as a "pointer" to many an aspirant to glory and per diem.

The Congressional fighting districts in the State may be counted on the fingers of one hand. The nomination of Sheridan by the hog-fat mechanics and the city bridgetenders in the Bridgeport district, the independent candidacy of Curran and Artley, the possibility that John F. Finerty may yet take the track, and the fact that there are over 6,000 Republican votes to be thrown into the scale, render Sheridan's election anything but certain.

THE POLITICAL RESURRECTION of Lew Steward in the Cullen district is noteworthy only because it is a resurrection. Even should the Democrats indorse him, Cullen would still have a margin of over 5,000 to travel on. The addition of Du Page to the La Salle district was a stroke of policy on the part of the Republican majority in the last Legislature, the wisdom of which will grow more apparent every year.

The Marsh district needs give the Republicans no trouble and the Democrats no hope. The anti-Marsh feeling in Hancock County began to die out after Marsh's nomination, and nothing could have better assisted in smothering it than the recent nomination of Bill Neece by the Democrats. The "kickers" may not have any great love for Marsh, but they have still less for Neece. Had Cable of Rock Island been nominated the Eleventh might have been classed, this year at least, as a troublesome though not doubtful district. Rock Island, with its big railroad vote, knew Cable and doesn't know Neece. Dick Oglesby and Gen. Raum have been sent into the district, and the oratorical cannonading will soon open all along the line. Each will operate where he is strongest—and Dick Oglesby especially has always been a favorite in the district—and as the campaign warms up the Hancock County sore will heal and Marsh will come out with a handsome margin on the right side of the account.

The Riggs-Singleton race in the Twelfth has transformed that politically Democratic district into one of the most interesting in the State. The nomination of the Rev. Philip N. Minier, of Scott, by the Prohibitionists will draw from Riggs in his county—Scott—which was claimed as almost solid for him, but will now be nearly divided between him and his reverend competitor. The Riggs managers evidently realize that the Singleton movement won't down at their bidding, and have called a meeting of the Congressional Committee at Pittsfield on the 28th inst. to see what can be done to "whoop things up." Gen. Singleton's indefatigable personal canvass is playing havoc with the prospects of the Beardstown nominee and the grim spectre of threatened defeat stalks in front of the Riggs camp.

THE THREE-CORNERED CONTEST

between Rowell, Stevenson, and Harts in the Fourteenth grows more interesting—to Capt. Rowell—every day. Stevenson has failed to come out with sufficient flat-footedness to suit the Greenbackers, and will lose temperance Democrats where he gains from the personal-liberty howlers. Harts is discovering, to his sorrow, that the great mass of Republicans in the Fourteenth District were not cast in the same mold as himself, and that while they may shout for prohibition, they can and do shout more loudly for the Republican party, which, unlike Harts, they are not prepared to desert. Capt. Rowell is one of the best stumpers in Illinois, and his appearance everywhere in the district has had a telling effect. He has no fear of the result in the November round-up.

Judge Green, in the Sixteenth, is making no end of trouble for that fossilized specimen of Bourbon Democracy, Aaron Shaw, and his more than fighting chance to wipe out the opposition majority grows stronger every day. The several "great defeated" in the Democratic ranks are fatally lukewarm towards the senile Shaw, who defeated them, and none of them would probably go into mourning in case he were "downed," as he very probably will be, and the track to a Democratic nomination in 1884 cleared of at least one obstruction.

Kueffner and Morrison are raking the Eighteenth with a fine-tooth comb. The former's clear-headed advocacy of a moderate protective tariff against Morrison's ultra free-tradeism is concentrating the manufacturing and laboring vote for Kueffner. Local quarrels among the Democracy in Bond and others quarters have given Morrison a set-back, and in spite of his exceptional popularity Gen. Kueffner's chances of carrying the district by a good deal more than the 583 majority on the Presidential vote are constantly growing brighter.

Capt. Thomas, in the Twentieth, began his campaign somewhat late, but has gone into it with his usual hearty, enthusiastic, and taking way. The disaffection in Johnson and one or two other counties is steadily healing, and the coöperation of Capt. Thomas with the Young Republicans, a new organization which has already shown its strength, and indicated that it means business, is another evidence of the fact that intend to pull together and hold their own. When Josh Allen and Bill Hartzell steer clear of a nomination, it is pretty evident that a Democrat has very little show. From all accounts, Murphy, the Democratic nominee, is becoming more painfully assured on that point as the campaign advances and the day of defeat approaches.

It is too early to engage in a general review of the legislative field, for the reason that both sides have not made their nominations in the close districts, and until those nominations are made the situation is altogether too complicated to make either analysis or speculation profitable. The Republicans have put their best foot forward in Madison and Will during the past week or two, and will probably come out of both those districts with flying colors. La Salle is fighting ground, with the Republicans in the attitude of bearing the brunt of the fight, but determined to win if hard work can do it. The difficulties in the troublesome districts, like the Forty-fourth, are drifting towards the adjustment stage, or have been straightened out, as in the Bureau District, where John Lackie, of Stark, has gone on the ticket in place of Charles Baldwin, of Bureau, deceased, thus giving Bureau the Senator and Stark and Putnam a Representative apiece, and restoring the old-time party harmony. The Fourth Senatorial muss, despite the efforts of the candidates to effect a peaceable settlement, is still an ugly spot in the local situation. The entry of a few more candidates like Rabbi Felsenthal and the probability that, if the thing goes on, the Democrats will put up two instead of one, are apt to have an important bearing on the squabble, however, and as a means of saving the district it is not impossible that the Eighth and Twelfth Ward factions and make up. One of the most interesting events of the past week was the result of the Senatorial contest in Whitesides County, which with Lee makes up the Nineteenth District. D. S. Spafford, of Morrison, the declared Cullom candidate for Senator from Whitesides, was unexpectedly "downed" by a combination of Fulton and Sterling as against Morrison, and Dr. W. C. Snyder, of Fulton, and John Manahan, of Sterling, instructed respectively for Senator and Representative. Whitesides has more votes than Lee, will go into the convention united, and Lee will get its one Representative where it hoped to profit by divisions in Whitesides and secure the Senator too. Dr. Snyder is a veteran Republican worker, has been Postmaster at Fulton for years, and, while not a declared adherent of Gen. Raum, the fact that a Cullom candidate opposed him, and that such men as Maj. Woodcock, Raum's Collector of Internal Revenue at Sterling, assisted in making the combination materialize, have been construed into a Raum victory. W. H. Allen, of Whitesides, was lost in the shuffle, and one of the most vigorous opponents of the Criminal-Code Commission, if not of criminal-law reform itself, will be missing in the Legislature next winter.

MAY YET COME TOGETHER

The Cook County Congressional Contests—The South and North Side the Remaining Centres of Interest.

With the Republican nominations in the First and Fourth Congressional Districts, the Congressional contests in Cook, barring the complications in the Bridgeport district, will be practically settled. But the First and Fourth are safe Republican districts—so safe, in fact, that a Democratic nomination in either has small attractions for statesmen of the Bourbon school. Melville W. Fuller, in the First, and Francis A. Hoffman, in the Fourth, will probably be the recipients of the barren honor, although one element in the Fourth still adheres to Judge Tree, and another, headed by John Colvin and Sam Chase, is for Harvey D. Colvin, once Mayor of Chicago. The machine has been "put up" for Hoffman, however, and Hoffman will go through. Since Carter Harrison sat down on the Republican "kickers" in the Third and refused to immolate himself, and thereby interfere with his third-term designs on the Mayoralty and his ambitious desires in other and higher directions, nobody has bothered himself particularly over the probable outcome of the two Democratic conventions this week in that quarter. They may nominate two victims or only one, and nobody cares outside of the sly schemers whose only wish is to see the presumptive victims politically annihilated and gotten out of their road. The Finerty boom still boometh in the Second, and may result in the district being represented by a man who is not all mouth, and whose education comprises something more than the ability to hardly write his name. Outside of the possible revolution in the Second, the only remaining points of interest are the First and Fourth, and there the interest is confined to the Republican side.

THE ALDRICH WORKERS

are still banking on "the old man's luck" to see him through and neglecting nothing they can do to help out the "luck." Coy still thinks he has Lake, Hyde Park, and the Fourth, and is within five votes of a nomination. Dore is a revelation to both of them and to the district as well. Aldrich may swing the Third Ward into line, but the Dore forces will give him a close rub for it, and confidently claim a split delegation—half for Aldrich and half for Dore. The latter gentleman lives in the First, and his adherents not only claim it from the start, but insist that it will stay by him, and that the Second and Fourth will be there to keep it company. The Aldrich machine in the Second, it is said, is not in the best running order, and the Fourth instead of being for Coy will send an unpledged but anti-Aldrich delegation, prepared to go for the man who, after Aldrich, develops the most strength. It is needless to say that both Coy and Dore hope to fill the bill in that respect. The validity of these several claims will be proved or disproved a week from Tuesday, and, in view of the uncertain elements in some of the wards, especially the First and Second, perhaps nothing short of the primaries will settle it.

The Fourth District fight will be fought out at the primaries tomorrow. Both Senator Adams and Gen. Thomas are confident of carrying their own wards, and both have picked out the other localities they expect to swing into line to secure the coveted prize. The "gentlemen's campaign" is nearly over, and whatever the result of the convention, the winner and the loser will clasp hands and the latter take off his outer garment and work for the former's election.

Inducements Held Out to Harrison to Run for Congress—His Golden Dreams.

When a TRIBUNE reporter entered Mayor Harrison's office yesterday morning, he was seated at his desk; to his right sat Mr. Hitchcock, of the Controller's office, and to his left George Sherwood. Mr. Flower, the attorney of the "Nickel-Plate" Road, sat in one corner awaiting his Honor's leisure. Shortly after Mr. Edwin Walker, the attorney of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, came in. Others who had business with the Mayor followed, and they sat around waiting—waiting until the trio at the desk got through. The three gentlemen were poring over the figures of the last Presidential election. There had been interview upon interview held with the Mayor to induce him to run for Congress. Great inducements had been held out to him, as will appear further on. Mr. Sherwood had procured the official returns of the wards and precincts in the Third Congressional District, which showed that Garfield's majority in 1880 was 3,087. In the Mayoralty election it showed that Clark carried the district against Harrison by about 1,300 majority. The interview between Mr. Sherwood and the Mayor lasted a good while, and when it was over THE TRIBUNE reporter and the Mayor had the following brief colloquy. The reporter said:

"I see that a morning paper says that you have decided to consent to run for Congress in the Third District."

"There is not a word of truth in it," said the Mayor. "I have given no such decision to anybody. Now don't bother me any more about it."

That was good as far as it went. Later on the same reporter met a gentleman who said:

"Do you take for earnest what Harrison said to you?"

"I don't know," replied the hunter for news.

"He can fib," replied the gentleman, "but not when office is involved. You know Harrison never shows his hand when he has one big enough to call on. This time he has such a hand. These sorehead Republicans have turned his head. They have given the thing away to me, as I have given them to believe that I am their friend. You can say for me that Harrison will run for Congress in the Third District against George R. Davis. George B. Swift waited on him only yesterday and pleaded with him not to run. He showed him the folly of such a thing, but it is reported that he told Swift that the district was gerrymandered so as to keep him (Harrison) out of Congress, and now he was going to show that he could carry it. Of course, I don't know how true that is. But I do know that certain gentlemen, and I believe that the committee who waited upon him are of that number, have promised Harrison that they would put up $10,000 for this campaign, and this amount would be put up in cash, not promises. Furthermore, they have told the Mayor that $10,000 more could be had, if it was necessary.

"From what I have seen these men are in earnest. They have presented the Mayor with the personal signatures of 600 or more Republicans of the Eleventh and Twelfth Wards, who sacredly promise to support not only Harrison, if he will run, but the entire Democratic ticket."

THE TRIBUNE reporter laid the above statements before the Mayor, who neither affirmed nor denied them.

"You can say for me," said the Mayor, "that I have not made up my mind as to what I shall do. There are circumstances under which a man may be compelled to run, and this may be one of the circumstances."

From a gentleman who has the confidence of the Mayor the reporter learned the following facts: The Mayor has looked the ground all over. He says that he has gained all the prestige that the Mayoralty can give him. He has no real desire to run for Congress or go to Washington for a "brief" term. He has an idea that he can make an exciting, strong campaign. If he secures the election in a district so largely Republican, it will place the entire Democratic party of the country under obligations to him, and open the road for him to the White House, to which he aspires. If he is defeated in such a district it will not hurt him. Per contra: He believes that by his running he can assist in the election of the entire Democratic county ticket. Also, that he will change about three or four Senatorial districts, and thus make the Legislature Democratic and assure the election of a Democratic United States Senator in the place of David Davis. This is his aspiration now, to get to the United States Senate. Again, he believes that the next National House of Representatives will be Democratic by a small majority, and if he is elected, he will get the Speakership. He has the ability and experience he thinks. Four years' presiding over the City Council and four years in Congress, the Mayor thinks, ought to fit him for the place. Besides the Mayor thinks that the Republican party is going to pieces, and it is his duty now to place himself in the breach. He knows that he will not have to spend a cent for his campaign at least, and therefore he will run.

Mr. George Sherwood insists that Harrison can carry the district against Davis, and that he will if he consents to run.

Last evening a TRIBUNE reporter again talked with Mayor Harrison on the subject, and all that he said only tended to confirm the above.

The Contest for the Local Prizes in Cook County.

The past week has witnessed some little progress in the solution of one or two questions connected with the county contest. There is little doubt, as it now stands, that Billy Seipp has made up his mind to be coaxed, and that, after the proper amount of coaxing, he will reluctantly conclude to run for County Treasurer on the Democratic ticket. Cæsar in the presence of the Roman rabble could not hold a candle to the Chicago brewer, who will parley, hesitate, doubt, decline, protest, and, protesting, still consent. He himself has said it to his next friend, and the latter to his next friend, and everybody is passably well satisfied by this time that it is a "go." Charley Kern, who was accused of desires on the Treasurership himself, has recently repudiated them and comes out for the brewery man in the most flat-footed way. "I am for Billy Seipp," he said to a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday. "He is a candidate and will accept, and I am for him. The boys got up that story about my being a candidate, but really there was nothing in it. Business is too good just now, and I'm out of politics anyway. At the same time, the brewery man has given it out that if he travels on the ticket at all it must be with McGarigle for Sheriff; and McGarigle has as much as said that Seipp must be his running mate or he will have none of it. The heads of the local machine have been imparting chunks of instruction to the Mayor since his return, until he is now reported to have become convinced by the gentle methods and clear reasoning which Mike McDonald, Joe Mackin, and the rest know so well how to use that Seipp and McGarigle is the proper thing, and that nothing else will do. In order to fasten Seipp to the head of the ticket the scheme now is to nominate McGarigle first and make Seipp's nomination for Treasurer follow. Whether the scheme can carry is another question.

The machine is moving heaven and earth and all the Chicago wards to accomplish its purpose, but, as usual, has struck several snags and broken rails along the route. James Healy, of the Fifth Ward, John Dunphy, and Mike Ryan refuse to be run over without at least causing a wreck on the track. In a quadrilateral contest of this sort Dunphy and Ryan are likely to go to Healy as against McGarigle, in case they can't snatch the prize themselves, and McGarigle is popularly supposed to favor Healy as against Dunphy and Ryan. It is still a mooted question who will get the Fifth Ward. The committeemen who fix the judges who sit on the returns are rank machine-men and will naturally do the machine's bidding. How much it has cost the proprietor of a certain Clark-street liquor "store" to look after the fortunes of one of them in the Criminal Court will perhaps never be known, except to the proprietor, but in return for this friendly interest in his fate at the hands of a petit jury, the befriended committeeman is expected to be "decent" towards the proprietor's next friend, McGarigle. Ald. Sheridan, who is personally friendly to Healy, sits under the shadow of a club in the shape of a second Congressional convention, to be called by the machine unless he turns over the Fifth Ward to McGarigle. If he does he loses the support of Healy and his friends for Congress and makes John Finerty's success a startling possibility. In short, Sheridan is confronted by a terrible dilemma. But the machine and the whole administration gang have set it down that McGarigle must "reach."

The Mayor, in case he desires a reëlection next spring, knows that it will come with more ease if the Democracy bags some of the county offices this fall. The machine has induced him to believe that McGarigle can win, in spite of his being an Orangeman and the candidate of the baser elements who run the Democratic party and understand the art of manipulating juries, and in spite of the fact that if nominated he will be cut to pieces in the Fifth and other Democratic wards. To all these rather pertinent objections the Mayor has one stock answer: He hires and pays the crowd who control the Democratic vote, whereas when Charley Kern ran for Sheriff against Hoffman and was defeated, the "kickers" were all on the outside, were not amenable to a city administration for their bread and butter, and, in short, couldn't be handled. Not the smallest argument in favor of McGarigle—though, of course, it is not openly preached on the street corners—is the active interest in his cause displayed by Mike McDonald, who recently scheduled $500,000 worth of property in the Walker case, and who wouldn't mind a little contribution like $50,000 or so in a good cause. With the liquor dealers and the gambling-houses to assess for a possible deficiency, quite a snug sum could be made up for the benefit of the ring candidate, to be expended where and in a way it would do the most good.

Another complication in the machine program, however, is the curious attitude of Sam Chase. Not satisfied with the berth provided for him by the machine slate—the County Clerkship—he has had the base ingratitude to pose as a candidate for Sheriff himself. According to his own story he has done so well that he means to hold on. According to another, his alleged candidacy for Sheriff is only a blind, intended to operate as a geographical obstacle to prevent some North Side German from crowding to the front and demanding recognition as a candidate for County Clerk, the position for which Sam is really in training.

The possibility that Seipp and McGarigle will head the Democratic ticket, however, does not faze the Republicans in the least. Any and all of the candidates on that side of the house are perfectly willing to take their chances, and not only willing but anxious. While the Seipp-McGarigle combination would be strong in one sense it would be weak in others. With the Irish fighting McGarigle and trying to insert the knife under the fifth rib, and with a good round majority in the country to fall back upon, and the protest that is sure to go up from the decent element generally against surrendering everything to the saloonists' and gamblers' combination, they have had fear of the result. Who will head the ticket is yet unknown and unknowable. Either Hutt and Hanchett or Hutt and Matson still appears to be the winning combination, however, and either possesses elements of strength that the Democrats will vainly seek to break down. A raft of candidates is still surging forward for the other places on the ticket—good, bad, and indifferent. The most hopeful sign of the times is the fact that the Republicans propose to do nothing in a hurry. The County Convention will scarcely be held before the 20th of October, and the croakers who have predicted that the party would rush a weak ticket in the field will be overwhelmingly disappointed.

The Eighteenth Ward Club—The Two Tickets to Be Run at the Primaries.

The Eighteenth Ward Republicans held a well-attended meeting last evening at North Side Turner Hall. In addition to the members of the club, there were present several Seventeenth-Warders and a number of Custom-House and other Government employés, who appeared to be in favor of Gen. Thomas.

Mr. Sam B. Raymond, President of the club, called the meeting to order. After some little routine business, the Chair announced that the next thing in order would be the annual election of officers.

Mr. J. M. Flower moved that the present officers be reëlected by a viva voce vote, and the motion was promptly seconded by Mr. Hempstead Washburne, and promptly carried. In returning his thanks, Mr. Raymond said it had been rather intimated to him that he was too much of a partisan. If he was anything he was a Republican, and he took his reëlection as an indorsement of his Republicanism. His Republicanism was such that when an unworthy man was nominated he would refuse to support him, and such that when a good man and a good soldier was a candidate——

Charles Harpel, an enthusiastic friend of Senator Adams, interrupted the Chairman with some indistinguishable words of protest, and the Chair observed that, while he was perhaps out of order, his Republicanism taught him to vote for just such a man as he had described. The next business in order, he added, would be the selection of a Congressional delegate ticket to be voted for at Monday's primary.

Col. W. M. Scribner, referring to the custom of the club, and in order, as he said, that everything might be open and aboveboard, presented the following ticket, made up of gentlemen who, if elected at the primary, would vote for Gen. Thomas's nomination for Congress: Sam B. Raymond, Louis C. Huck, Frank M. Blair, Herman Niether, John O'Neill, Mike Petrie, Wallace F. Kirk, C. R. Larrabee, F. W. Puschock, George S. Willets, R. Lotholz, J. Hall Dow, J. G. Miller, J. M. Flower, George Atzel, William I. Howland, Nick Zimmer, Julius P. Meyer, John Dougall, Arthur Gleeson. In presenting the list, Col. Scribner eulogized Gen. Thomas's civil and military career, and referred especially to his services as a member of the Legislature and Speaker of the last House. His reference to the General's military record moved Mr. Harpel to ask on what field of battle Gen. Thomas had fought. A dozen voices shouted "Nashville," "The battles in East Tennessee," etc.

Mr. C. H. Mulliken said he didn't know but that everybody present favored Gen. Thomas. It was customary to have two tickets at the primaries, however, and there would no doubt be two Monday, no matter what was the action of the meeting. Even when the club had nominated a ticket by a decisive vote there was always a contest at the primaries. He accordingly presented the following Adams ticket, and warmly indorsed Senator Adams' candidacy: Henry W. King, Jacob Boser, Henry T. Thompson, Henry N. Mann, Henry J. Willing, John Schuster, William Penn Nixon, William Hesseler, A. A. Carpenter, Jacob Blattau, B. D. Magruder, Ernst Rome, D. H. McDonald, Ernst Mattern, C. H. Mulliken, Joseph Carolan, W. H. Manierre, Charles Harpel, S. E. Barrett, Hempstead Washburne.

No other lists of delegates were presented, and the Chairman called for a rising vote. The Thomas list was adopted. One of Senator Adams' friends intimated that everybody present wasn't a member, and the Chair promptly remarked that if there were any doubt on that score he hoped the doubters would appeal and he would take some other method of ascertaining the result.

Mr. Mulliken appealed, and Mr. Harpel said that Government employés from the Seventeenth Ward were there. Another Adams man asked for a roll-call, and the Chair replied that he, the Secretary, and all the Vice-Presidents together couldn't get at the result by that method in less than an hour and a half.

Mr. Cragin suggested the appointment of tellers to collect the vote, as is customary in the club, and the Chair, with the remark that the suggestion was eminently fair, immediately appointed Mr. Cragin, Mr. Mulliken, and Col. Scribner.

Mr. Scribner moved that the Thomas and Adams forces pair off on different sides of the hall. If there was then any doubt as to the result the tellers could count up.

Mr. Washburne said it didn't make any difference which ticket was indorsed by the club. A few friends of Senator Adams were present in his interest, but had not intended to submit, and did not submit, the list of Adams delegates to be voted upon. No matter what the result, the Adams ticket would be circulated at the primaries Monday.

Mr. E. A. Otis remarked that it would have been in better taste to have withdrawn the Adams names before they were beaten on a vote.

County-Commissioner O'Neill, a warm supporter of Gen. Thomas, made one of his "whoop-'em-up" speeches, promised that the Thomas men would heartily support Senator Adams if the latter were nominated, and demanded the same support from the Adams men if Gen. Thomas were the nominee.

The demand for a count was not pressed, the Chairman declared the Thomas list adopted, and Gen. Thomas was loudly called upon for a speech. In responding, he said he had been a resident of the ward, a member of the club, and a neighbor of those present for twelve years, and this was the first time he had ever heard it said that the club's indorsement was not desirable. After a clear indorsement of one list over another, the latter was suddenly withdrawn. If the friends of Senator Adams had not intended to submit their list for adoption, why had they had it printed several days before the meeting.

Mr. Harpel interrupted the speaker and denied that the list had been printed several days ago.

Gen. Thomas said he had nothing to say to a man who had voluntarily offered to support him and then had gone over to the other side. [Cheers.] If that man or any other man honestly desired to know his military record and learn in what battles he had fought, let him go to the records of the War Department and find out; and if any one could find any act in his private, military, or civil life that reflected on his character, he would withdraw. [Applause.] Throughout this canvass he had never heard himself compared with Senator Adams to his (Thomas') disadvantage, except on the score of wealth. While he regarded such comparisons as in questionable taste, he invited any man who had any unpaid bills against him to present them, and he would receive 100 cents on the dollar. [Applause.] He was a solvent, if not a rich, man, and was prepared to show his tax-receipts and receipts for assessments for the past ten years and compare them with those of his rival and friend on the amount of property he had earned, and if they did not equal them he would withdraw. He returned his thanks for the club's indorsement, and said he wanted nothing but the fair, unpurchased support of Republicans. If there had been other methods pursued in this contest, if there had been any coquetting with notorious Democrats, and if there had been attempts to bribe judges of election, it had been done by no friends of his. Nor would he impute anything to Senator Adams, his friend for years, although he must say that Senator Adams had some very zealous and injudicious friends, and was probably ignorant of what they were doing. In conclusion he referred to his legislative record, promised to make the best campaign he could if nominated, and to give his hearty support to Senator Adams if defeated, and sat down to an accompaniment of three cheers by his enthusiastic adherents. The meeting then adjourned.

Irregular Democratic Primaries in the Third District.

The Democratic primaries in the Third Congressional District did not draw out a very large or a very enthusiastic crowd, but just the contrary. This set of primaries was held by direction of the old Democratic Congressional Committee. Monday afternoon and evening there will be another primary election under the auspices and by direction of the Democratic County Central Committee, and it is they who are likely to finally prevail. If any good man is nominated Monday by this convention he will not accept. The regular convention will be held Tuesday. The following are the delegates to the convention elected at the primaries of yesterday:

Eighth Ward—M. Fitzgerald, James McCune, Ed Cardwell, John Higgins, Patrick Moran, D. Fitzgibbons, Thomas Moran, and Dr. Shanahan.

Ninth Ward—P. Murtaugh, Henry Littlefield, William McHugh, Charles Seymour, Michael Dorney, Dennis O'Callahan, Patrick Garrity, and John McAllen.

Tenth Ward—John Eiszner, Patrick Murray, Jacob Press, George I. Hoffman, Patrick Moran, Adolph Reichell, and Charles King.

Eleventh Ward—Thomas Denneby, M. Costello, T. E. Courtney, William Nugent, J. I. B. Muir, M. K. Gleeson, and F. C. Schoenthaler.

Twelfth Ward—Jesse Cox, F. Fishback, John T. Pratt, E. Mahon, Ch. Klaussner, L. M. Hollister, and O. P. McKay.

Thirteenth Ward—Mark J. Clinton, Thomas McNamara, Denis Welsh, Thomas Fleming, Nicholas Murray, John O'Callaghan, and John Murphy.

Fourteenth Ward—Fred Maas, John F. Dugan, Anton Detmer, Timothy Murphy, John Dahl, Charles D. Gastfield, W. J. McNamara, Nicholas Michalsky, Henry McMenamin, Charles Sokup, John Foley, Patrick Bailey, Frank Bierzski, Olaf Hanson, and James Corrigan Jr.

It is generally understood that the first choice of the convention will be Mayor Harrison, but as he will probably refuse to run it is thought Dr. Rush will be the coming man.

Curran Has Friends.

The following is but one of many communications of the kind of which Mr. Curran, the Independent candidate for Congress in the Second District, is in receipt of almost daily:

John J. Curran, Esq.: Believing, as we do, that an infamous fraud was perpetrated on the resident voters of the south end of the Second Congressional District, meaning the voters of the Fifth Ward, by procuring any and all stragglers to vote for delegates to a convention—persons who had no claim or right to vote at a regular election, to select persons to represent the voice of the people in the district; and, further believing that the scheme was a preconcerted one in the interests of a clique to back "the one man," and he in turn to sell us over to another faction by way of reciprocating; and, believing further that it is within our power, through the ballot-box, to teach these minions of fraud that we are not their acquiesced servants to support such unworthy schemes, but, believing as we do that your ability and integrity deserves our individual support, would most respectfully indorse and support you in the ensuing campaign for the position of Congressman from our district.

PETER LEDDY,
M. SCHWENTFURTZ,
A. J. CARROLL, and 2,000 other voters in the ward whose names are signed to the foregoing.

A communication has been received from Joseph P. Duffy, James Rochford, and Dennis K. Enright, judges of the Democratic primary election in the Seventh Ward, in which they deny that Mr. J. J. Curran, candidate for Congress, was unfairly dealt with by them, and say that "the fact is he received but a minority of the ballots cast, and that, had the voting in his behalf been confined to the legal voters of the ward, he would not have received half the number credited to him," and they charge that Mr. Curran offered Mr. Duffy a large sum of money to give his delegates a majority of the votes cast.

Ward Meetings.

The First Ward Regular Republican Club met in the club-room of the Grand Pacific Hotel last evening, Vice-President D. W. Nickerson in the chair. This is one of two clubs in the ward who lay claim to the title of "regular," and each club claims that the other is a fraud, and that none are genuine unless the name is blown in the bottle. The meeting last evening was the first this club has held during the present campaign, and it was a sort of free-for-all for candidates of all classes, no less than eight of them being present, all prepared to come up smiling at call.

Commissioner Purington was the first speaker, and he asked the club to appoint a committee to confer with him about redistricting the ward. He said he had been spoken of as a candidate for the State Senate, but he did not know whether he was himself or not. Tom Sennott made a few remarks, touching on his candidacy for Clerk of the Probate Court. Charlie Harris, the perennial candidate for Coroner, declared himself still in the ring. United States Commissioner Simeon W. King told the meeting that he would not object to sandwiching the term "County" in his present title, and said he thought the office quite as important as that of a Congressman.

John C. Dore made an informal talk, touching upon the points he brought out so eloquently and forcibly in his Hyde Park speech. John Lyle King was called for, and one man yelled for "Sunset" King. He made one of his characteristic speeches on internal improvement, saying that during the past week the seat of the internal improvement that affected him most was in the pit of his stomach.

Coroner Matson, an aspirant for the Shrievalty, made a brief and sensible talk, and Judge Bradwell, who wants to go to the State Legislature, made a few sound remarks. Sheriff Mann, who had been seen in the back part of the room, was called for, but had disappeared.

On motion of Ald. Dixon, a committee of five, consisting of Messrs. Pratt, Wrenn, Ellis, Dixon, and Brokoski, was appointed to confer with Commissioner Purington regarding the proposed redistricting and appointment of judges, with instructions that it was the sense of the club that five precincts (the present number) was enough, and that more would confuse the honest voters and help the repeaters. The club then adjourned for one week and will meet weekly hereafter.

FOURTH WARD REPUBLICANS.

The Fourth Ward Republican Club met at Armory-Hall on Indiana avenue, last evening, President Willett in the chair, and about sixty members present.

After speeches by candidates, Charles A. Dibble, W. S. Everett, and A. J. Galloway,

W. H. Harper, from the Committee on Ward Registration and Precinct Primaries, submitted the subjoined report:

Believing that a thorough, systematic, and continuous registration of the legal voters of the ward is the first and most important step in the direction of honest primaries, your committee recommend the following plan:

The club, by its President, shall appoint a committee of three, who shall constitute a permanent Board of Registration for the ward, to hold office for three years, unless removed by the club for cause.

Upon the first appointment of this board, the gentlemen who are named shall divide themselves by lots into three classes—one to hold the office for one year, one for two years, and one for three years. Thereafter one member of the committee to be appointed annually and to hold office for three years unless removed as aforesaid.

Suitable books in duplicate shall be provided for the use of the Board of Registration, and the registry of the ward shall be kept by precincts.

These books shall be in the custody of the Chairman of the Board of Registration, and by him kept in a convenient place and open at all times to the inspection of the legal voters of the Fourth Ward.

No name shall be placed upon said books unless the person shall be a legal voter of the ward, and also unless a majority of the Board of Registration shall be satisfied that the person whose name is offered for registration is entitled to vote in the Fourth Ward.

These books of registration shall be closed one week prior to the date of any primary to be held in the ward, due notice being given of the last day preceding any primary on which persons can register.

These books of registration shall be furnished to the duly authorized judges at any and all primaries held in the Fourth Ward, and no vote shall be received by said judges unless the name of the person offering such vote is registered, and he is known to be a Republican. After use at any primary the books of registration shall be at once returned by the judges to the custody of the Board of Registration.

In order to obtain as complete a registration as possible your committee would suggest that a committee of three from each precinct be appointed to assist the board in making the first registration.

Your committee would also suggest that the ballots for use at any and all primaries shall be six inches long by two and three-quarter inches wide, substantially, and that the names of all persons to be voted for shall be printed in plain type upon white paper, and that no other ballots be received by the judges.

Your committee would further report that they are in favor of precinct primaries, and would suggest that immediate action be taken to complete a system of registration, and that a committee be appointed to perfect a plan for precinct primaries.

Your committee are aware that a plan such as they have presented may at first glance appear more elaborate and arbitrary than necessary, still they are convinced that it will receive the moral support of every right-minded citizen who desires to see an honest primary and a fair count.

Mr. Harper said a good deal of machinery would be required to put in working order precinct primaries, and those approaching were so near that the committee didn't think it possible to do anything in that direction at this time.

Mr. Clark explained the plan at some length, being satisfied it was just what was wanted.

Mr. Jones didn't think it would work, as the expense would be too great—at least $400 a year—and where was the money to come from? He was opposed to precinct primaries, pointing to the Twelfth Ward minority in the last County Convention upon whom a great outrage was committed. Some simple method should be adopted, such as having the challenged voter vouched for by two well-known Republicans.

Mr. Cook moved that the report be laid over for two weeks.

Mr. Sutherland thought the matter had better go over until the next campaign. The question now was how to make the next primary an honest one. The club ought to take action in the direction of naming delegates, and not let three men get up a list, and have the people go to the polls like sheep and put in the ballots given them. Some method should be devised by which the Republicans would have a chance to vote and have a voice in the election of the delegate ticket.

Mr. Bishop moved that the document be recommitted, and that the feature mentioned by Mr. Jones be incorporated, the amended report to be submitted to the club next week.

Mr. Hammer didn't think it right for the club, which embraced only 5 per cent of the Republican voters in the ward, to dictate to the other 95 per cent.

The amendment was agreed to.

After some talk about delegates,

Mr. Couch moved that the candidates get up their own tickets to be voted for at the primaries.

This was lost, as was a motion to call a mass-meeting this week for the purpose, and the whole subject was finally laid on the table.

The club then adjourned until Saturday night.

EIGHTEENTH WARD REPUBLICANS.

A rather slimly-attended mass-meeting of the friends of Senator George E. Adams was held last evening at Folz Hall, Charles Catlin presiding.

Maj. Beem was the first speaker. He said they had assembled not as politicians but as citizens desirous of selecting as a standard-bearer in the approaching Congressional race—one who would when elected reflect credit upon himself as well as his constituency. Such a man they deemed Senator Adams, and they would use all honorable means to secure his election. After referring in a complimentary way to the Presidents and the Congresses which the Republicans had given the country the gentleman dwelt upon the importance of the office of Congressman, and the necessity of sending such a man as Mr. Adams to Washington to represent the Fourth Congressional District. He had heard only two objections to Mr. Adams—one that he was wealthy, and another that he was no statesman. He thought Mr. Adams was just wealthy enough to render himself useful to his constituents and the country and to place him above the danger of temptation, and that it was not necessary that a man should be a statesman to be of worth in Congress. He believed Mr. Adams would be nominated almost unanimously.

Frank J. Loesch said it was something new in politics to discuss the relative merits of candidates in public meetings before the nomination, and he thought it would be well to return to the old form, and vote right next Monday at the primaries. Thus far Mr. Adams and his friends had worked in an honorable way, and they would continue to do so. He was heartily in favor of Mr. Adams, and believed he would be nominated and elected.

Mr. Adams responded to loud calls with a brief speech. He said that the campaign preceding the nomination had been longer than usual, but it had been unusually good-natured. He had said nothing of his adversary that he would not feel free to say to him personally, and should Gen. Thomas be nominated instead of himself he would work for him as hard as he was able. He had lived in the district twenty-five years, and had interests that were clearly identified with those of the district which he thought would assist him in representing the district in Congress. What benefited the people of the district benefited him, and he thought he had an idea of the needs of the district. He wanted to go to Congress, and if he was elected he would favor the further improvement of Chicago harbor and the construction of the Hennepin Canal. But he would be a Republican whether he was nominated or not.

After speeches by Gen. Rodman, "Bummel" Mueller, and Capt. J. J. Healy, the meeting adjourned.

HYDE PARK REPUBLICANS.

Two of the candidates for Congress from the First District, Messrs. Irus Coy and the Hon. William Aldrich, addressed a large meeting last evening in Centennial Hall, South Chicago. Both gentlemen made addresses of some length, which were well received. The contest between the two candidates in South Chicago will be close, and with the chances perhaps slightly in favor of Aldrich.

FIFTEENTH WARD INDEPENDENTS.

The Independent Club of the Fifteenth Ward met at the corner of Larrabee street and Webster avenue last evening, and discussed the merits and demerits of the candidates of the Fourth District for Congress. Speeches were made by G. C. Buell, Peter Buschwah, and others in the interest of Gen. Thomas' candidacy, and after adjournment a private caucus was held, in which a delegate ticket was agreed upon to be presented at the primaries to-morrow.

THIRD WARD REPUBLICANS.

A meeting of the Third Ward Republican Club, at which the attendance was very large, was held last night in Martine's Hall on Twenty-second street, near Indiana avenue. President P. B. Smith presided. The first question to come up for discussion was as to the manner of selecting delegates to the Third Senatorial and First Congressional Convention. Some were strongly in favor of leaving everything to the primaries, but it was finally decided to have the Chair appoint two committees of five each, one committee to select the names of thirty-three gentlemen, from among whom the club might choose eleven delegates to the Congressional Convention and the other committee to select the names of thirty-three gentlemen, from among whom the club might choose eleven delegates to the Senatorial Convention. On the Congressional Committee were appointed D. H. Gill, E. G. Keith, George Bass, J. R. Custer, and Frank Gilbert. On the Senatorial Committee were appointed A. B. Hallock, J. L. Barnum, A. Bartlett, A. N. Eddy, and Ira W. Buell. The committees will report next Saturday night.

After the delegate question had been settled Representative Randall H. White made a little talk to the club, endeavoring to defend his recent action in the Legislature on the question of criminal law reform. His remarks were without point, and called forth not the slightest indication of approval or sympathy. Mr. White had brought to the meeting a big bundle of papers—copies of a new and small publication—wherein appeared a defense of his action in the criminal code matter, and he hired a colored man to circulate these papers through the hall while the other speakers were on the stand.

Mr. William S. Everett made a short speech advocating the abolition of the grand jury and the various other long-advocated reforms in the criminal code. Mr. Everett's speech was heartily received. Speeches were made by Mr. Dibble, Mr. King, and others.

SIXTEENTH WARD REPUBLICANS.

A small meeting of the Sixteenth Ward Republicans was held last evening at No. 311 Larrabee street, at which resolutions in support of Gen. Thomas were adopted.

Notes.

The Democratic County Central Committee will meet at the Palmer House Wednesday evening for the purpose of selecting polling-places and judges of election. Action is to be taken thus early in order that all parties may have a chance to be heard.

Some surprise having been expressed in political circles that the Morning Herald, a paper of which Postmaster Palmer was until recently the editor-in-chief, and of which Collector Harvey, Marshal Jones, and Secretary Dan Shepard were the reputed backers, should viciously attack the regular Republican nomination of Col. George R. Davis in the Third District, each of those gentlemen has taken an opportunity to deny that they are in any way interested in the Herald, or that they have any sympathy with its attacks upon Col. Davis. Postmaster Palmer denies having interest or influence in the paper, either financially or editorially, and squarely announces himself for Col. Davis and all other regular nominees of the Republican party

ART IN CHICAGO.

A Review of This Year's Display of Paintings at the Exposition.

The Collection One of Interest if Not of Overwhelming Brilliancy.

What the Chicago Artists Have Done—Notes from the Home Studios.

The Exposition Display of Pictures.

The art galleries of the Exposition have since the opening been, as in former years, the chief point of popular interest in the big show, and the pictures on view have been examined by great crowds of people, who, for the most part, derive their ideas of current art from the casual inspection of these annual collections. That the privilege of acquiring a familiarity with paintings and sculpture is restricted to the brief duration each year of the Exposition is a condition of things much to be regretted, and not at all creditable to Chicago. However, for so much as we have let us be thankful, and hope for the time when public spirit and liberality shall do more for art in Chicago. This year's collection at the Exposition may be set down as meritorious and interesting, but not especially notable for great works. It is a thoroughly good illustration of American art, and is pronounced by those who have seen both to be superior as a whole to the last New York Academy exhibition, where many of the pictures now on view here were shown. The most striking work from a foreign studio is Hennan's "Bal Masque," which was brought to America with the Belgian collection and purchased for the Pennsylvania Academy in Philadelphia. There is little to add to what has already been said of this picture, which is rather a technical than a moral success. Chicago artists are represented by sixty-six examples, a few notably good, many fairly meritorious, and still more that are indifferently bad. By all odds the best production of a Chicago studio is by a lady—a fact which should incite the male members of the profession to bestir themselves and bring forth something more important another year. It remains to be said, however, in behalf of our local talent that by no means the poorest pictures in the collection were painted in Chicago. There are works of unusual size and pretension by Eastern artists of repute which do not deserve the space they occupy on the walls, and whose absence would improve the collection as a whole. Hovenden's "Elaine," Ward's "Tobacco Field in Ole Virginny," and J. G. Brown's "Country Children" are among the number that could be spared with advantage.

One of the most important and pleasing landscapes of the present exhibition is that of "The Pueblo of San Juan," New Mexico, by Thomas Moran. It is hung almost too high, but in spite of this disadvantage the general tone is so bright and the harmony of color so delightful that it attracts general attention. The picture gives a distant view of an Indian village and church, the buildings of adobe showing clearly under the blue luminous sky. To the left foreground is a low-lying river bank crowned with a growth of bright-colored weeds and grasses, at the right a few cottonwood trees, and through the centre a roadway leading back to a village. While amply diversified in color and effect, it is charming in its soft blending of tones, and, although pastoral in character, it is of infinite variety and interest, and well worthy careful consideration. The recent visit of Mr. Moran to Europe and the admiration shown for his pictures by that prince of art critics, Ruskin, who purchased some of his work, gave him an order for more, and frankly and cordially admitted that one of his etchings was the best he had ever seen, while his painting of water he considered unsurpassed, gives an added interest to his labors, and leads us to wonder if we have not an artist in America whom we have not entirely appreciated. Certainly Mr. Moran has shown in Chicago no nobler product of his genius than this superb canvas, "The Pueblo of San Juan."

Perhaps one of the hardest, most realistic, and least satisfactory of the larger canvases is a "Tobacco Scene in Ole Virginy," by Edgar M. Ward, showing a number of plantation darkeys engaged in hoeing long straight rows of the ugly weed, in comparison with which a potato-field would be considered beautiful. The figures of the men and women at work are angular and awkward, and although the picture is said to have been painted on the Bizarre Place, formerly the home of the Randolphs, near Farmville, Va., and is possibly a correct transcription of the scene, it is difficult to understand why so dull and uninteresting a subject should have been selected in the first place, or treated so clumsily in the last place.

"A Chapter from the Koran," by William Sartain, shows an effective picture, soft and mellow in tone and interesting in composition. A group of people in characteristic costumes are seated in a Moorish interior listening attentively to the reading of the Koran by one of their number. The walls are white, and one of the persons seated upon the red tiled floor smoking a nargileh adds to the foreign air of the picture.

"Tintoretto: Art in Venice, XVI. Century," by F. L. Kirkpatrick, has been sold to a gentleman of the North Side, and it is one of the most satisfactory pictures for the price to be seen. It is a marvel of magnificent coloring, showing the interior of a splendid palace in which are a King and his courtiers surrounded by all the luxurious appointments and imposing architecture of the place. The richness and variety of the tones used and repeated, yet nowhere obtrusive, is so perfectly delightful that one is tempted to forget to notice that some of the grandees are a trifle bow-legged, while others apparently have club-feet; and indeed so entranced does one become with the richness, warmth, and glow of the picture that the defects in drawing matter little, after all.

Mr. F. H. De Haas is represented by four pictures, the best of which is "On the Sea-Beach," and is honored by an illustration in the catalog.

Very little is known here of the work of Mr. Elihu Vedder, but at the East, and especially in Boston, where exhibitions are given composed entirely of his paintings, and where many of them are owned, a number having found a place in the Boston Museum, he is recognized as an artist without a rival in his peculiar ability to transcribe the wierd imaginings of his mind; and the success with which he treats subjects heretofore allowed exclusively to the province of the poet gives rise to a sense of awe which is followed by a feeling of admiration for his great originality, artistic feeling, and wonderful technique. Of the two pictures from his hand shown here "Identity" is as true an impression of language and sentiment as is the poem by Aldrich, which it illustrates. Two shrouded forms meeting in desolate infinit space pause an instant.

"And who are you?" cried one a-gape,
Shuddering in the gloaming light;
"I know not," said the second Shape,
"I only died last night!"

The picture is small, cold, and weird, but its merit lies in its dramatic intensity and the portrayal of expression upon the two wondering faces.

The difficulty of treating an ideal subject realistically is strongly felt by the spectator in gazing upon "Queen Guinevere's Dream," by Marie Koupal, which hangs just opposit to the "Elaine" of Thomas Hovenden, in which the beautiful and ill-fated Queen is also delineated in a manner greatly inferior to the conception and execution of the same character by Miss Koupal. That this young artist has not succeeded in perfectly portraying an ideal character is not to be wondered at; that she has given us so strong and vital a piece of work of great technical excellence, and not without sentiment, is something to be proud of; and in the future, with added experience, we may look for success at any hight to which her ambitious daring may aspire. Her "Guinevere" stands a solitary figure with earnest face, seen in profile, tightly clasped hands, and long, graceful, flowing robe of creamy tint, her loosened golden hair adown her back. The rendering of the drapery "as she turned" is especially good. The landscape must be considered only as an accessory or a background; otherwise it is not pleasing.

"Mozart Singing His Requiem" is an example of the work of Thomas W. Shields, which is very strong and attractively rendered in all the details that go to make up a rich and elegant interior. The central figure is that of Mozart, sitting in a chair, his head reclining upon pillows scarcely whiter than his own face, a fur robe, wonderfully imitated, lies across his knees, his feet rest upon a Persian prayer-rug, and his sister leans forward and regards him with loving anxiety, while the faces of the singers wear a rapt and serious look. It is an admirable work, of a high order, and appeals to our better natures in its feeling of devotion and inspiration.

Annie Shaw has this year surpassed herself, and of three pictures exhibited by her the one entitled "Summer" is indeed a great improvement upon any former work. Painted entirely out of doors, it bears the impress of nature and is a delightful reproduction of woodland light and shade. The intense, vivid greens of the midsummer foliage seen under masses of rolling clouds are thrown out with a vigorous realism that is fine and refreshing. This is easily the most successful work shown by any Chicago artist, and is equal to anything of its class and style in the entire collection.

Gallery and Studio Notes.

Several valuable paintings executed by and belonging to Baron Viard, on exhibition at Gentile's Michigan avenue studio, were levied upon yesterday afternoon to satisfy an execution obtained against the Baron before Justice Demars last Tuesday for $200 claimed to be due for salary and expenses to Mons. Daniels, who claims that the Baron brought him over here and then left him without any money or means of getting back to France. The French Consul succeeded in getting an offer of $50 from the Baron, but, this being insufficient to defray M. Daniels' expenses home, he refused it and resorted to the courts, with the result above stated. The paintings are the Baron's own work, and one of them is very highly valued by him, he asking $[illegible] for it.

A. J. Rupert writes from Fargo that he has reached that place on his return from a sketching excursion in Montana and the Yellowstone Park region, and expects to be back in Chicago by the 1st of October, when he will take possession of his new studio, Room 60 Lakeside Building.

When last heard from Col. W. H. Fanning was in Rome. He writes in loving strains over the many water-color gems which he had picked up in Holland and Spain. He expects to be in New York in the course of three weeks.

G. E. Colby is home again, and has taken a studio in Reaper Block.

A DIVORCE CASE.

In Which an Important Witness Was Paid by the Week by One Side and Put in Jail by the Other Side as a Countercheck.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 23.—Application was made to Judge Avery yesterday for the admission to bail of Bernard Dintelman, who is under indictment in this county for bigamy. The Prosecuting-Attorney, believing from facts since developed that the indictment was procured by a fraud on the State, and with a view to the furtherance of private ends in Massachusetts rather than in the interests of public justice here, offered no opposition to the application on the part of the defendant for his admission to bail. The facts as presented in the case disclose a history in which crime and romance are singularly interwoven.

It appears that Dintelman was wanted in Boston in the famous divorce case pending there of Cumming vs. Cumming, in which Mrs. Cumming seeks a divorce from her husband on the ground of adultery, and in his cross-petition he makes a similar charge against his wife. It is not only the question of divorce that is involved in that case, but it is stated that some $500,000 are at stake. Mrs. Cumming is the widow of Charles O. Rogers, the former owner and proprietor of the Boston Journal, and is said to be quite wealthy. Dintelman, who is now in jail in this city to answer the charge of bigamy, was brought here from the East upon a requisition of Gov. Foster. It is alleged that while Mr. Cumming and his wife were traveling in Europe, in 1875 and 1876, Dintelman was in their service as a valet and courier; that while they were at Monaco, Cumming was called back to Boston on business, and, during an absence of three months, according to the statement of Dintelman, he became intimate with Mrs. Cumming, the intimacy beginning at Monaco and continuing at Pisa until some weeks after Cumming returned, when their guilt was discovered at the Hotel Constanzi, in Rome, Mrs. Cumming being detected coming out of Dintelman's room by her husband. A scene there is related by Dintelman to have occurred, in which his life was threatened, but an adjustment was made upon the confession of Mrs. Cumming to her husband that this was the only act that had occurred between her and Dintelman. The family then made preparations to return home, and Dintelman said that he was paid 1,000 francs in consideration that he was never to return to America. This is his story.

In April last, after a diligent search by the defense in the divorce suit to find Dintelman and secure his testimony, he was found at the St. Nicholas Hotel in this city, acting in the capacity of a waiter, and while there he related his story to parties in the interest of defendant's counsel, of whom Ben Butler is chief. Steps were immediately taken to secure his presence in Massachusetts, and an offer was made to him of $25 per week and expenses to go to Boston for the alleged purpose of representing parties in the purchase of real estate from Germans in this city. Dintelman accepted the offer, and while in Boston was actually employed in the pretended purchase of property, and during his sojourn there he again narrated his story to parties in Massachusetts of his intimacy with Mrs. Cumming. He was there subpœnaed by the defendant's counsel and brought before a Commissioner, where his deposition was taken, which is now on file in the Supreme Court in Massachusetts, and the case not being then ready for trial, he was permitted to go to New York, promising to return and testify when called for. He alleges that while in New York he was paid over $[illegible] by persons purporting to be the agents of Mrs. Cumming if he would return to Massachusetts and swear that the deposition he had previously given was false. He states that he refused the offer, as he was apprehensive that if he went to Massachusetts he would be held for perjury. He states further that he was threatened by those parties who offered him the money if he did appear against Mrs. Cumming in Boston, and he refused to go when called for until assured of protection, which was subsequently guaranteed by Gen. Butler. He states that while in New York he was arrested by one Harding, a detective in the employ of Mrs. Cumming, and was taken to jail on this charge of bigamy on a requisition of the Governor of Ohio. The private counsel for the prosecution of Dintelman claimed that he was a fugitive from justice, while on the other side it is contended that $500 was paid to an attorney in Cincinnati to secure the indictment, and that this was done to defeat the ends of justice by keeping this witness away from the divorce court in Boston.

Mr. Cumming, the defendant in the divorce suit, is a graduate of Oxford, a literary gentleman, and is said to have been a teacher in the family of Mr. Rogers before the death of the latter. In this way he became acquainted with his present wife.

AN OLD MAN'S FOLLY.

Another Aged Ohioan Puts All His Wealth in a Tin Box and a Thief Walks Off with It—The Loss $13,000.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEWCOMERSTOWN, O., Sept. 23.—Intelligence reaches here of a mysterious and daring robbery committed at the little Village of Mount Holly, Knox County. Stephen Day, a merchant at that place, sold his store preparatory to retiring from business, and having received a payment of about $1,000, he deposited it in a tin box in his house, which box contained the remainder of his wealth, amounting to $12,000. Being near the railway, he and his wife out of mere curiosity walked to the station to see an excursion train arrive, leaving no one at the house. They were absent only about ten minutes, and on returning to their residence were dumbfounded on finding the box and contents gone, some thief having no doubt watched Mr. Day secrete the money and stolen it during his absence. As soon as the truth dawned on Mr. Day that he had been robbed of all his possessions he immediately took to his bed, violently ill, and as he is over [illegible] years old fears are now entertained that he may lose his mind. The money which was stolen was the accumulated savings of Mr. Day during his lifetime, and by this theft he is thus left penniless in his old age. The neighborhood is now greatly excited over this bold robbery, and diligent search is being made for the perpetrators, but, up to this time, not a trace of them can be found. The money consisted of checks, drafts, United States bonds, and many thousand dollars in cash.

RAIDING THE TIGER.

Last night Capt. Buckley turned up at the armory with John Belknap, George Hankins, and Harry Romaine, three South Clark street bankers, supposed to have been out of employment since early last summer when Mayor Harrison closed up the gambling-houses. They were arrested by Capt. Buckley upon warrants sworn out by Samuel Gregsten, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel on Dearborn street, who charges them with keeping gambling-houses. They were accompanied by Mike McDonald, who furnished bonds for each in the sum of $[illegible], and the gentlemen walked out without having had to be subjected to the indignity of having an iron door shut in their faces. A TRIBUNE reporter called at the Windsor immediately after the arrests were made and made an effort to see Mr. Gregsten. That gentleman had retired a short time previously, however, and the night clerk refused to awaken him, nor would he give any information concerning the case. From another source, however, the facts leading to the arrests were obtained. Something like three months ago, while Mr. Gregsten was in the Europe, one of his clerks named Pattison took from the safe several hundred dollars belonging to guests in the house and to the proprietor. Putting this with enough of his own to make about $1,400, Pattison played it in at Hankins', Hynes', and other places. He was run out of town by his friends before Mr. Gregsten's return, and that gentleman, after making good the amount lost by his guests, set about to recover the money lost in the gambling-houses. Hynes, who runs a place on Dearborn street, settled with him for 50 cents on the dollar, but Hankins, Romaine, and Belknap would not come down. After several fruitless efforts to make a settlement with them, he swore out the warrants which were served last night.

YACHTING AT LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., Sept. 23.—Another regatta occurred today, two prizes being offered: First, $50; second, $25. The start was made soon after 11 o'clock, five yachts entering and starting in the following order: Agamemnon, Ethel, Geneva, Whisper, Nettie. The Ethel made the quickest time, beating the Whisper 11 seconds actual sailing time, but the Whisper took the money on time allowance, beating the Ethel [illegible] minutes and 14 seconds. Ethel took second money.

BUSINESS PERSONALS.

PERSONAL—"GOD MADE MY FACE as it is, and if He made it sallow I won't try to change it," say many ladies—poor, good souls, who don't know God from a bad liver. Why does "God make" all white but their faces? Many fear "beautifiers," lest they injure. There are injurious cosmetics, yet the worst faces are those that never knew them. But are cosmetics the only beautifiers? and is the beautifying art represented by the white, red, and black daubs seen on the streets? There are many who think that is my work, and if they ever call on me they appear as if they had tickets to a hanging. Ladies of refinement never know it till they see it. I will not waste time nor words on others. No woman living, not disfigured, need be unattractive if she will study art. My book, "Advice to Ladies," tells more than all others together; and personally, despite all prejudice, I look squarely in the world's face and say I am one who represents an art true as nature—one needed much and as honorable as any. It is well known that my specialties bleach the skin perfectly, make fat, remove freckles, moth, etc., cure pimples, remove black-heads, kill hair; also stop it falling, make it grow, color or bleach it any shade permanently and harmlessly; also the brows and lashes; soften the skin, whiten black teeth, remove moles, banish wrinkles, and remedy many other defects. My beautifying outfit makes a beauty superb and natural as life. It costs nothing to consult me. My rooms are the finest in the Palmer House. My prices are low. It is not necessary to buy. During the party season I shall give particular attention to making faces artistically beautiful. Ladies can see me at all hours by appointment. Laboratory for the trade, 7, 9, and 11 Wabash-av. Ladies call or address me at Palmer House. Follow halls to the right from elevator to 117. DE LA BANTA.

PERSONAL—MRS. EMILY WILKINson is prepared to take orders for painting on plush, velvet, silk, etc. Costume painting a specialty. N. B.—In reply to H. L. R.'s query in the Tribune of Wednesday last as to whether the rich black silk velvet robe worn by Miss Margaret Mather in the "Lady of Lyons" was embroidered or hand-painted: The artist was Mrs. Emily Winkinson, and the robe was hand-painted in oil. She is now prepared to execute similar orders. Ladies will please allow a month to fill such order for costumes. Studio, 202 North Clark-st.

PERSONAL—WOMAN'S BEAUTY—Scientific facts. Ladies, if you wish to make your faces look homely, sallow, unsightly, and aged, continue using paints, powders, "whitewashes," etc., but if you desire a complexion smooth, pure, clear, white, youthful and fascinating, procure Dupree's "Oil of Beauty," the healthful, fragrant skin purifier, used and recommended by Mrs. Scott-Siddons and other noted beauties. Ladies' parlors (lady attendants) thronged daily. 167 South Clark-st. You can test "Oil of Beauty" free of charge. You are not asked to buy. Go and see the beautifying wonder; also the hair-growing marvel "Hair Gift."

PERSONAL—MRS. APPLEBEE SOULE, modiste, 1444 Wabash-av., having returned from the East with the latest styles, would be pleased to welcome her old friends and patrons.

PERSONAL—IF MR. FRANK PALmeter will call or send his address to Room 5, 97 Washington-st., he will hear of something to his advantage.

PERSONAL—CHICAGO'S FIRST AND only chiropodist, Miss Lundy; also manicure; finger-nails made beautiful, and biting of the nails cured. Central Music-Hall, Room 21, elevator.

PERSONAL—POINTS OF INTEREST to gentlemen who wear fine custom garments. We excel in style, quality, and make, and save you one-third in cost by our original and new mode. It costs you nothing for information at the office of the Fine Tailoring Manufacturing Company, No. 100 Washington-st., under Preston & Kean's Bank.

PERSONAL—DEAR MINNIE: I TOOK your advice and bought some picture cards at the Chicago Picture Co.'s, 70 State-st. They are real lovely, and so cheap; 70 in a nice box, all for 50 cents. DORA.

PERSONAL—10,000 HANDKERCHIEFS were perfumed at the Exposition by the Florentine Cologne Fountain.

SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE.

FOR SALE—GO AND SEE ANOTHER of our successful subdivisions of lots in Lake View. Our first subdivision, corner Lincoln and Diversey-avs., was sold in short order. Prices are rapidly advancing, and many who fail to buy now will regret their neglect.

OUR SECOND NEW SUBDIVISION IN LAKE VIEW.

Twenty-seven lots Lincoln-av., $650 to $800 each; 16 lots Wellington-st., $500 to $550 each; 10 lots Herndon-st., $400 to $500 each. Great success has attended all our subdivisions. Two years ago we commenced our plan of selling lots, since then we have sold over 800 lots in our subdivisions in and around the city, and on which over 400 houses have been built. We refer for good and fair treatment of purchasers to the many hundreds of ladies and gentlemen who have bought lots of us and who have paid for them easily, and who are now living in homes of their own, and many of whom have doubled their money within one year. The above lots will be sold on easy payments. Any reasonable arrangement made. Money loaned to build. Advantages and improvements: The location is unexcelled, fronting on the two great main thoroughfares, just north of the city limits, Lincoln-av. and Wellington-st., with high, dry, and rich ground, good drainage, good water, near schools, churches, parks, and street cars. Only a pleasant ride from the centre of the city. Lots the same distance out on the South Side, and not nearly as pleasantly located, cost from five to ten times more. Those who buy now will soon double their money. The lots are surrounded by full width sidewalks, and many fine buildings are in process of erection on all sides of the property. We shall make it as fine a success as our first subdivision. Go and see these lots. Take the Lincoln-av. street-cars. One of the most pleasant rides in the city, passing in front of Lincoln Park and along a finely shaded avenue. S. E. GROSS & CO., subdividers and owners of 10 new subdivisions in and around the city, 69 Dearborn-st., Room 2.

Particular notice—Our agent will be on the lots for information all day Sunday.

MARINE NEWS.

A Fair Demand Yesterday from Shippers for Vessels to Carry Grain.

All the Room Taken for Lake Erie Ports Steam Vessels.

No Change in the Carrying Rates Paid for the Last Two Weeks.

Dock and Other Notes—Vessels Passed Port Huron—Vessel Charters—Around the Lakes—Port List.

Lake Freights.

There was a fair demand yesterday from shippers of grain for vessel-room to Lake Erie ports, but everything taken for those ports was steam. There was no change in rates, and there is nothing to base a belief on that there will be any better prices for carrying grain from this time forward till the close of navigation. Owners of sailing vessels are seriously considering the question of stripping their vessels and placing them in ordinary. There is nothing to justify sail vessels in taking cargoes to the lower lakes at the present prices paid for carrying grain, and the rates paid for up freights are still less encouraging. The season, as far as sailing vessels are concerned, is practically closed, and the only thing for owners to do is to abandon the grain-carrying business for the balance of this season to the big steam transportation lines. There is no doubt that this course will be followed by the owners of most sailing vessels engaged in the grain and coal carrying trades. Very few vessels, either steam or sail, have netted their owners anything this season, and many of them have run in debt. Another thing that will operate to deter owners of sail vessels from chartering their vessels is the fact that the Sailors' Union has increased the wages of sailors 25 per cent, and although usually a very small percentage in the expenses of a vessel, the advance at the present time is an important item. While there is not the least question that sailors earn every cent they receive, it is a question whether they have not made a very serious mistake in advancing their wages at this time under the circumstances. Never before in the history of lake navigation have carrying rates been so low at this time of the year, both down and up, and to advance sailors' wages in the face of such adverse facts seems to unprejudiced people to be a grave mistake on the part of a body of men who can less than anybody interested afford to do anything to compel the laying up of vessels. Said a well-known vessel-owner yesterday: "I have sailed before the mast, and know that a sailor earns every dollar he receives. It is not the intelligent men in the Sailors' Union that have caused this advance, because such know what a vessel makes on a trip as well as the owner does. It is the 'hurrah' fellows that have carried the day. I don't believe that Powers, the head of the sailors' organization, favored the raise, because he is a shrewd, smart man, and knows that such a move at the present time, with the freights we are now getting, is suicidal, and can only result in forcing many owners to strip their vessels and put them in ordinary, thus preventing many good seamen from securing 'sites.' You ask me whether I shall lay my vessels up. Yes, just as soon as they arrive in port. There is no money in keeping them in commission, and I don't propose to take any chances to lose money." Yesterday's charters embraced the following vessels:

For Buffalo.	Bushels.
Steamship Kershaw, wheat	52,000
Steamship Tacoma, wheat	40,000
Steamship Tacoma, corn	30,000
Propeller Vanderbilt, wheat	30,000
Propeller Idaho, corn	20,000

Propeller Wissahickon, rye	15,000
For Collingwood.
Propeller Canada, corn	18,000
Schooner Elgin, corn	23,000
For Kingston.
Schooner F. B. Gardner, wheat	26,000
Total capacity	482,000

Dock and Other Notes.

No accidents were reported to have happened in the river yesterday.

The lumber market docks were nearly bare of vessels yesterday evening.

There were received yesterday by lake 1,600 tons of hard and 900 tons of soft coal.

The lake-tug Reed arrived from Alpena yesterday with three lumber-laden barges in tow.

The fine passenger steamer Idaho, of the Western Transportation Line, leaves for Buffalo Tuesday evening.

The tugs made long runs down the lake yesterday looking for tows. Some of them went as far down as Kenosha.

There seems to be no decrease in business at the docks of the Goodrich and the Graham & Morton steamboat lines.

M. Astran yesterday qualified as master of the schooner Joses, vice Capt. R. Schaddelee, who has been called home by the death of a daughter.

The propeller Canada, Capt. John McGiffin, of the New England Line, left for Collingwood last evening with a cargo of grain and a fair list of passengers.

Capt. Frank Anderson, of the tug Ewing, of the Vessel-Owners' Towing Company, deserves the sympathy of his friends. His wife is lying at the point of death, and he mourns the death of his infant son.

Several vessel agents and Captains claim to have been victimized out of various sums of money by an irresponsible party who claims to be the reporter of an alleged morning sheet. No reporter of any respectable sheet borrows money on the strength of his position, and any one doing so can be safely set down as a confidence man.

The neat and natty Canadian schooner Midland Rover, Capt. Patrick Crokin, arrived yesterday morning from Mudge Bay with a cargo of cedar, consisting of 9,600 posts, 300 railroad-ties, and 200 telegraph poles. Capt. Crokin repeats the story of all in-coming vessel Captains—heavy weather all the way up from the Straits of Mackinaw.

Among the familiar faces seen along the docks yesterday were those of Capt. Peterson, of the schooner Annie M. Peterson; Capt. Dannehy, of the schooner Thomas P. Sheldon; Capt. Aga, of the schooner Stampede; Capt. Crokin, of the schooner Midland Rover; Capt. Barronson, of the schooner John Schuette; Capt. Feltus, of the schooner Belle Brown; and Capt. Hansen, of the schooner Clara.

Joseph F. Schuknect has been appointed master of the Vessel-Owners' tug J. N. Taylor, vice Arthur Maguire, resigned. It is understood that Capt. Maguire intends to engage in business on shore, and should he do so he will have the best wishes of all who know him that he may be successful. Arthur deserves success, as he ranks as one of the best and most gentlemanly tugmen at this port. His place on the Taylor will be ably filled by his successor, who is an old tugman and a first-class man.

Port of Buffalo—Coal Freights—Other News.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Arrived from Chicago—Propeller Waverly, corn, flour, etc.; steamship H. E. Packer, corn. From Duluth—Propeller D. M. Wilson, wheat; steam-barge S. F. Hodge, wheat.

Cleared for Chicago—Propeller Starucca, rails, cement, etc.; steamship H. E. Packer, coal; schooner L. A. Law, coal; schooner J. Godfrey, light. For Duluth—Propeller D. M. Wilson, light; steam-barge S. F. Hodge, sundries; steam-barge Jarvis Lord, coal and rails. For Cheboygan—Schooner Young America, coal.

Lake receipts for the week: Corn, 582,150 bushels; wheat, 1,042,750 bushels; oats, 142,730 bushels; flaxseed, 188,400 bushels; flour, 49,250 barrels; lumber, 4,430,000 feet. Shipments: Coal, 22,000 tons; cement, 7,260 barrels; rails, 3,100 tons; salt, 1,640 tons. Canal shipments: Wheat, 555,400 bushels; corn, 38,240 bushels; oats, 27,060 bushels; rye, 44,300 bushels; flaxseed, 408,130 bushels.

Coal freights continued unchanged. There is no stock for shipment here to speak of, and the greater part of the vessels arriving are obliged to look elsewhere for cargoes. Canal-boats will begin moving past the break tomorrow, and in four or five days we shall get some receipts from that source. Engagements—Steamship Harry E. Packer, coal to Chicago at 50 cents; schooner Riverside, coal to Green Bay at 75 cents; schooner Wabash, coal to Toledo at 25 cents; schooner Lafrenier, cement to Cleveland at six cents per barrel.

The steam-barge D. M. Wilson and schooner Frank Perew will go to Cleveland to load rails for Duluth.

Canal freights were firm at 6 cents on wheat and 5¼ cents on corn to New York.

At a meeting this forenoon the Sailors' Union fixed the rate of wages at $2.50 per day, an advance of 50 cents.

The iron steamship Onoko arrived at 6 o'clock this evening from Chicago with over 100,000 bushels of wheat, the largest cargo ever brought here.

Items from Milwaukee.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 23.—The wrecked schooner J. O. Thayer, recently released from the beach at Sheboygan, and which arrived here last night, was placed in dry-dock today. She was found to be badly shaken up, but her bottom is in good condition considering the time she has been on the beach. Temporary repairs will be made immediately to allow her to discharge her cargo of coal. She will be thoroughly rebuilt during the winter and will be ready for sea at the opening of navigation next season.

The tug R. Davis, of Sheboygan, is in dry-dock for a new wheel and rudder.

The scow J. M. Hill is to have a leak stopped.

The tug Green is in dock for repairs to her stern-bearings, and the schooner Napoleon for recalking.

Arrived from below, coal laden—Schooners R. B. Hayes and G. C. Trumpff.

Cleared for Escanaba—Steam-barge Iron Chief, propeller Pacific and consorts Virginius, Cyclone, and Canton, schooners James D. Sawyer and Kingfisher; for Chicago, steam-barge D. Ballentine and consort A. B. Moore.

A Rough Experience.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WINDSOR, Sept. 23.—The schooner Lady Macdonald encountered a terrific storm on Lake Huron a few days ago. The thunder and lightning were incessant. A bolt struck one of the masts, but strange to say did no material injury. A son of the Captain was prostrated by the shock and rendered unconscious for half an hour. He would have been hurled overboard had not one of his legs slipped between the telegraph poles with which the schooner was loaded and became fastened there. His body fell backward over the bows. The Captain and one of his crew were fortunately near at hand and caught him just in time to save him from being washed overboard. By good management on the part of Capt. Light the Lady Macdonald weathered the gale without receiving any further mishap.

Will Endeavor to Find Out the Cause.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 23.—Capt. Scott has been instructed to report as to whether the frequent fall disasters are owing to defective model or defective construction, too much top-weight out of water in proportion to the part under water, or owing to the common practice of loading the principal part of the cargo on the main deck instead of in the hold.

Mr. Risley, Chairman of the Board of Steamboat Inspectors, has been appointed by the Government to investigate the cause of the accident to the steamer Richelieu. The investigation will be commenced at Lachine today.

Vessels Passed the Welland Canal.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Sept. 23.—Passed up—Schooner J. T. Mott, Oswego to Chicago, coal; propeller Ocean, Montreal to Chicago, general cargo.

Passed down—Schooner Emily B. Maxwell, Chicago to Kingston, rye; schooner G. B. Sloan, Chicago to Ogdensburg, corn; schooner G. M. Case, Chicago to Ogdensburg, corn; schooner Sligo, Chicago to Kingston, wheat; schooner Millard Fillmore, Chicago to Kingston, wheat.

Arrivals and Clearances at Marquette.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MARINETTE, Mich., Sept. 23.—Arrived—Steam-barge A. Everett, schooner F. A. Morse, schooner Mont Blanc, schooner Montcalm, schooner Montgomery.

Cleared—Steamer H. B. Tuttle, steam-barge Vienna, steam-barge S. C. Baldwin, schooner G. H. Ely, schooner Verona, schooner Escanaba, schooner Mont Blanc, schooner Montgomery, schooner Montcalm, schooner Melbourne.

Passed down—Propellers Arctic and Japan.

A Sad Loss to the Captain of the Schooner Joses.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

HOLLAND, Mich., Sept. 23.—Our whole community was shocked yesterday morning by the sudden death during the past night of the oldest daughter of Capt. R. Schaddelee, of the schooner Joses, named Margaret, aged 12 years. As her father sails between Chicago and Muskegon, she wrote him a nice letter only yesterday. She was a very bright girl. Spinal meningitis was the cause of her sudden death.

The Schooner Nellie Sherwood Undoubtedly Lost.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

COLLINGWOOD, Sept. 23.—The steamer City of Owen Sound, of the Canada Transit Company's Line, arrived here at 1 a. m. today. It is now considered almost certain that the schooner recently seen to founder in the Georgian Bay was the Nellie Sherwood, and that all on board were lost, as no tidings of the vessel have been heard.

The Weather at the Straits.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Sept. 23.—Cleared—Steamer City of Cleveland.

Arrived—Steam-barge Powers and tow.

Cold northwest wind prevailing. Weather cloudy and threatening.

The Steamer Picton Gone to Pieces.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

RONDEAU, Ont., Sept. 23.—The steamer Picton has gone to pieces, but most of her cargo has been recovered.

The Break in the Erie Canal Repaired.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The break in the Erie Canal has been repaired and the water is being let in. Navigation will be resumed tomorrow evening.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Bridgeport Bounded.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Please give boundaries of Bridgeport and oblige A READER.

[Twenty-second, Thirty-first, and Halsted streets and Ashland avenue.]

Write to the British Consul, Mr. Crump, at Philadelphia.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Will you kindly inform me as to what qualifications are necessary for the position of British Vice-Consul to Chicago; also what remuneration the Consul receives and with whom the right of appointing him lies? Yours truly, X.

Complain at the City-Hall.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Do you know whose duty it is to regulate the sidewalks? I never see a Sidewalk Inspector in my ward, if there be one. If I knew such an officer I would call his attention to a manifest grievance which I am sure must be against law, as it is against the rights of pedestrians. Between Elizabeth and Ada streets on Lake the grade of the walk was fixed long ago, when the street was paved, and the same was level and good all the way, until a man caused a building to be erected on a lot twenty-eight and one-half feet wide, and in order to accommodate himself caused the sidewalk the width of his building to be raised ten inches, thereby causing a step each side, to the great inconvenience, not to say peril at night, of the hundreds of thousands who have to walk along that street. This alteration was made two months ago, yet no notice seems to have been taken of it by the authorities. It seems strange if one man, to accommodate himself, is allowed thereby to inconvenience a hundred thousand others. What is the remedy?

A PEDESTRIAN.

THE CITY-HALL.

Ald. Blair left for New York last evening to attend the funeral of his favorit niece. He will be home within a week.

Scarlet-fever was reported yesterday from No. 22 Keith street, in the rear; three cases in rear of lot at No. 65 Hastings street; and No. 60 North Western avenue; diphtheria from No. 91 Ontario street.

The Committee on Wharves and Public Grounds meets Monday afternoon to consider the granting of a portion of the Lake-Front to the use of a temporary depot for the "Nickel-Plate" Road.

Mr. Edwin Walker, the attorney for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, yesterday morning called upon Mayor Harrison and had a talk with him in regard to the way the company had been followed up by being summoned from time to time because it did not stop the smoke nuisance so far as its locomotives were concerned. Mr. Walker said that the company had as yet found no device which would suppress the nuisance, but that, if forced to do it, it would fight the validity of the ordinance and test in the courts whether the city had the power to do that which it was attempting to do. He was of the opinion that it had no such powers as the ordinance gave. The interview was a pleasant one, but Mr. Walker was in earnest. The Mayor was equally so.

DEFECTIVE TENEMENTS.

The factory and tenement-house inspectors last week made twenty-seven special examinations; 163 houses were inspected, containing 1,533 rooms, occupied by 444 families of 2,365 persons. There were 32 factories, 82 stores, and 53 miscellaneous places inspected, where 2,535 persons are employed. There were 61 notices served and 38 sanitary defects remedied.

The following places were specially reported upon: No. 80 West Washington street, E. A. Cummings agent; a two-story and basement brick of eight rooms, occupied by sixteen persons. The ventilation, plumbing, and drainage are poor, the sewer being broken. The basement is occupied by ten Italians, and overcrowded.

Nos. 262 and 264 West Randolph street, a brick of twenty-four rooms, with a drug store and restaurant on first floor, and occupied by twenty-five persons. Defective plumbing, untrapped wastepipes, and filthy catchbasins.

No. 180 Fulton street, H. Basenburg; a two-story frame of twelve rooms, occupied by nineteen persons. Drainage defective, and full and offensive privy vaults.

Nos. 158 and 160 Pacific avenue, owned by L. Barbier, a two-story frame of twenty rooms, occupied by sixty persons. The ventilation and plumbing are poor. The water-closets, which are filthy and overflowing, are insufficient in number. It is a dirty, dilapidated rookery, overcrowded by negroes and Italians.

No. 3707 Halsted street, owned by Mrs. Anna Fluery; a two-story frame of fifteen rooms, occupied by thirty-one persons. The plumbing and drainage are defective. The privy vault is full and offensive.

Nos. 535, 537, and 539 Clark street, owned by C. L. Jenks; three frame dwellings, occupied by forty-nine persons. Ventilation is bad, plumbing defective, and the drainage inadequate. The privies are full and offensive, and the stairway, unsafe. The places are dirty and overcrowded.

Nos. 400, 402, and 404 Clark street, owned by John Gunzenhauser; a three-story frame, occupied in part as a milk and fish depot. The privies are full and offensive. The roof leaks, premises are filthy, and the stairways are unsafe.

THE COUNTY-BUILDING.

A calendar of jail cases has been prepared for the Criminal Court, and will be called the coming week.

The printing and stationery account for 1881 was $37,000. This year it will not exceed $35,000—a saving of $2,000.

Deputy-Sheriff Eastman yesterday afternoon levied on the stove and housefurnishing establishment of Merwin Church, No. 280 Wabash avenue, to recover a judgment of $800 for rent in favor of Joseph P. Otis. Church's liabilities are estimated at $3,000, with assets of about $1,000.

Mr. Heckman, the storekeeper at the Insane Asylum, has been removed. The trouble with him appears to have been insubordination. His successor has not yet been named, though his place has been temporarily filled.

The Committee on Public Service, it is claimed, is somewhat remiss in appointing judges of election. They ought to have reported on the subject some weeks ago, but no attention has been paid to the matter to date, it appears.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

The Committee on Town and Town Accounts yesterday agreed to recommend to the Town of Lake Supervisor that a Mrs. Edwards be allowed $1.50 per week in cash in lieu of the relief she has been heretofore receiving. It appears that Wallace Wright had been sending in bills for her relief, which had been allowed up to some weeks ago, and cutting off her supplies brought her before the committee. Her story was that Wright had been advancing her money instead of giving her goods, and this fact came out by one of his bills being disputed. She is a deserving person, no doubt, but the precedent established, it is feared, will lead to trouble; besides, it is doubtful whether the Supervisor will advance the money to her as ordered, especially since there is no authority for any such action. Mr. Wright's disputed bill will be considered hereafter, and before it is paid he will be called upon to do considerable explaining.

The temperature yesterday, as observed by Manasse, optician, 88 Madison street, TRIBUNE Building, was at 8 a. m., 52 degrees; 9 a. m., 53; 10 a. m., 57; 11 a. m., 59; 12 m., 61; 1 p. m., 61; 3 p. m., 61; 6 p. m., 60; 8 p. m., 57. Barometer, 8 a. m., 29.78; 8 p. m., 29.85, with rising barometer.

As Virginius John McCullough carries a talisman of immediate success with any audience.—New York Herald.

His name is known and honored from London to San Francisco.—New York Times.

Such dignity of grief, such loving and tender pathos have rarely been depicted on the stage. Here we felt the presence of real genius.—Boston Herald.

The ovation last night was not only a tribute to the tragedian's genius, but also to his qualities as a man. No actor in the country has become so endeared to the American public as John McCullough.—St. Louis Republican.

Mr. McCullough's place is in the highest rank, and I shall count his Virginius as one of the most impressive and most touching performances I have ever seen.—Chas. Dickens in Household Words.

Mr. McCullough's Virginius is a noble and beautiful work, most manly, sweet, and pathetic in spirit, stately in form, and rounded and finished with exquisite art.—New York Tribune.

SAFE.

Thou can'st launch on mighty waters
Undismayed, thy Pilot nigh,
And the highest mountain-billows
Shall but lift thee toward the sky.

Let the spirits of the tempest
Threaten fiercely and assail—
While the Lord of Heaven is with thee
Surely they cannot prevail.

For He stands there close beside thee,
And, with love that shall not cease,
Clasps His kingly arm around thee—
Points to distant shores of peace.

Then the boisterous waves are silent,
Then the hoarse wind sinks to rest,
And a soft, translucent splendor
Veils the ocean's troubled breast.

Fainter grow the rocky headlands
On the shores of Time each day;
Wider sweeps the vast horizon
Outward to the port of Day.

Though thy barque be half dismantled,
Masts be strained and sails be riven,
Though thou drift adown the harbor,
Thou shalt land at last in Heaven.

JULIA H. THAYER.

THE REVISED VERSION.

ITS SUPERIORITY OVER THE AUTHORIZED VERSION.

New York Sun.

The revised version of the New Testament has now been before the world more than a year, and although it was at first received with almost unanimous approval, the fire of criticism soon opened, and has been kept up with a good deal of vigor. It is well, of course, that the work should be subjected to sharp scrutiny, for in any translation executed by a number of hands there could hardly fail to be inconsistencies and inequalities, and the revisers themselves did not put forth their translation as final and perfect, but simply as an improvement on that in common use. Whether they are justified in this relatively modest claim is the point on which the controversy must turn, and it is now acknowledged by the great majority of competent judges that, although some objections are well taken, the assailants of the new translation have wholly failed to impeach its general superiority to the so-called authorized version.

Besides the Quarterly Reviewer, whose onslaught was marked by positive ferocity, several English critics of some pretensions to scholarship, including Dr. Field and Dr. Malan, have at least recognized the fundamental question at issue, and have leveled their blows mainly at the changes introduced by the revisers in the Greek text known as Textus Receptus, which formed the basis of the King James translation. Dr. Malan has declared that out of sixty changes made in one chapter only one was justifiable and one other admissible, while all the rest were unwarranted. Of 104 alterations examined by Dr. Field eight were pronounced questionable, thirteen unnecessary, nineteen faulty, and sixty-four changes for the worse. As for the Quarterly Reviewer, after citing one of the best-grounded corrections introduced in the new version, it protests that "if the Church of England were to adopt this and thousands of other disfigurements of the sacred page she would deserve to be pointed at with scorn by the rest of Christendom." The very violence of this diatribe, however, defeated its purpose, for when the anonymous author arraigned the whole body of revisers as "singularly deficient in their critical acquaintance with Greek," the reader was naturally prompted to examine the names of the men thus castigated. The list is found to have included the most distinguished Greek scholars in England, such as the Bishops of Salisbury, of Gloucester, and of Durham, the Archbishop of Dublin, Dean Stanley, the Deans of Rochester, Llandaff, and Lincoln, the Archdeacons of Dublin and Oxford, Dr. Scrivner, Canon Kennedy, Dr. Humphry, Dr. Angus, Dr. Vance Smith, and others scarcely less qualified for their task. Canon Farrar, who is himself a Greek scholar of more than ordinary eminence, points out that there is not one of the men just mentioned whose separate opinion would not be at least as valuable as that of their most vehement antagonist, while their collective judgment cannot but be regarded as possessing the very highest authority. Instead of answering the attacks aimed at the methods and results of their textual criticism, the revisers were content to leave the defense of this part of their work to two of their number, Dr. Westcott and Dr. Hort, who, in an appendix to their own edition of the Greek Testament, set forth at length the principles by which the revisers had been guided in their emendations of the old Erasmian text. That treatise is considered the most remarkable exhibition of scholarship which has been made by any Englishman in our time, and it has effectually silenced the attempts to impugn the accuracy of the corrections made in the Greek original.

Other opponents, aware that there is such a thing as a science of textual criticism, and conscious of their inability to cope with the revisers in that field, took the ground that, even admitting the new Greek text to be warranted, the English translation did not correctly reproduce it. Among those who have confined themselves to this safer line of attack, the most respectable is Sir Edmund Beckett, who has published a book of some 200 pages, dealing with alleged mistranslations. The larger part of these he says are due to the adoption of "modern rules" about the meaning of using or omitting the definit article, and about the signification of the Greek tenses, especially the aorists. He avers that the evangelists and apostles did not mind these aorists and articles and particles, and that the revisers, by insisting upon doing so, have sacrificed sense to tense. Replying to this assailant, Canon Farrar points out that the qurstion is not whether rules are modern, but whether they are correct, and he finds it easy to prove that the apostles and evangelists did attend to the difference between aorists and perfects for the simple reason that they would not have been writing Greek at all if they did not. He quotes the highest authority in Hellenistic grammar, Dr. Winer, for the statement that it cannot be shown in any passage of the New Testament that the aorist was ever confounded with the perfect. Not only, moreover, is the discrimination between the Greek tenses made by the revisers correct, but Canon Farrar demonstrates its importance by showing how the obliteration of the Greek aorist in the old authorized version has undoubtedly altered the perspective of some Christian truths, and concealed marked characteristics of apostolic thought. On nearly every other point which Sir Edmund Beckett had selected for animadversion Canon Farrar is able to make a strong if not a conclusive answer. And even in the few instances in which he agrees with him in thinking that the English rendering of the Greek might be improved, he shows that the version preferred by the revisers may be supported by reasons of considerable weight. This testimony of Canon Farrar is the more impressive because it is that of an independent witness, who was not a member of the Committee on Revision, and is in no way bound to defend the soundness of their work.

As for the small fry of critics, who know nothing about textual emendation and who are not even competent to determine whether an English word fairly represents a Greek one, they have had much to say about the bad English, enfeebled rhetoric, and defective rhythm of the revision. Among the most conspicuous and noisy of these popgun assailants are Mr. Spurgeon and Mr. G. Washington Moon. The talk about the shock inflicted upon sacred associations by the introduction of unfamiliar terms and about the damage done to the stately eloquence of the authorized version is disposed of by Canon Farrar with one pertinent inquiry. What did the Christian men who read the Bible and believe it to be the Word of God desire in the new translation? Did they want accuracy, humble fidelity, and the minutest care? or did they want their ears to be tickled by the retention of incorrect but pleasing phrases and familiar rhythms? Did they wish, in short, to have truth or tradition—to hear the very word of God or to be answered according to their idols?

It is interesting to recall that the translators of 1611 encountered much such an outburst of criticism and abuse as that to which the revisers of 1881 have been subjected. Dr. Gell, for instance, disputed the correctness of many English renderings of Greek words in the authorized version, just as Sir Edmund Beckett has done in the case of the revision. He complained of the inversions made by the King James translators, of their supplemental terms, and of the frequent obtrusion of their personal opinions. Hugh Broughton, a man of erudition, who was piqued because he had not been invited to figure among the translators, wrote of the authorized version that it "was sent to me to censure, which bred in me a sadness which will grieve me while I breathe. It is so ill done. Tell his Majesty, King James, that I had rather be rent to pieces with wild horses than any such translation, by my consent, should be urged on any of the poor churches of England." Another contemporary critic, Thomas Ward, was even more outspoken, and evinced as much bitterness and fierceness as has the Quarterly Reviewer in our own day. The translators of 1611 were accused by Ward of "blasphemy, most damnable corruptions, intolerable deceit, and vile imposture," and they are at the same time assured that he makes these charges "not under the dictates of passion, but the just resentment of a jealous mind." Over these and like attacks from a multitude of critics now forgotten the authorized version won an easy victory, and so, no doubt, will the revised. It does not follow that the new translation can expect to immediately supersede its predecesor in common use. Tindale's Bible lingered a long time in the preference of English Puritans, while the so-called Bishop's Bible also had its steadfast partisans, so that it required well nigh half a century for the King James translation to completely displace its rivals and firmly root itself in the affections of the English people.

THE FRIENDS.

MRS. ELIZABETH THISTLEWAITE'S REMARKS WEDNESDAY EVENING.

In Room No. 7 of the Athenæum Building there was a meeting Wednesday night of "Friends," or Quakers, and a TRIBUNE reporter attended, because the occasion was supposed to be a special one, the meeting having been called by Elizabeth Thistlewaite, of Plainfield, N. J. She is a minister of the sect, and has been on a ministerial tour throughout the West. When the reporter entered the room he saw about two dozen persons seated therein, the women all on one side and the men all on the other, except that an impious male representative of a small morning daily had seated himself beside a handsome young Quakeress on the ladies' side. Three old ladies and as many old gentlemen were seated bhind the only table in the room, facing the body of the congregation. One of these ladies proved to be Mrs. Thistlewaite. She wore a plain black dress, a sombre-colored shawl, and gray Quaker bonnet. She is small of stature, has a kindly face, and has probably reached her 60th year. Several others of the older ladies wore the conventional big bonnet. The men had all removed their hats. When the reporter appeared a person motioned him to a seat and he took it.

The room was quiet as the grave. Every one sat with folded arms gazing intently at the floor. Ten—twenty minutes—a half an hour passed, and no one spoke a word. The arms were still folded and the eyes downcast. The unwonted stillness became oppressive to the visitor until he became interested in speculating how long it could last. Finally Mrs. Thistlewaite rose slowly, removed her bonnet, thus exposing a white lace cap, and advanced to the table. Resting her two hands upon it, and gazing straight down at them,

SHE BEGAN SPEAKING.

Her voice was pitched in a low, trembling tone, and in a monotonous sing-song style. The discourse, if it could be called such, was utterly without a thread. She talked as though communing with herself, and as she progressed her words were fairly chanted. She kept her hands on the table all the time, and only once or twice raised her eyes to the congregation. She talked about in this vein: "How beautifully has it been presented to me this evening, dear friends, that solemn thought takes us into the presence of the Lord of Hosts. Men cannot at once forget the cumbering things of time and meditate on the glories of the immortal spirit. Life is a matter-of-fact event despite the romance that men may endeavor to throw about it. The pleasures of the world are all vanity and vexation of spirit. The happiest moments of my life are when, like Isaac of old, I meditate on the infinit wisdom of the God of Israel. Thus do we understand the good words 'And for half an hour there was silence in Heaven.' Men must not get lost in reason and theory. The ways of the Lord of Hosts are past human understanding. Man is a free agent, and not a machine. Let us forget the cumbering things of time and commune in beautiful silence with the Lord of Hosts."

Mrs. Thistlewaite spoke for half an hour, and one good old lady with spectacles and a very extravagant bonnet fell sound asleep, and nodded blissfully in her chair. After the conclusion of the discourse until, in the course of about five minutes, Mrs. Thistlewaite arose and said: "When I was in doubt, dear friends, about what to do and what not to do, these words were sounded in my spiritual ear: 'Thy religion should be undefinable and thou shouldst remember Me in every act if thou wouldst serve Me as thou ought.'" Then she quietly seated herself again and it was quiet again.

At length a lady in the congregation knelt and offered up a short prayer, which was not unlike any ordinary petition to the Almighty. After a few minutes more of utter stillness Mrs. Thistlewaite resumed her bonnet, and this was the signal for the men to shake hands, women to kiss each other, and the meeting to break up.

YOM KIPPUR.

ITS CELEBRATION BY THE ORTHODOX JEWS.

At sundown Friday evening the Polish Jews of Chicago begun the celebration of the atonement, one of the most important of their many holidays. Each year the Jews gather in their synagogs and assist in the services conducted by the rabbis of the congregations. The principal orthodox congregation in Chicago is that which has its worshiping place on Pacific avenue between Harrison and Polk streets.

The Day of Atonement begun Friday evening and ended last evening at 6 o'clock.

The scene in the edifice on Pacific avenue Friday evening was very impressive. The main audience-room and the room below were filled with members of the congregation, all of whom were bent upon a proper observation of the day. The women occupied the galleries of the two rooms, being separated from the men, as is usual on all occasions. As soon as it was announced that the sun had set, Rabbi Lesser, one of the most eminent Polish rabbis in this country, began the conduct of the services in the main auditorium, and an assistant followed the reverend gentleman's lead below. A correct program of the services cannot be given in print, as they were conducted entirely in Hebrew, but an idea of the scene can be given. The audience-room and pulpit are not unlike those of Christian churches, and a Christian would not feel lost if he were asked to worship therein. But the audience was such as would cause any one unused to such a gathering to look about him. It was made up of the hard-working peddlers, rag-pickers, conductors of fruit-stands, and managers of other peculiar institutions which grace the street corners and back alleys of the city. The majority of the male members of the congregation were enveloped in a peculiar looking shroud of black and white striped stuff called a thale's, in which it is said they are wrapped when they are buried. The women wear their every-day apparel. Each person carried a Hebrew service-book, and when a responsive service was read by the rabbi all joined in a chorus that was remarkable for its unanimity. The reading of the rabbi in nearly every instance elicited a wail from the female portion of the congregation in the galleries that sounded to the spectators like the cry of a lost soul; and the unsympathetic male members of the congregation below answered the cry with a "sh! sh!" that caused a pause in the proceedings. Thus the exercises are continued until 10 o'clock at night, and the worshipers adjourn to their homes if they see fit, or remain at the synagog. At 6 yesterday morning they were all at the house of worship, and continued their devotions until 6 last evening.

The services ended last evening amidst considerable of tumult, occasioned by the crowd gathered about the entrances to the church. A disorderly crowd is something which this congregation has to put up with nearly every feast or fast day in the Jewish calendar, and generally there is a special detail for the purpose of preserving order. Within the church walls, of course, the best of good order prevails. The female portion of the congregation had exclusive occupancy of the first story of the structure, and the male portion were densely crowded in the basement. There were among them devotees who had stood upon their feet continuously since the beginning of the fast, and others who had as persistently maintained their seats. The rabbi and his assistants kept up during the hours of service a succession of religious exercises—prayers, sermons, readings from the Books of Moses, and songs, or rather chantings, of the Songs of Solomon. One marked feature of the exercises is that each must pray for himself or herself. The rabbi prays for all, but the layman must pray for himself as well.

The fast ends with the first twinklings of the evening star, but it appears that the time is set by the presiding rabbi, and no particular watch is kept for the star. As the exercises drew near a close last evening the congregation grew more noisy and demonstrative in their prayers and actions, reminding a spectator very much of an enthusiastic revival among the Methodists. When the congregation was finally dismissed by the rabbi, blowing or rather tooting upon a ram's horn, each family went its way home peacefully, and among the good church members there was no perceptible rejoicing at the cessation of the fast. This is somewhat remarkable when one stops to think of the many deprivations and inconveniences which are imposed upon the strict adherents to the faith. During the fast they are not permitted to wash themselves, to touch nor partake of either eatables or drinkables, to handle fire either in striking a light or putting one out, to handle any fowl or animal, much less to set food before them, and they must abstain as completely as possible from handling all things about them save the prayer-books. They are not even permitted to moisten their lips, and should their houses or synagog catch fire they must walk forth and leave it without stirring hand or foot to stay the progress of the flames. They are also required to abandon all elaborate or costly apparel, and to be and appear as humble and abject as possible. And, lastly, they are expected to attend services regularly for some time to come, and for the purposes of accommodating them the synagog is kept open morning and evening for services by either one of the four rabbis employed by the congregation.

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.

MEETING OF THE SYNOD OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

MOUNT MORRIS, Ill., Sept. 22.—This, one of three English Lutheran synods of the State, was opened here on the evening of the 20th inst by the Rev. H. C. Haithcox, the President, with a timely discourse. This body has in its constitution a clause forbidding any man to be a lay delegate to it "who is engaged in the manufacture or use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage."

A minister who was sent to act as delegate from a church which he supplies was admitted as an advisory ministerial member, for as lay representative he could not act.

The Advisory Board of Home Missions reported on the work in Freeport, Rockford, Knoxville, Chicago, and other points as encouraging.

The Rev. Reeser, from Freeport, gave an account of the needs of his field and how the Woman's Missionary Society, whose missionary he is, is contributing for the erection of their new church.

The Rev. S. B. Barnitz, the Western Secretary of Home Missions, spoke at length of the demands of the Western cities and towns, and in a touching manner showed how multitudes are waiting for the Lutheran Church in the English language, and especially in the evangelical form of the General Synod. The Rev. L. M. Heilman, a member of the board, was also called on, and spoke specially of Chicago, whose 200,000 so-called Lutheran population was not provided for sufficiently and properly in any language. The speaker's church is to have a building as soon as possible.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society then held a session to hear from some of the churches about the organizing of new auxiliary societies.

The subject of the Swedish Ansgari College at Keokuk, Ia., on Friday morning occupied considerable attention. It is designed to concentrate in the near future efforts to establish a general theological seminary at Chicago.

In the evening, the Rev. Dr. Unangst, missionary to India for twenty-five years, gave a graphic account of the work in the Guntoor and Palnad districts. There are now over 2,000 communicants there, and a number of schools for men and women. A telegram the evening before brought the sad news of the Rev. A. D. Rowe's death. He had been one of the most successful workers in that foreign field in his day, and was the author of several most excellent works on India, its every-day life, etc. His death is a great loss to the church.

In a session of the ministerium (ministers only) several candidates were ordered to be ordained on Sabbath evening, when the Rev. J. D. Severinghaus will preach the discourse. A gentleman of another denomination, making application for admission, was not received.

On Sabbath afternoon a service in commemoration of the death of the Rev. Mr. Powe, the children's missionary of the Lutheran Church, will be observed. A number of the pulpits of the various churches in the town and vicinity will be filled by members of the synod. The synodical communion will be observed in the morning at the English Lutheran Church.

A number of ministers of other churches were introduced during the session.

Carthage College was reported upon as being in a prosperous condition. New buildings have been erected, especially those for the female students who are admitted. The standard of education is high, a number of the graduates now being professors in other institutions. The expenses for the students are arranged to be but $100 per year. Dr. Kunkleman, the President, is succeeding, and the efforts for increasing the endowment are meeting with good results.

GENERAL NOTES.

The new Baptist mission at Humboldt Park is said to be prospering. The Sabbath-school is crowded every Sunday.

There is an Indian Presbytery in Dakota composed of eleven churches. Several of the pastors are full-blooded Indians.

The evening service in Christ Church, omitted for the past few weeks, will be resumed this evening, Bishop Cheney having returned.

The Episcopal Clergyman's Insurance League has paid to the widows and orphans of the members during the thirteen years of its organization $316,000.

A large number of the Japanese students sent to America returned to their native country Christians, while not one such case has occurred among those sent to Germany, France, and England.

Through a special effort of the rector, the Rev. A. V. Gorrell, ably seconded by his people, St. Stephen's Parish, Episcopal, of this city, has at last been entirely freed from the burden of debt.

The Presbytery of Allegheny, by a vote of eleven to fifteen, refused to permit the Rev. John Kerr to travel on Sunday to Natrona by rail to minister to a weak congregation, after holding service at Allegheny.

The Rev. C. E. Frasier and a few friends met last Sunday and held services in the hall at Eighteenth street and Blue Island avenue. The object was to form a Baptist church in that vicinity. There will be preaching and Sabbath-school there for the present every Sunday at half-past 2.

An Edinburg gentleman, who has a well-filled wine-cellar, has been converted under Mr. Moody's preaching, and proposes to sell the stimulants in the cellar to a medical mission and hand the proceeds to Mr. Moody toward a $50,000 fund which he is raising for the charities and reformatories of Edinburg.

The forty-fifth session of the Illinois Universalist Convention at St. Paul's Church, this city, Sept. 26, 27, and 28. Papers will be read by the Rev. George W. Kent of Peoria, the Rev. L. D. Boynton of Elgin, the Rev. J. Merrifield of Sheridan, the Rev. Florence E. Kollock of Englewood, the Rev. Sumner Ellis, the Rev. W. S. Crow, and others.

The Liberal Society of this city announces that next Sunday afternoon Prof. Felix Adler, of New York, will lecture at the Grand Opera-House on "The True Method of Religious Reform." At the conclusion of the lecture William M. Sothi, of New York, will deliver an address on "Do the Ethics of Jesus Satisfy the Needs of Our Time?"

Dr. Lorimer, Bishop Cheney, and Dr. Kittridge—three of Chicago's popular ministers—are to be present and give addresses at Farwell Hall this afternoon at 4 o'clock upon the means to secure renewed interest in the churches in revival work. The meeting will be preliminary to and in connection with the approaching Christian Convention.

The other day the Pope received from London a gift of 100,000 francs, the sender of which implored the Apostolic benediction. Several offerings of large sums have lately been made in this way from England and from America, and they have gone far to supplement the reduction in the amount of Peter's pence, which in other parts of the world have fallen off.

The Evangelical Association of Chicago will hold a Christian convention in this city, beginning Oct. 11 and continuing three days. The object of the meeting will be to consider the best methods of planning and conducting evangelistic work as distinguished from ordinary church work. The call includes all evangelical denominations and prominent laymen as well as ministers. Prominent Christian workers from England will be present, including the Rev. C. Spurgeon, son of the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, of London.

The Rev. Mr. Zara, a Catholic priest of the Archdiocese of Chicago, recently applied to Bishop McLaren for admission to the ministry of the Episcopal Church, but was rejected. A TRIBUNE reporter asked the Bishop yesterday for his reasons, but he declined to give them. While the application had been made to him he knew nothing about Father Zara. Every year a number of similar applications were made, but only about 10 per cent of the applicants were received. In some cases their record was bad, in others they were incompetent, and, as to Romanists, they wanted to get married. But he didn't say that that was Father Zara's motive.

The Northeastern Deanery of the Episcopal Church in Illinois meets at St. Paul's Parish, Hyde Park—the Rev. Charles H. Bixby, rector—tomorrow evening, 25th inst. Besides the Bishop of the diocese and the Dean, the Revs. Dr. Locke, R. A. Holland of Trinity, Henry B. Ensworth of St. Andrew's, John Hedman of St. Ansgariu's, William J. Petrie of Our Savior's, Henry G. Perry of All Saints', Arthur Ritchie of the Ascension, Chicago, and others, with clergy from the country parishes, are to be present. The laity also will be represented. Tuesday a paper will be read by the Rev. Frederick S. Jewell, Ph. D., of St. Mark's, Evanston. The convocation closes on that day.

The deacons of a negro Baptist Church in Baltimore say that the pastor put in a bill for $150 rent of his parsonage when he had paid only $120, and they voted that he was too dishonest to preach. He insisted upon occupying the pulpit, but one deacon snatched away his Bible and another pulled him out. A still livelier outbreak occurred in a negro Methodist Church in Alabama. The minister announced that everybody who had given 10 cents at the passing of the hats could join in the communion service, which was about to begin, and he invited all who were thus qualified to take the front seats. Among those who went forward was a brother whose contribution had consisted of a battered and punched dime. The pastor excluded him. A fight ensued, and during the tumult somebody escaped with the bread and wine.

The Bishop of Melbourne, Australia, was lately asked by some zealous teetotalers in the diocese to denounce publicly the moderate use of spirituous liquors and tobacco. Without any hesitation he avowed his liberty of action on these points, even though a prelate. "I walk," said he, "my twenty miles a day for the good of others, and when tired out I take my glass of wine and smoke my pipe of peace." Similarly he refused to denounce the theatre indiscriminately; and, when recently a deputation requested him to use the prayer for rain, he told them plainly that it would be not only absurd, but useless, to use such a prayer, as the laws of Nature and the causes that control the weather are irrevocably fixed and cannot be changed by prayers, which are only intended for spiritual communion with the Deity, and in them only spiritual blessings should be asked. Instead of praying for rain, he recommended judicious irrigation to the petitioners.

PERSONAL.

The Rev. Frederick Courtney, of Boston, has returned from his visit abroad.

Mr. Moody, the evangelist, has been invited to go to Asia Minor as a missionary.

Cardinal Manning is taking a prominent part in the temperance agitation in England.

The Rev. Dr. H. M. Storrs has been called to the First Presbyterian Church of Orange, N. J., at a salary of $5,000.

The Rev. William H. Van Doren, D. D., formerly a resident of this city, died recently in Indianapolis, at the age of 72.

The youngest Bishop of the English Church is Bishop Wilberforce, of Newcastle. He is a grandson of William Wilberforce.

The First Presbyterian Church of Topeka, Kas., has invited the Rev. H. W. George, of Geneva, Ill., to supply their pulpit for a year.

The Rev. George Muller will not be able to come to America this fall, as he had expected, his health being poor. He is now in Germany.

The Hon. Jacob Sleeper has been Superintendent of a Methodist Episcopal Sunday-school in Boston for fifty-two consecutive years.

The Rev. P. Elsden, late pastor of the South Baptist Church, Belvidere, has accepted a call to the Englewood Baptist Church.

Bishop Borgess, of Michigan, has issued a pastoral forbidding the marrying of Catholics and Protestants under pain of excommunication.

Dr. Pusey, who lately died in England, was the son of the Hon. Philip Bouverie, and assumed the name of Pusey by royal license. He was 82 years of age.

The Rev. W. L. Phillips, a Methodist clergyman, was mortally wounded in Shiloh, O., last week, in an attempt by the citizens to enforce the Sunday law.

The Advance publishes the following card: "We are informed that the Rev. Fred H. Sanderson, a Methodist minister in Canada, left Canada in sad disgrace a few weeks ago, and has come over to this side with the hope and intention of securing a Congregational pastorate. Our churches should be on their guard against him."

SUNDAY SMILES.

If a woman were to change her sex, what would she become? A he-then.

The wife of a Harlem man who is very fond of singing Sankey's revival hymns, has named their baby "Fort," so that he would want to hold it.

Soon after Sir Henry Rivers took orders he was told by a friend that he would undoubtedly become a Bishop. "Indeed!" said Sir Henry, "why so?" "Because rivers invariably go to the seas."

A little girl in Sunday-school, who had been pulling her doll to pieces during the week, was asked by the teacher, "What was Adam made of?" "Dust," replied the little girl. "And what was Eve made of?" "Sawdust," was the answer.

In a Western town the other day a young man was shot at, but the ball lodged in a Testament which was in his vest-pocket. There ought to be a beautiful moral to this incident, but unfortunately the fact remains that if he had been reading the Testament he would have been killed.—Philadelphia News.

"How do you like the character of St. Paul?" asked a parson of his landlady, one day, during a conversation about the saints and apostles. "Ah, he was a good, clever old soul, I know," replied the landlady, "for he once said, you know, that we must eat what is set before us, and ask no questions, for conscience sake. I always thought that I should like him for a boarder."

"Will you please pass the Shem?" asked a quiet man at the lunch counter. "Haven't any!" squealed the girl in attendance. "Some Japhet?" queried the quiet man again. "Don't keep it!" squeaked the damsel. "I say," chipped in a curious passenger, "what do you mean by Shem and Japhet?" "Nothing," responded the little man, dolefully, "nothing, only the ham is so old and musty that I thought the rest of the tribe might be around here somewhere, and I'd like to see 'em.—Drake's Traveler's Magazine.

Children frequently make original applications of Scripture texts or trite proverbs. A little girl, 4 years old, daughter of the rector of a church in a neighboring city, had 10 cents given her to spend. She made some foolish purchase, which was in pieces before she reached home. Her father had a long talk with her, and in the course of it quoted: "A fool and his money are soon parted," impressing the lesson by every means he possessed. Some Sundays after, in Sunday-school, the plate being passed, she had to think for a text to say, as is the custom on making the contributions. Finally dropping her money into the plate, she recited triumphantly, "A fool and his money are soon parted."

A POETICAL PRISONER.

The Woes of John Anthony Maher, of Rathdowney.

The Kilkenny (Ireland) Moderator reports that at the Nenagh Petty Sessions an ex-draper's assistant named John Anthony Maher, formerly of Roscrea, lately of Nenagh, and latest of Rathdowney, was brought up in custody, charged by Sub-Constable Jeremiah Regan with having stolen a silk umbrella from the house of Dr. Morton, Summer-hill, Nenagh, on Saturday, the 12th inst. The principal evidence for the prosecution was that of Nanny Ralph, a servant in the employment of Dr. Morton, who deposed that on the day in question the prisoner called at her master's house and asked if Dr. Morton was in. She replied that he was not, and asked if Mrs. Morton would do; she then went to acquaint her mistress of the presence of the man in the hall who wanted to see the Doctor. On her (witness') return to the hall she missed from the stand a silk umbrella, the property of a young lady then on a visit to Mr. Morton. The umbrella now produced was the one taken from the hall.

The Chairman—"Is that the man [prisoner] whom you saw in the hall?"

Witness—"It is, sir."

Prisoner (assuming a tragic air)—

"Lady, look me straight in the face.
I am but the wreck of a royal race;
Of fortune and friends they have bereft me:
I'm John Anthony Maher—that's all that's now left me."

[Laughter.]

Evidence was then given by a Mrs. Margaret Minogue to the effect that on the evening in question the prisoner came to her husband's house and asked her to buy the umbrella for two shillings, but she said she did not want to buy it; he then said he was very hungry, that he wanted his dinner, and that she might have "the article" for one shilling; she gave him the shilling "through compassion, your Worships," though she had not known him before, neither did she ask him his name.

The Chairman expressed his surprise that a person of such apparent respectability as Mrs. Minogue should have purchased a valuable umbrella from such a man as the prisoner for is; to which the prisoner replied that she had no "forecast" in the matter.

Prisoner (who was "all impatience" to make a speech—"Well, gentlemen of the court, what do you charge me with? I went into a house to see a doctor. I was hungry, I was thirsty [laughter]; nay, gentlemen, I was delirious. In fact, 'twas our old familiar friend, John Jameson, that did it all—through me [much laughter]; I was but the "instrument" [laughter]; if I took the umbrella—and we will assume, for argument sake, that I did [great laughter]—I was quite unconscious of having done so; that, gentlemen, is the 'head and front of my offending.' Now, what's the odds? [Great laughter.] I had £100 a year in a draper's shop in Rathdowney; let me go back to my business there again, and you shall never see me more."

Chairman—"There is no doubt but that you stole this umbrella, and the magistrates——"

Prisoner—"Pardon me, your Worship, for one moment, while I address the court. There was often ten times as much taken from me, and I never said a word about it. I lost a chain and locket that stood me in 19s 4½d—first cost, gentlemen, I assure you—[laughter]—and I have never seen or heard of them since. I wish I were dead. And who knows if life be not what we poor mortals call death, and death the thing that we call life? There's a problem for you, gentlemen; which of you shall solve it?"

Chairman—"Why did you leave Rathdowney?"

Prisoner—"Thereby hangs a tale—

"One evening in May, as the setting sun shone,
The shop it was there, and John Anthony gone."

[Laughter.]

Chairman—"I have here your photograph——"

Prisoner (with well-feigned surprise)—"What! mine, your Worship? Did you say my photo, my second self?" [Renewed laughter.]

Chairman—"Yes, and it is an accurate likeness. Look at it" (and his Worship confronted the prisoner with his photo, at foot of which was the date "17-1-'75," and the prisoner's name in full.)

Prisoner (looking at the picture with the air of an art critic)—"Well, your Worship, I cannot compliment the artist, for it is not a speaking likeness [laughter]. However, your Worship, look on that picture, then on this [striking his breast], for you may ne'er look on their like again" [great laughter].

Chairman—"I have also a record here of many previous convictions against you, and by which I find that you were four times convicted of larceny, seven times for vagrancy"——

Prisoner—"O Mother o' Moses!" [laughter.]

Chairman—"Once as a public nuisance"—

Prisoner (with a smirk)—"You don't say so!" [Laughter.]

Chairman—"And twenty-one times for drunkenness"——

Prisoner—"Shall I ever get drunk again?" [Renewed laughter.]

Chairman—"In fact, we have such a good character of you here on this record that we shall give you the benefit of it, and send you for trial on this charge to the next quarter sessions."

Prisoner—"Now, I should like to know who was the recording angel that went to the trouble of jotting down all my little peccadilloes. What about all the good things I have ever done? [Laughter.]

"O, if all my meritorious deeds were stated, They'd more than balance all you have enumerated."

Chairman—"That will do now; you may go down."

Prisoner—

"Down to the dust from which I've sprung, Unwept, unhonored, and unsung."

[Great laughter.]

Chairman—"Constable, remove the prisoner. The case is now returned for trial to the next Quarter Sessions."

Prisoner—"When will the next Quarter Sessions be held, your Worship?"

Chairman—"On the 14th of October next."

Prisoner—"Holy Moses. [Laughter.] Then, John Anthony, my boy, after all your journeyings to and fro, and all the pleasant days and nights you've spent, I fear me very much that your sun has at length set, and set forever." [Renewed laughter.]

The prisoner was then removed in custody.

TWO FEATHERS.

For The Chicago Tribune.

Once upon a day in Summer,
'Neath an oak-tree's grateful shade,
Stretched at length among the flowers,
Where a stream its music made;

While I watched the laughing waters,
Purling softly, gently glide,
Two white feathers there I noticed,
Floating onward side by side.

Short, however, was their journey,
For the waters, eddying strong,
Forced apart these two white feathers
As it swept its way along.

And I thought that oft it happens,
Sailing down the stream of Life,
Two fond hearts are feathers floating,
Bound together—man and wife.

When the waters, smooth and placid,
Bear them onward side by side,
Through the sunlight and the shadow,
Float they gently with the tide.

While they ever, loving, trusting,
Hand in hand, and heart to heart,
Float together down Life's river;
Or, like feathers, drift apart?

No—the storms of Life's long voyage
Draw them nearer, till at last,
Safe within their heavenly harbor,
Anchor they, all danger past.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., Sept. 17.—Yesterday afternoon, after our informal reception at the house of Gov. Terrazas, we roamed about town, doing pretty much as we pleased, until evening, when we met Mayor Zubiran by appointment, and witnessed a pyrotechnic display in celebration of the anniversary of Mexican independence. When leaving the cars to be drawn to the city, we packed ourselves into vehicles which seemed a cross between a Chicago mail-wagon and an old-fashioned stage-coach, most of which were drawn by six mules—four abreast leading, and two beside the pole. The driver in each case was a swarthy chap, with a wide-brimmed sombrero forming a sort of a frame for his dark face, and who constantly whistled to his sextet of mules, urging them to a greater speed. When one of these Mexican affairs got started it was a sure thing that it didn't stop till it reached its destination, no matter what got in the way. Our drive whirled us along over bowlders and through deep ruts at a rate that threatened the annihilation of the entire party.

THE CITY OF CHIHUAHUA lies in a pleasant valley, with rather low but beautiful hills stretching away on every side. To the north of the city flows a beautiful stream of clear, cold water, having its source in springs hidden away in the hills, and which is one of the few Mexican streams that do not dry up during the long season of dry weather. To reach the city from the point at which the railway station will be situated, this stream has to be crossed; and, until the railway-people built a foot-bridge across it, the citizens of Chihuahua had forded it, wading bare-legged when on foot. Our driver rushed us through the water to the opposit bank, the wheels grating harshly upon the hard pebble bottom, and the mules spattering bucketfuls of water upon those who were passing over the foot-bridge, and then went rattling and jotting over a dusty road, across a quaint old bridge, built a century or so ago, that marks the limit of the city in that direction at that time. The city covers less ground for its population than an American city, for the reason that are built in long rows, taking up but little ground, and giving the city a sort of a compressed appearance. There is little exterior ornamentation to the residences, though one occasionally runs across a house whose owner has decorated the front with vivid blue columns. As a rule, the Mexican householder spends all his efforts in beautifying the placita and rooms of his house. All of the windows in residences and most of the stores are protected by iron bars, that give to the city a prison-aspect, that wears off very quickly. These bars permit a Mexican gentleman to leave his windows wide open whenever it is warm, without fear of intrusion by thieves.

THE FLAT ADOBE HOUSES

One of the first things that attracted my attention as we entered the city was a short, blood-thirsty-looking fellow, who carried a short breech-loading rifle over his shoulder, while slung to a belt full of cartridges around his waist was a revolver almost as large as the rifle. He had a second belt filled with rifle-cartridges, and looked as if he could stand a pretty effective siege all by himself. Upon inquiring afterwards, I learned that and concluded that, when told to move on, it would be policy to move, and move lively. He looked a good deal as if he would like to use his weapons; and, when I passed a Mexican policeman after that, I did so in a humble manner, at which he could not possibly take offense.

Nearly in the centre of the town lies the old cathedral, that dates back two centuries or so, facing upon the plaza, or public square, on the opposit side of which are the legislative hall and the Government offices. An "American" hotel and a number of shops fill up the remaining sides of the plaza. In a tour among the stores I found that, while there were some American goods to be had, the main portion of the stock was of European manufacture; and that the cost of importing the goods made everything very expensive.

THE SHOPKEEPERS

pay all the way from $6 to $30 per month tax upon their business, in addition to other taxes and rent. Some of them, with whom I talked through an interpreter, believed that the railway would cause an increase of taxation, while others took an opposit view, and regarded it as a good thing. American money I found was taken everywhere, at 20 per cent premium on gold and paper and 10 per cent on silver.

In wandering about during the afternoon our party stumbled upon an open door through which we could see a most inviting and charming garden full of plants and flowers, and looking so cool and enticing that we made bold to enter. The sound of our steps upon the stone floor brought several Spanish ladies upon the scene, and we were agreeably surprised to be greeted in English, and invited to enter a parlor, where we sat and listened to some Spanish music upon the piano. The ladies told us that they had been for a long time, and that many other Spanish ladies were similarly engaged, there being a sort of a rage after English. We spent a very pleasant quarter of an hour there, and then departed, our party dividing up—some returning to the train where we were quartered, while others scattered about the town.

I was one of the latter; and, as evening had come, I made my way to the plaza, took a seat, and watched the passing crowd. Doing this gave me a fair idea of the residents of Chihuahua, every class being represented. I saw few faces that could be called beautiful, though there were many striking countenances among the women. The characteristics are the same throughout: black, glossy hair; dark skins; rather flat features, though the cheek-bones are as a rule rather prominent. There are few styles of dressing the hair, preference being given seemingly to a simple coil or braid worn low. I saw only two bonnets, and they were worn by American ladies. The Mexican ladies wear a simple black shawl or light lace veil thrown over the head.

THE PLAZA

is not a large place—covering about as much ground, perhaps, as the Grand Pacific Hotel; but in the evening, after the heat of the day, it becomes wonderfully lively and interesting. A fountain in the centre—surrounded by luxuriant plants—plenty of shade-trees, an abundance of settees, and a band that gives a concert every evening, make the plaza a resort for everyone. I noticed, in watching the promenaders, that the Mexican señoras and señoritas seemed to enjoy their cigarets fully as much as the señors who accompanied them. There sat near me last evening a young Mexican woman—accompanied by her cavalier—in whom I became somewhat interested through her bright face, arch manner, and graceful figure. Somehow, while watching her, I unconsciously began to weave her into

A LITTLE ROMANCE.

I thought of her leaning over a low balcony, her face half hidden by a rich veil hanging in heavy folds from the top of her head, gazing lovingly at her cavalier, who, in the gay Spanish costume, stood near with his guitar, pouring out his love in a passionate song. Thus I was half dreaming, when the graceful subject of my fancy leaned slightly forward, staring wildly at a spot upon the walk some six feet distant from her. Her full red lips parted as if she were about to speak, her pearly teeth gleaming just beneath them, and her face lighted up with a smile that was almost heavenly. Suddenly, with a convulsive movement of the upper part of her body, with such accuracy that the unfortunate insect that had alighted upon the walk and attracted her attention was overwhelmed and deprived of life. My romance was knocked higher than a kite, and I moved to the opposit side of the plaza.

SHE PROPELLED A MOUTHFUL OF SALIVA

The promenaders were mostly Mexicans, though occasionally there passed a chap whose fearless, don't-care-a-cuss actions, and frequent lapse into profanity proclaimed him to be a countryman of mine. The average American met with here is a rough-looking fellow, in a blue shirt, with overall pants stuck in his boots, and a black felt hat turned up before and behind. Any one who dresses in any other fashion is looked upon as a curiosity, and always attracts attention. Among the characters that passed by where I was sitting I espied one who aroused my curiosity and amazement. It was a man,

ONE OF THE MOST GORGEOUS BEINGS

I have ever beheld. He was about four feet six inches tall—three inches of his hight being due to the heels of his boots. He was dressed in black broadcloth—his coat and vest opening, in the old style, nearly to where his trousers began, exposing a vast expanse of shirt-bosom, which was spotless white. In the centre of the shirt-bosom, beginning at his neck, placed about two inches and a half from each other, and continuing down as far as the shirt-front was visible, were huge nuggets of virgin gold as big as a silver quarter. From his vest-pocket on the left side there depended a string of $10 gold-pieces fastened together with small links of gold, upon the end of which swung a huge bunch of seals. His necktie was a brilliant red. His hair was of the same color, only more subdued in tint, and was worn very long. His mustache on each side of his face, was waxed and as stiff as a ramrod. He also had a goatee waxed like his mustache. His little and third fingers of both hands were covered to the knuckles with enormous rings. His head was surmounted by a white hat with a brim a foot wide, and as he waddled along, his legs looking like a pair of callipers, he was the cynosure of all eyes, and was followed by an admiring crowd. This gorgeous individual, I ascertained, came out to this country to convert the sinful communities that exist all over the West; but he couldn't make it work, and, after drifting about in a starving condition for several years, started a club-room, and presided over the several games of cards that were played there. From that moment he prospered, and, though he has been nearly killed on several occasions, he still holds out, a merry gambler worth untold millions.

STUCK OUT FOR FIVE INCHES

This morning carriages called for us at half-past 9 o'clock, and nearly the entire party were driven over to ATTEND SERVICE AT THE CATHEDRAL.

We found the building—which shows its age—crowded to suffocation, most of the worshipers being women. The interior is comparatively plain, the floor being bare, and guiltless of seats save upon one side, where a bench runs lengthwise of the church. The walls are adorned with cheap gilt-framed chromos of the Savior and the Madonna, and gilt chandeliers hang suspended from the dome by ropes. There was a queer combination of women, children, and dogs—the crying of the infants and the occasional barking or yelping of the canines seeming to have no effect upon the worshipers. We did not remain through the service, but during the three-quarters of an hour that we were there the women remained kneeling. Not a word was said by the priest so far as we could hear, and the service was unintelligible.

Leaving the church, we visited a number of the shops, whose heaviest business is done Sunday, and purchased some characteristic Mexican pottery—every member of the party investing, so that when we were ready to return to the train a couple of extra carriages were required to carry the purchases.

During the early part of the afternoon we remained at a house recently built by Gov. Terrazas for his son, who was lately married and is at present on a bridal tour through the States. Here we met the Governor for the third time, and were treated to of seven courses. The Mexican guests, of whom there were several, seemed to enjoy it; but Mexican cooking didn't appear to strike the American guests favorably, and they ate sparingly. Late in the evening they bade the Governor adieu for the last time, expressing their regrets at their inability to remain and take in the ball that has been arranged for tomorrow evening. Mr. Leiter remained behind with the Boston portion of the crowd to witness the festivities of tomorrow, and the others returned to the train.

THE COUNTY POOR.

Agent McGrath's Yearly Report.

The yearly report of County Agent McGrath will be submitted to the County Board tomorrow. The report is, as usual, very exhaustive, and gives in detail every expenditure of money, provisions, etc., for the year ending Aug. 31, 1882. The total expenses the year preceding were $77,867, which was exclusive of rent and salary of agent. This year, including both these items, the expenses were $73,222, a saving of over $4,000. In the item of bread, furnished by Duffy Brothers, the bill was $6,590. F. W. Bipper's bill for meat was $13,881. Boots and shoes cost $2,345. The cost of burying the poor was $972. The railroads charged $4,779 for the transportation of poor people elsewhere.

The number of families remaining on the books at the close of the year ending Aug. 31, 1881, was 602; applicants during the present year, 8,693; number of families aided, 2,551; remaining on the books, 547.

The following figures give the number aided in each division of the city: West, 1,649; South, 427; North, 475. The number of wives deserted by husbands who received aid was 402. The widows numbered 1,073.

THE NATIONALITY OF FAMILIES receiving aid was as follows:

Americans	314	Italians	19
Belgians	3	Polish	122
Bohemians	112	Russians	3
Canadians	32	Scandinavians	263
English	80	Scotch	23
French	21	Swiss	4
Colored Americans	51	Welsh	2
Germans	677
Hollanders	16	Total	2,551
Irish	799

The number of meals furnished sick and indigent persons was 609, and lodgings were furnished to 193.

Transportation orders were issued as follows: Paupers, 639; insane sent to relatives, 80; insane sent to asylums, 76; total, 795. The total dispensary orders were 3,111. There were forty-six articles of medical merchandise issued, among which were six artificial limbs.

The number of burial orders issued to citizens and charitable institutions was 527. Of this number, the Foundlings' Home got 132, and the Home for the Friendless 100.

There were 315 applications for alleged insane persons to be tried at the expense of the county. Among these were 75 Americans, 69 Irish, 67 Germans, and 48 Scandinavians. Of the 317 tried, 221 were found insane and 96 dismissed.

There were admitted to the almshouse 716, and 508 applications were rejected. The nationality of those admitted was as follows:

Americans	155	Italians	3
Belgians	2	Polish	6
Bohemians	14	Scandinavians	85
Canadians	16	Scotch	21
Colored Americans	18	Swiss	3
English	30	Welsh	4
French	6	Unknown	1
Germans	118
Irish	237	Total	716

Most of the applicants for relief appear to be from the West Side, and this is no doubt due to the office being on that side of the river. If the office were in the centre of the city the disproportion would not be so noticeable.

WAITING.

For The Chicago Tribune.

Fair Marjorie, with golden hair,
And two fond eyes of deepest blue,
Stands by the gate at eventime,
Sweeter than any flower e'er grew—

A tender smile on her sweet lips,
A dreamy look in her deep eyes:
Does she chance happiness to view,
Or catch a glimpse of Paradise?

Ah! joyous maid, with boundless love
Now lighting up thy sunny face!
Was ever fairer picture seen
Than this sweet form of girlish grace?

A rosy blush flits o'er her cheek
As down the lane there comes in view
The youth who's kneeling at her shrine.
Ah, love! how could she keep from you?

Liver, Kidney, and Bright's Disease.

A medicine that destroys the germ or cause of Bright's disease, diabetes, kidney, and liver complaints, and has power to root them out of the system, is above all price. Such a medicine is Hop Bitters, and positive proof of this can be found by one trial, or by asking your neighbors, who have been cured by it.

THE STAGE.

Programs of the Chicago Theatres for the New Season.

A Promising List of Attractions at All the Houses.

Review of the Last Week—Fresh Productions Tonight and Tomorrow.

Dramatic Jottings from the Chicago and Other Theatres—John McCullough.

The New Season in Chicago.

For the benefit of the amusement-loving public THE TRIBUNE prints today a list of the city theatres, together with their staffs and some of the principal engagements made during the season, which will be found of interest to the theatre-goers of all classes. It will be seen that the Chicago managers, with their usual enterprise, have procured the best attractions to be had, and it is due to them that their efforts in this direction be liberally rewarded:

M'VICKER'S THEATRE.

The staff of McVicker's Theatre is as follows: J. H. McVicker, proprietor and manager; L. L. Sharpe, business and stage manager; Charles L. Williams, assistant stage manager; Charles Weber, musical director; L. Malmsha and J. Howard Rogers, scenic artists; John Barstow and Frank Langridge, machinists; Charles Redfield, treasurer.

The regular fall and winter season opened Saturday, July 29, with Colville's "Taken from Life," followed by Margaret Mather for two weeks. Roland Reed has just finished a week's engagement in "Cheek," and this week the Hanlon Brothers, in "Le Voyage en Suisse," hold the boards. They will be followed by Jeffreys Lewis, J. Newton Gotthold and company in "La Belle Russe," from Wallack's Theatre, New York. Among the attractions already booked are Mary Anderson, Denman Thompson, John T. Raymond, Mme. Modjeska, Lawrence Barrett, the Madison Square Theatre Company in "Hazel Kirke" and "The Professor"; Hermann, the prestidigitateur; Lotta, "The World," Joseph Jefferson, and Annie Pixley.

Nothing need be said about the theatre, as it is a well-known fact that no expense is ever spared in putting plays on the stage in first-class shape, and that comfort of the audiences is always uppermost in the minds of the management.

HOOLEY'S THEATRE.

Following is the staff of Hooley's: R. M. Hooley, proprietor and manager; J. C. Padgett, stage manager; H. J. Powers, treasurer; T. P. Hooley, assistant treasurer; A. S. Page, machinist; J. W. Ritter, scenic artist; J. Homan, master of properties; Flodoard Hoffman, musical director.

The Kiralfy Brothers opened the regular season with "Michael Strogoff" and the "Black Crook," followed by Willie Edouin's "Sparks" in "Dreams" and "Ripples" for two weeks. This week Miss Marion Elmore will be seen in "Chispa." Following her will appear Joe. Emmet in "Fritz Among the Gypsies"; James O'Neill in "An American King"; Bartley Campbell's "White Slave"; Robson and Crane; Adams' "Humpty Dumpty"; Harry Meredith's "Ranch No. 10"; Colliers' "Lights o' London"; Minnie Maddern; Mestayer's "Tourists"; Thorne and Goodwin's "Black Flag"; the Stafford Company; Maggie Mitchell; Hearne's "Hearts of Oak"; Charles Wyndham and company, from the Criterion Theatre, London, England; Joseph Murphy; McKee Rankin in "The Danites" and "'49"; Salsbury's "Troubadours."

During the summer months Manager Hooley spent a good deal of money on the interior of his theatre, changing and redecorating the entire auditorium, hanging a new curtain, and making many improvements.

HAVERLY'S THEATRE.

The staff of Haverly's is as follows: J. H. Haverly, proprietor; Horace McVicker, manager; Edward Keys, treasurer; George Bowron, musical director; David Strong, scenic artist; J. E. Tripp, master machinist; William Edgerly, master of properties; M. C. Rich, electrician; C. N. Richards, stage-manager.

Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels played a preliminary season at this house, and the regular season was opened Sept. 4 by Frank Mayo in "Davy Crockett," followed by M. B. Curtis in "Sam'l of Posen," and Aldrich and Parsloe in "My Partner." This week John McCullough plays in "Virginius" and next week in several plays in his repertoire. Then follow the Union Square company in "Lights o' London"; Brooks and Dickson's "Romany Rye"; Mrs. Langtry, the English beauty; the Madison Square company in "Esmeralda"; the Kiralfys with their spectacular pieces; Janauschek; "Merry War," the new comic opera; Salvini, the Italian tragedian; Harrigan and Hart's "Squatter's Sovereignty"; the Strackosch opera company; Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels; the Harrisons in Leonard Grover's new play, "Viva."

Haverly's is now one of the pleasantest theatres in the city, and under Mr. Horace McVicker's management it has become a favorit resort for Chicago's theatre-goers.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

The staff of the Grand is as follows: Proprietor and manager, John A. Hamlin; business manager, Harry Hamlin; treasurer, Fred Hamlin; musical director, Amand Buisseret; scenic artist, W. P. Davis; machinist, John Faust; master of properties, John Dolan; engineer, John Fanning.

During the past two years this theatre has remained open every week, and this policy will be adhered to by the management in the future. The regular fall and winter season was opened by Thomas W. Keene, the tragedian, in a two weeks' engagement, and the Hess Acme opera company follows tonight in an engagement of two weeks. Then follow Laura Don and company in her new play, "A Daughter of the Nile"; George C. Miln and John L. Burleigh, the new tragic pair; the celebrated German actress, Josephine Galmeier; Salvini, the Italian tragedian; the Boston Ideal opera company; the German company from the Thalia Theatre, New York, in the original version of the comic opera, "Merry War," as produced by them last season; Mlle. Rhea, the charming French actress; Barlow, Wilson & Co.'s Minstrels; Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels; Fred Warde in the legitimate; Minnie Palmer in "My Sweetheart"; Sol Smith Russell in "Edgewood Folks."

This cosy little theatre is too well known to need any description in these columns.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The staff is: Daniel Shelby, proprietor and manager; W. S. Kusel, assistant manager; John Muir, Treasurer; J. L. Saphore, stage-manager; Otto Vogler, musical director; Harry Burberry, machinist; A. F. Snell, master of properties; Ralph Bechtel, scenic artist.

Barry & Fay's "Muldoon's Picnic"; Harry Meredith's "Ranch No. 10"; John Dillon's "State's-Attorney"; Charlotte Thompson; Fay Templeton's comic opera company; the Lingards; Sol Smith Russell's "Edgewood Folks"; "The World"; McKee Rankin in the "Danites" and "'49"; Little Corinne's "Merrymakers"; the Davene troupe; "Taken From Life"; Leavitt's All Star specialty company; W. H. Powers' dramatic company; "The Galley Slave"; the Knights; Bartley Campbell's "My Geraldine"; James O'Neill's "American King"; Tony Denier's "Humpty Dumpty" company; Frank Frayne; Milton Nobles; Oliver Doud Byron; Moffatt and Bartholomew. Other engagements are pending, and Manager Shelby will give his patrons only first-class attractions.

During the summer months the Academy was redecorated and brightened up both inside and out, and the auditorium and street lamps are now illuminated by the incandescent electric light. Large air-fans have been put in, and the Academy is one of the prettiest and most comfortable theatres in the city.

OTHER PLACES OF AMUSEMENT.

The Olympic Theatre, under the management of James H. Meade, will give its patrons a strong list of variety combinations, melodramas, etc. The Criterion, which is the representative North-Side resort, and the Lyceum, on the West Side, will do likewise. At the Central Music-Hall lecturers and concert companies will appear during the season, which opens next Thursday evening with the Litta concert company. Fred Englehardt's Chicago Museum, now a permanent institution, will be open on the Lake-Front, and the Exposition will not close until the latter part of October. Any number of minor theatres and halls will be open, and it will be readily seen that Chicago's amusement-loving public will be amply cared for during the approaching season.

Review of the Past Week.

The attendance at all of the theatres during the week has been large, thanks to the cool weather and the multitudes of strangers in the city, and the managers are correspondingly happy. At the Grand Opera-House Mr. Keene appeared in the strongest rôles of his répertoire to large audiences, and his fourth engagement here has been a success. Roland Reed, in "Cheek," at McVicker's has done an immense business. His play has been much improved since last seen here, and the eccentric part of Dick Smythe fits him like a glove. The supporting company is better than he had last season. Willie Edouin's "Sparks" played "Ripples" Monday and Tuesday evenings at Hooley's, but it was such a hopelessly bad play that it was taken off, and "Dreams" was substituted. It continued to good business during the week. When Mr. Edouin surrounds himself with a good company and does not try to play all the parts himself he may look for success. The wonderful vitality of "My Partner," Aldrich and Parsloe's play, has been fully demonstrated at Haverly's, where it has been played to immense business during the week, notwithstanding the fact that this is the third time it has been seen here during the past five months. Leavitt and Pastor's variety combination has drawn packed houses at the Olympic, and Hyde and Behman's varietycombination has done likewise at the Academy of Music.

Local Amusement Notes.

Tony Denier's pantomime and specialty troupe will appear at the Olympic tomorrow evening and during the week. The organization is a strong one of its kind.

At the Lyceum this week will be seen the Moores, Mealy and Hague, Charles Stanly, John Sherry, Mary Raymond, Master Eddie Lester, and the San Francisco Quartet.

At the Academy of Music this week Mr. William J. Scanlan, an Irish dialect comedian, will appear as a star in Bartley Campbell's new play, "Friend and Foe," which is well spoken of by the Detroit papers.

The Hanlon brothers have returned from their successful trip to the Pacific coast, and will appear at McVicker's during the week in their popular absurdity, "Le Voyage en Suisse." Next week Jeffreys-Lewis, J. Newton Gotthold, and a selected company will produce the Wallack success, "La Belle Russe."

Collmer, Isenstein, and Wurster's German comedy company will appear at McVicker's this evening in L'Arronge's celebrated comedy "Haaseman's Toechter" (Haaseman's Daughters). Two new members of the company will make their début in the leading parts—Mr. Feuchter as Haaseman, and Miss Wagner as Rosa.

The big whale was switched down yesterday on to the vacant lot on Michigan avenue, and a gang of men are busy moving him into Battery "D" armory, where he will be on exhibition this week. Englehardt offers an enlarged program this week. The Nunn Brothers' orchestra furnish the music; the Plantation Singers remain, also the Baby Quartet.

This evening the popular soubret, Miss Marion Elmore, will appear at Hooley's Theatre in her new play of "Chispa," by Green and Thompson, under the management of Hayden and Davis. The play is said to have been well received in New York, where it was recently produced for the first time in the East. Joe Emmett, the ever-popular German dialect comedian, will appear at this house next week in his new play, "Fritz Among the Gypsies."

Mr. Harry Chapman, who is managing the benefit for "Uncle" Dan Emmet, the father of minstrelsy, which is to take place at the Grand Opera-House Thursday afternoon, Oct. 5, announces that he has secured for that occasion the services of Joe Emmet, who will appear in his songs and dances, and the entire Barry and Fay "Muldoon's Picnic" company. The old beneficiary himself will appear with the old fiddle upon which the popular "Dixie" was first played. Professionals desiring to volunteer their services for the benefit are requested to address Mr. Chapman, at Hooley's Theatre.

Tomorrow evening at Haverly's Theatre Mr. John McCullough, the well-known tragic actor, will appear in his favorit character of Virginius in Sheridan Knowles' celebrated tragedy. The production will be on a grand scale, with new costumes, armor, scenery, etc., and the following powerful cast: Virginius, John McCullough; Appius Claudius, Edmund Collier; Icilius, Joseph Haworth; Caius Claudius, H. C. Barton; Dentatus, H. A. Langdon; Numitorius, J. H. Shewell; Lucius, Frank Lane; Marcus, Henry Chanfrau; Servius, Frank Little; Cneius, W. Bower; Soldier, Edward Wilson; Virginia, Miss Kate Forsyth; Servia, Mrs. Augusta Foster; Female Slave, Miss Mittens Willett.

Amusements Abroad.

Henry Irving's revival of "Romeo and Juliet" has run nearly 150 nights.

Boker's play, "Francesca di Rimini," has made a very great success in Philadelphia with Barrett and company.

Eily Coghlan, a sister of Rose, has returned to the stage and is a member of Mr. Daly's company for the present season.

Len Grover is busy revising John T. Raymond's play, "Touch and Go." Mr. Grover will also write a supplementary act for this work.

The latest news about Steele Mackaye's up-town theatre in New York is that it is to be decorated under the direction of Oscar Wilde.

H. B. Conway, leading man of the London Haymarket Theatre, arrived last week on a brief visit to this country. He returns again Thursday.

Robson and Crane's company begin rehearsals of "Forbidden Fruit" at the Brooklyn Park Theatre Tuesday next. Their season begins Oct. 2.

W. C. Coup, the circus manager who failed recently, has invented a portable opera-house and will travel with it next season. (This looks like a circus lie.)

As Ned Price, agent for John McCullough, was dining sumptuously at the Peoria House the other day, the Hibernian head-waiter struck him for passes and was referred to the Treasurer. "Axcuse me, sor," said the applicant, deferentially, "I thought I wud rather stroik you for thim now. You know, sor, it would not be plisant for me to walk up to the dure wid chew ladies and not be re-cog-nized."

Upon reaching a Montana town after his recent trip through the Yellowstone Park, John McCullough, who was temporarily separated from Gen. Sheridan's party, walked into the principal hotel, bronzed, dusty, and heavily bearded, and asked for a room. "Full," said the proprietor; "best I can do is to fix up a cot in the hall." "All right; a cot beats nothing," responded the tragedian serenely, as he inscribed his name on the register. The landlord, who had been a patron of the drama in San Francisco, glanced at the autograph and shouted: "Well, d——n me if here ain't the cuss that makes Rome howl. Everything goes with you, old man, and never forget it. You'll take my room and I take the cot." And he did.

SUPERIOR PHOTOGRAPHS

are now being made by Mosher, 125 State street. Mr. Kidney, who does the artistic posing and lighting, has had twenty years' experience in the best galleries in New York and Boston, and is the most obliging operator under the skylight. Crayon portrait, very best, from $25 to $50 Pastel from $40 to $100 each. Children's photographs very superior, as they are made by the lightning process.

NOW IS THE TIME.

The classes at the Metropolitan Business College, opposite McVicker's Theatre, are now filling up for the winter. Students may enter at any time either the day or evening sessions, and pursue such branches as desired. Class and individual instruction. Thorough work by an able and experienced corps of teachers. For further information call at the college office.

MUSIC.

Light Operas and a Concert the Attractions This Week.

Some Interesting Notes from the Birmingham Festival.

A Brief Collection of Home and Foreign Musical Gossip.

Music This Week.

The musical season opens this week, and from now until next summer there is every indication that the field will be well occupied however disappointing the harvest may prove. Besides our local organizations, such as the Apollo, Beethoven, and Mozart, the German societies and the Philharmonic, there are innumerable concert companies ready to fill dates in this city. Of these the Thursby and Nilsson organizations will probably attract the most attention. Then the Mapleson opera company, with Patti, will visit us during the winter, and the veteran impresario, Strakosch, will also put in an appearance during the year. Grau and his opera-bouffe troupe are expected, although they have not as yet fixed on any time, and of light opera, comic opera, and English opera we are likely to have a surfeit.

The Hess Acme opera company "opens the ball" and begins a brief engagement at the Grand Opera-House with "Fra Diavolo" tonight. This company has been somewhat reconstructed since last season, and has added two new ladies to its members of whom report speaks favorably. Most of the people in the casts are, however, old favorits and often heard here before. Nothing new is offered for the first week, the detailed program for which is as follows: Sunday evening, "Fra Diavolo"; Monday, "Chimes of Normandy"; Tuesday, "Olivette"; Wednesday matinée, "Fra Diavolo"; Wednesday evening, "Martha"; Thursday, "Bohemian Girl"; Friday, "Mascotte"; Saturday matinée, "Chimes of Normandy"; Saturday evening, "Maritana."

On Thursday evening at Central Music-Hall the Litta concert company will give an entertainment. Considerable interest is felt as to this concert since at least two of those who will take part are well known in musical circles in this city. Mr. Bereghy, the basso, was for some time in the choir of St. James' Church, and Mr. Boscovitz is a pianist often heard before in recitals and concerts. Sig. Baldanza, the tenor, was with the Strakosch company, Miss Reeve and Mr. Blumenberg, unless we are mistaken, are strangers, and Marie Litta needs no introduction to a Chicago audience.

The Birmingham Festival.

Next to the Bayreuth Festival the most important musical gathering of the year abroad was the Birmingham Festival at which four important new works were heard for the first time. The English papers are filled with accounts of this great affair, the program for which ranks as one of the finest ever offered to the public at any provincial festival. The Birmingham festivals have rendered as great a service to musical art as the charities which benefit by their subscriptions. During its existence the Birmingham society has paid to the General Hospital, in the interest of which the festivals were organized, upward of $500,000. The increase in net profits this year over 1879 is over $16,000. Under the auspices of this many of the most important musical works now extant have been introduced to the public. The compositions are interpreted by the best artists obtainable for money, whatever their nationality may be. The orchestra numbered 140 performers, each one a soloist, and the choralists were 362 voices, selected from the best English choirs. The total receipts for the week were $75,055.

The new works given were Gade's cantata "Psyche"; Sir Julius Benedict's cantata "Graziella"; the orchestral serenade of Mr. Villiers Sanford; the new symphony of Hubert Parry; and Gounod's oratorio of the "Redemption," for which $20,000 was paid, and which was regarded by the composer as the crowning work of his life. The critics differ in their estimates of these different works, although all unite in considering the oratorio as a remarkable proof of the composer's genius:

> "Graziella," Sir Julius Benedict's cantata, was the leading feature of the first evening concert. The libretto is founded upon Lamartine's well-known romance, and has been well constructed by Mr. Henry Hersee, the story being told in three scenes laid in the island of Procida, in the Bay of Naples. The music is tuneful and light, and in many respects worthy of Weber himself, who counted Sir Julius as his favorit pupil from 1821 until 1824. It was, by the way, on Weber's recommendation that at the age of 19 Sir Julius was engaged to conduct the German operas at Vienna, and was afterward employed in a similar capacity at the San Carlo and the Fondo at Naples. The choruses are said to be full of spirit, and the work is in every way worthy of the master's reputation.

Of Gade's new work the same writer says:

> "In the evening the attraction was 'Psyche,' the new work by Herr Niels Gade, a Danish composer, who was already well known in musical circles. 'Psyche' is pronounced to be his chef d'œuvre. Mr. Troutbeck has supplied the libretto of the English version, but has deviated somewhat from the generally accepted story. The cantata is in a prolog and four parts. The principal feature of the first part is an exquisit duet, likely to become popular on the concert stage, for Psyche and Eros, 'Who calls? Say, who art thou?' sung by Mme. Marie Rôze and Mr. Stanley with brilliant effect. There is also a delightful trio for Zephyr and Genii, which was given by Mme. Trebelli, Miss Eleanor Farnol, and Mr. Edward Lloyd. Mr. Hubert Parry's new symphony was given during the evening, but without any particularly striking success."

Mr. Gaul's production is called "singularly tame and uninteresting." We have already printed comments on Gounod's masterpiece. Of it the Athenæum says:

> Of the truly gorgeous orchestration with which the work abounds it is needless to speak at any length, for Gounod's mastery of this branch of his art is known to all. It may, however, be said that those who only know the oratorio through the pianoforte score can form no idea whatever of the richness and beauty of the effects. Many passages which on paper appear insignificant acquire an altogether different meaning from their exquisitly tasteful coloring; and while it may be conceded that the richest instrumentation will not make a bad work into a good one, it cannot be denied that appropriate employment of the resources of the orchestra adds immeasurably to the effect of musical ideas which in themselves are worthy of such adornment.

Musical Notes at Home.

Miss Lillian Smythe has returned to the city.

Miss Medora Henson is going to Boston to study.

Mr. Boscovitz will give his first piano recital Oct. 5.

The Beethoven Society will give Verdi's Mass at its first concert.

Miss Thursby will give concerts at Central Music-Hall Oct. 20 and 21.

Mr. Tomlins can take a few more children in his Saturday class. He will limit the number to 200.

Mme. Arabella Root Del'Armitage has returned to the city, and is now ready to fill engagements for concerts, etc.

Miss Caroline R. Schneider, assisted by Miss Lillian Smythe, gave her first recital at Park Institute, Friday, Sept. 22.

Mr. Henry Hart will sing at St. James, and Miss Herrick at the Third Presbyterian. Mrs. Kitty Wallace Davis goes to New York to study.

Miss Emma Heckle is rapidly recovering from the accident which has made an invalid of her for the last few weeks, and will soon return to Chicago.

The Mozart Society has put in rehearsal the "Nun of Nidarod," by Dudley Buck, which will be one of the novelties of its first program this season.

Mrs. Watson has established a school to be devoted exclusively to piano-playing on the same plan and course of instruction as the former famous Tausig school of Berlin.

Miss Dora Henninges, who created the rôle of Zenobia so successfully in Pratt's opera of that name, is in Paris, working diligently with some of the vocal and dramatic teachers there.

Mr. E. T. Bowlbz, of Dixon, Ill., has invented a double flange bridge agraffe for the piano, which it is claimed will remove one of the greatest difficulties found in keeping the upper notes of a piano in tune.

Mr. Seeboeck will give three chamber concerts at Fairbank Hall, the first Oct. 25. Mr. Rosenbecker, Mr. Winkler, Mr. Heimendale, Mr. Mollenhauer, Mr. Wiesenback, Miss Fay, and Miss Buckley will assist.

The amateur musical club will meet this year in Apollo-Hall, and begin early in October.

On Thursday last a new musical organization entitled "The Chicago Church Music Association" was started in this city by Mr. W. S. Tomlins. The society started with 150 voices, all members of the festival chorus.

Musical Gossip from Abroad.

Charles Lecocq has completed a new opera entitled "Le Cœur et la Main." It will be produced at the Nouveautés, Paris, in October.

The Dresdener Nachrichten states that the Grail motif in "Parsifal" is the Dresden Amen, written by Johann Gottlieb Naumann.

Mlle. Marie Van Zandt is staying at Lamperti's villa on the Lake of Como. Her next part at the Opéra Comique, Paris, will be Zerlina, in "Fra Diavolo."

Mlle. Bianca la Blanche (Blanche Davenport) heads an Italian opera company which is to make a tour of the principal cities of Italy, Spain, and France during the coming season.

The Boston Herald asserts that "there are still excellent reasons for the statement that Miss Emma Thursby will head an operatic company in this country before the present season closes."

Among the new works announced for Paris is Saint-Saëns' opera "Henry VIII.," remarkable for the fact that it is the only one of those in the répertory of the Opéra of which the scene is laid.

The Board of Government of the Handel and Haydn Society of Boston has unanimously reëlected Carl Zerrahn as the musical director of that society for the coming season and the triennial festival in May, 1883.

It is stated that the financial success of the Bayreuth "Parsifal" performances has proved equal to the artistic. The receipts for one night never fell below $7,000, and a large fund has been collected for repeating the festival next year.

The members of the Boston Ideal opera company began the work of the season on the 18th inst., first taking up the rehearsal of "The Marriage of Figaro," which will receive its first presentation by this company during its Chicago engagement.

The Cincinnati May Festival Association will give a concert in November under the direction of Theodore Thomas and assisted by four solo singers from abroad. In the spring it intends to give complete Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust." For the May Festival of 1884 it is hoped that Mr. Thomas will add Gounod's "Redemption."

Mr. John McCaull has arranged with Messrs. Solomon and Stephens for the right to produce their new comic opera, which is to be called "Virginia." Mr. McCaull will put it on at the Bijou after "The Sorcerer" has had its run. The cast will include Miss Lilian Russell, Miss Laura Joyce, Mr. John Howson, and Mr. Digby Bell.

Jerome Hopkins has concluded his New England tour of three months, during which he has continuously given his "Piano-Lecture-Concerts," and is soon expected to repeat them in Chicago. He has also brought back with him to New York the score of a new comic opera entitled "Taffy," intended for only adult singers (a mezzo-soprano and a baritone), together with a chorus of little girls and orchestra, in which the interest centres in a cannibal with a special tooth for little girls!

THE FASHIONS.

Latest New York Modes.

New York Evening Post.

New silver bracelets are made in exact imitation of the handcuffs worn by criminals.

A pretty dress stuff for children's suits is a crape-finished serge in broken Scottish plaids.

Carnations, marsh-mallows, poppies, and ox-eye daises are the most fashionable flowers for trimming fall round hats of dark straw.

Handsome "Roman" and "Egyptian" pens, clasps, jeweled bands, and buckles, made in the United States, are a prominent feature of millinery and cloak garniture this season.

Small capotes of white or tinted satin, completely covered with soft fluffy white ostrich tips, are worn. They are very pretty and becoming to youthful ladies. For their elders the same fashion in black, bronze, brown, garnet, and dark green is much followed.

Silk batiste, brochés, and silk grenadines will continue to be worn for some weeks to come. These dresses are always made up over silk to give them a certain rich and firm appearance, which otherwise they would lack, and for this reason they can be worn until late in the year.

Black silk stockinet jerseys are very stylishly worn with skirts of black velvet and broad sash drapery to cover the joining over the hips, made of moiré or black surah deeply fringed on the ends. To the jersey are added a velvet shoulder cape and velvet cuffs which reach to the elbows.

Ribbon, in velvet, moiré, or satin, is worn in great profusion on dresses and mantles as sashes, flot bows for draping scarfs and tunics, papillon bows, scattered over flounces and puffings, and loops pendant over kiltings, appearing amid folds of lace, or as edges to bodice and tunic.

The Jéanne d'Arc corsage, open on one side and laced with silk cords, and corslets laced under the arms, alluded to early in the summer, will be much worn with full evening dress this and the coming season. These corsages are cut square, heart shape, or in a V point in the neck, and accompanied by a guimpe and sleeves of white lace, or a chemise Russe of white muslin, embroidered in the varied colors of the dress.

Thick, soft, all-wool serges in heavy distinct twill are brought out this autumn in dark, stylish cloth colors, olive and laurel green, ruby, scabicuse, garnet, putty color, royal blue, wood brown, and in many shades of gray. An attractive material also for the season is wool sateen, a fine fabric, corresponding to the cotton sateen worn all summer, but much more durable and appropriate to the cooler weather. It answers the same purpose as cashmere, but has more body and a smooth, satin-like surface.

The English walking-coats of hunter's green, admiral blue, mastic, or amber-colored cloth, fastened with silk cords, and brandebourgs or frogs, are more than ever the fashion this season. These chic-looking coats are infinitly more becoming to a graceful figure than a cape, dolman, or short visite, setting off the form to fine advantage. The stylish "Dorsay" polonaise of plain cloth in monochrome colors, or of cheviot in miniature checks and stripes, is also highly popular for traveling purposes or promenade dress, over skirts of velvet, silk, satin, or velveteen of a deeper shade than the fabric composing the polonaise.

A pretty street dress of dark olive brown merveilleux is made very short with a close shirring reaching from the waist downward to the depth of twelve inches. Below this are narrow ruffles edged with olive-brown velvet, which extend to the foot of the dress; over this skirt is laid a graceful scarf drapery of the merveilleux arranged à l'Esclave—higher on one side than the other, and held at the left side with a large bronze enamel slide. The bodice is short on the hips, with long points front and back, and is open at the chest over a gaged plastron of the merveilleux. At each side of the opening are wide revers of bronze-brown velvet.

For autumn wear the very richest lampas velvet, embroidered satins, moiré antique, and moiré Français, with satin stripes brocaded in velvet, silk, or velvet raised on gold or silver cloth, are to be used in the composition of the most elegant toilets. These rich fabrics can be employed for jackets, plastron fronts, tabliers, or panels, and in some cases for very grand toilets they are to be used for dresses cut en princesse. Such materials should never be draped, but allowed to fall in long, unbroken folds, with as few loopings as possible; and as to trimming, there should be none except upon the bodice, and there it should be of lace of the richest description.

Traveling dresses are carried to great perfection this season in respect to details. They are simple and "bon gout" in style, beautifully made and fitted; the draperies are few, and arranged not to crush easily, and also with regard to comfort in wear. If of pattern materials, the colors, though bright, are handsomely blended. There are many checks and stripes for the purpose among the fine English woolens, and the most attractive of these are in several dark shades, enlivened by hair stripes or small threads of old gold or vermilion red. Upon some stylish imported traveling dresses, where this bit of brilliant coloring is seen, the vest or waistcoat is made of the same color; for instance, a dark bottle-green English tweed, with indistinct mixtures of old gold, wood-brown, cardinal, crossed with a fine line of very dark green, has the gilet, or vest, made of a shade of velvet to match, fastened down the front with gold buttons enameled with green. The coat is also finished with a large Directoire collar and wide turnover cuffs of velvet.

The greater number of mantles and wraps this season are shorter than those of last year, or else longer in front and shorter at the back, to admit of the crinoline, which, despite the ridicule it meets with, is really required to support the full and increasing draperies of the skirt. Satin velvet, broché, and matelassé are quite the most fashionable materials for autumn mantles, these being trimmed with full ruches, quillings, cascades of black lace, jetted or plain, and ribbon bows of moiré or satin. A handsome Parisian model in dolmans is called the "Scarborough," and is composed of rich satin brocade, the trimmings being chenille, appliqué bands, and ruffles of Spanish lace. This is one of the newest shapes of the season, becoming to most figures, and for which any other material besides the one spoken of may be employed. The fronts are quite elaborately trimmed with alternate ruffles of the lace and appliqué bands of the chenille. The centre of the back has a seam which tapers the shape most gracefully. This back piece terminates in a point several inches below the waist line. The sleeve forms another point, and joins the back and front with a seam over the shoulder.

Toilets for wedding ceremonies are now of relative simplicity; the bridal robe par excellence, of white satin and costly lace, is by no means considered indispensable; and where the bride's prospective future does not include a series of evening entertainments, such a dress, requiring others to correspond, is both extravagant and absurd. One that can subsequently be utilized in the position of life she will thereafter be called upon to fill would be far more consistent and appropriate. White vigogne, white nuns' veiling, foulard, or sateen, are all very pretty fabrics in fashionable use for comparatively inexpensive wedding toilets, and with drapings of creamy lace and garniture of flowers, a youthful, pretty bride can look quite as lovely in either of these dresses as in a "trying" opaque white satin. A charming dress lately made for a quiet home wedding is an instance of what can be done in the way of a simple yet beautiful wedding toilet. The material is nuns' veiling, made with a demi-train—contrary to fashionable rule. Around the foot of the skirt is a ruching of white surah cut bias, which, after being deeply fringed on both sides, was formed into double box pleats, so that the edges of the ruche lying closely together gave it the appearance of a downy mass of white feathers. Above this is a Grecian tunic of the white veiling, the chaste and artistic arrangement of the soft upright folds giving a most graceful and statuesque effect to the whole. The bodice is of white surah, cut square in the neck, and trimmed with brocades of cream-white lace. The half-long sleeves are likewise adorned. The veil is of Spanish blonde, simply hemmed, and fastened back with white roses and orange blossoms, a large cluster of the same natural flowers to be pinned at the belt and carried in the hand the day of the wedding.

A second wedding dress for a young lady, rich in faith and affection, but affluent in no other respect, is being finished for an early October wedding, and a more beautiful, inexpensive toilet can hardly be imagined. The dress is made of pale golden fawn-colored corded silk. The edge of the skirt is "battlemented"—i. e.: cut in square blocks—and beneath is a treble ruche of lace, chosen with special reference to harmony in regard to the shade of the dress itself. The skirt drapes the slender, elegant figure very closely and gracefully, and round the hips are paniers of the silk, edged with a ruffle of the lace. The ends of this drapery are drawn up in front by a series of runners into the space of a span. The bodice is pointed front and back, and is laced across the bust. It is cut in a long V shape, with a delicate ruche of lace bordering the opening. The tight-fitting sleeves are trimmed to correspond. A double row of opal-tinted Roman pearls will be worn around the throat, fastened with a handsome pearl-clasp. A pair of long, white Swedish kid-gloves, white kid-slippers, with stockings of pale gold silk, complete a toilet which will not be less beautiful and appropriate than the special occasion it was designed for demands.

UNMAILABLE MATTER.

A Look into the Inquiry Department of the Post-Office—Spoilt Canaries, Grasshoppers, and Ostrich Plumes.

In a little corner of the Post-Office is a department very little known to many, but yet it is one of the most peculiar branches of a complex organism. It is the morgue of the office. Technically it is known as the office of inquiry, but its principal features are something quite different. It is a veritable curiosity shop, and the clerks are connoisseurs in peculiarities. The office in itself is a little room boarded off from the main floor of the Post-Office, and contains desks for half a dozen clerks, tables, and pigeon-holes. It is a seine which catches all the unmailable, misdirected, and partially prepaid matter.

The postal regulations forbid the passage through the mails of glass, confectionery, explosives, grease, liquids, sharp pointed articles, and anything which is liable to injure other mail. In spite of this prohibition many people persist in sending these articles, others misdirect or fail to direct at all, and still others do not put enough postage on their mail to carry it through. About 250 pieces are received daily, and hence it becomes necessary to have a distinct department to handle this class of mail. Every piece of merchandise in packages is examined by regular clerks; and where it is found to contain unmailable matter it is turned over to this division. Notices are sent to the addressee or the sender, as the case may be, and an effort is made to have the articles claimed by the owners if possible. A visit to the room yesterday opened the eyes of a TRIBUNE reporter as to what funny things people will attempt to have sent through the mails. One lady sent to a taxidermist which she wanted stuffed. Either the mails were too slow or the bird was too quick, for by the time he arrived at the office the clerks were unable to sit in the same office with him, and the poor little birdie was thrown out into the cold world without any notice to his former proprietor or the taxidermist. A box of grasshoppers came to pieces the other day, and the festive insects were rather the worse for wear. Candy in dainty boxes sent by some laddie to his lassie is met with every day, and blacking, ink, and medicine are staples in this queer little room. A loaded revolver sometimes slips in, and knives and slung-shots are by no means uncommon. Examining a little package yesterday the reporter was astonished to find a thermometer which the sender had considered sufficiently protected by a sheet of tissue-paper.

Fruit, confectionery, glass articles, cutlery, and dead animals are staples. Horned toads, a keg of butter, the plaster cast of a jaw, hotel keys, and ostrich plumes are occasionally received. Often things are insecurely wrapped, and fall out in transit. When they reach this city they are sent to this office. Ostrich plumes are very frequently found loose. They are generally packed very lightly in their boxes and are likely to get loose. They are left for a few days, and, if no inquiry is made, are sent to the Dead-Letter Office at Washington. People should pack things carefully, but at the same time in such a way that they can be easily examined, for every package must be examined. Then, again, if the sender would mark his name on the outside, with the word "from," it would facilitate matters should the articles be insufficiently prepaid or be unmailable.

There will always be careless people probably, but it would seem as if there were an undue proportion of them. Every day packages are mailed upon them, and in these cases there is nothing by which the sender or addressee can be reached. Many of the cases of alleged carelessness on the part of postal officials can probably be charged to this account. Then, again, many people fail to put enough postage on their mail. Every Tuesday this office collects an average of four large sacks of Sunday newspapers which are insufficiently prepaid. It should be known once for all that no matter is forwarded unless fully prepaid except letters. When in doubt, the sender should take the trick by putting on the extra stamp. The matter of directing is also important. Some people seem to think that the State is of no consequence in addressing a letter or package, but it cannot be forwarded if there is the slightest possible doubt as to the address. Possibilities are at a discount, and the Post-Office cannot be expected to proceed on guesswork.

The division of unmailable matter is to be incorporated with the inquiry-office and located in Room J, at the northwest corner of the ground-floor, under the charge of Gen. R. N. Pearson, who has been recently appointed to this department. All inquiries after missing mail or as to the passage of certain articles should be addressed to this office. Mr. J. N. McArthur, who has had charge of this branch of the service, will be retained and continue his duties as well as heretofore.

SURGEON BLISS.

He Will Never Present Any Bill to the Garfield Estate.

Dr. D. W. Bliss, of Washington, D. C., registered at the Grand Pacific yesterday morning, and in the fullness of time was interviewed by a reporter of THE TRIBUNE. The Doctor, accompanied by Mrs. Bliss, has been on a health-seeking trip through New Mexico and Colorado, and will spend a few days in Chicago before returning to the National Capital. The reporter asked him as to his claim against the Government for attendance on the late President. Dr. Bliss said:

"The matter stands this way. Congress appropriated $35,500 for the expenses of Gen. Garfield's sickness, and a Board of Audit was appointed to apportion the amount between the doctors and nurses. They have not yet arrived at a settlement so far as I know. Before I left Washington I sent in my bill to the Board of Audit. The amount was $25,000, which I consider as a fair remuneration for my services and for the damage to my business growing out of the fact that I had to abandon it while in attendance upon the President. To give an illustration of this I will say that in January, 1881, my practice brought me in $2,500, while in the corresponding month of this year I only took in $1,000."

"What are you going to do about your claim, Doctor?"

"I am not going to do any more than I have done. The matter rests with the Board of Audit. One thing is certain—I will never present a bill against the estate. I think I am entitled to the amount I have named, but the board must judge as to that. I shall take what they allow me, and there will be no trouble about it in any way."

"By the way, Doctor, some of the religious papers have been stirring you up about a statement alleged to have been made by you at Detroit, that you would not treat the Savior under a state of affairs similar to that in the Garfield case. What is there to that story?"

"Nothing whatever. I have got accustomed to that kind of thing. A friend of mine—a newspaper man—told me about a fictitious interview in which I was said to have made some such expression, but I never saw it and do not know how it was worded. Now, whatever my religious views may be, is it likely that I should so offend the sensibilities of the people generally as by making such a remark? The whole thing is untrue, just as much so as the allegation made by one of your Chicago papers that I did all my business on foot before I was called in to attend the President."

MY MOTHER.

For The Chicago Tribune.

O tell me, fair Luna, thou Queen of the Night,
While traveling through Heaven in thy carriage of light,
Didst thou look on old Cymri, my sweet home of old,
And paint her fair mountains in colors of gold?

Hast thou seen my dear mother, and heard her say
Of her boy whom she loved, but is now far away?
Didst thou light up her chamber with thy torch-light so bright?
O tell me, fair Luna, hast thou seen her tonight?

Wilt thou go there tomorrow, and light her to rest,
And tell her thou 'st seen her dear boy in the West—
Hast been to the bedside upon which he lay,
And noticed him sighing, and heard him pray

That the Father of Mercies His countenance lend
And Heaven's choicest blessings on his mother descend;
That Angels may guard her, and cause her to remain
Till her boy, who is longing, shall see her again?

I charge thee, fair Luna, in Heaven so bright,
To bear her this message on thine arrows of light;
And take her, I pray thee, now ere we shall part,
This tear from mine eye and this throb from my heart.

SOUTH EVANSTON. T. D. BREEN.

If you wish to buy a piano for parlor furniture you can hardly go amiss; almost any one will do. If you wish a "tolerably good instrument," almost any manufacturer can supply you. If you wish a piano fit to make music for Kings; a piano as royal in its compass and all its properties as the great human voice; a piano through which the world's musical masters delight to render their own anthems as the only instrument capable of expressing all the subtleties of harmony that the soul can conceive; if you wish to secure the best piano instead of merely a parlor decoration you have but one choice—the Hallet, Davis & Co. The others may be larks or mocking-birds, but this is the nightingale! There are no other instrumental voices that can be compared to it.

HUMOR.

It is called the Greenback-Labor party. The labor is to get the greenbacks.—New Orleans Picayune.

"They tell me you have had some money left you," said Brown. "Yes," replied Fogg, sadly, "it left me long ago."—Boston Transcript.

Nature intended to make woman a masterpiece.—Lessing. Instead of which the old lady made a miss.—Boston Bulletin.

They had quarreled, and she was waiting for him to begin the peace. At length he said, "Je t'adore." "Shut it yourself," said she, "you left it open." He did. She is still waiting.

"Come in and join me," said Col. Yerger to Hostetter McGinnis, as they happened to meet. "Can't think of it, Colonel." "Why not?" "Well, I've already had as much as is good for me, and, besides, I swore off last week."—Texas Siftings.

Hundreds of thousands of men die annually from strong drink.—Kansas Prohibitionist. We never undertake to criticise any other editor, but we do not believe that any man can die annually. Annually means every year, and no man can die every year for any great length of time, unless he has a great deal of practice and experience at the business.—Texas Siftings.

"How often does the ferry-boat start?" asked the lady. "Ivery fifteen minutes, mum." "How long is it since the boat left here?" "Tin minutes, mum." Lady waits ten minutes and then says: "Didn't you say the boat starts every fifteen minutes?" "I did, mum." "Well, I have waited here ten minutes since you said the boat had been gone ten minutes." "Yes, mum." "Then how do you make out that it starts every fifteen minutes?" "Why, you see, mum, it starruts from this soide wan fifteen minutes and from the other soide the nixt."

Jim Webster is one of the most upright negroes in Austin, and yet he is peculiar. Not long since he brought a large package of coffee to the store of a white neighbor, and said: "I bought dis coffee at de store ob Mr. Hotchkins, an' I jes knows he has cheated me outen more dan a whole pound in de weight. I jes kin feel de lightness. Dar should be ten pounds, an' I'se sho dar not more dan eight pounds. He fixed his scales to cheat poor culud folks what hain't got no sense." The white neighbor took the package, and, after weighing it carefully on his scales, said: "You are mistaken, Jim. He has given you a pound and a half too much. There are eleven and a half pounds in the package instead of ten." "Yer don't say so, boss. I was so sartin dat he was gibben me light weight dat, unbeknownst to him, jess to get eben, I lifted off de shelf a pair ob fine boots, wuff $6, to balance der account." "Well, now you see that he hasn't cheated you, I suppose you will do what is right?" "You bet I will, boss. I'se gwine right back fer dat store ter do what am right." "Are you going to return the boots?" "No, boss. I can't afford to make any such sacrifices as dat. I'se a poor nigger, ef I is honest. I can't afford ter make anybody a present ob sitch a high-priced pair ob boots, but I'm gwine ter gib him dat extra pound and a half of coffee. I admires liberality, I does, an' from now on I'se gwine ter do all my tradin' with him, now dat he has worked hisself inter my confidence. He can't lose nuffin by my honesty of I kin help it."—Austin Dispatch.

BUSINESS.

Market for Stocks Stronger—Money Less Stringent—Call for Extended Fives.

The Produce Markets Moderately Active—Wheat and Corn Steadier, with a Firm Tone—Oats Dull and Easier.

Provisions Stronger, with a Rather Large Volume of Trading—Unusual Strength in Lard for October and November.

FINANCIAL.

As a whole the week in Chicago has been one of intense activity, though for the last three days the pressure for discounts has not been quite so active as during the first half of the week. The drain of money to the country has, however, made a closer market, and rates of discount at the quotations, 6@8 per cent, are growing firmer. Money is far more plenty here, and for most of the time for the past week or two it has been cheaper here than in New York. This is due to speculations on the Stock Exchange in New York, where prices are run up to the highest figures the money market will bear. As the fall business grows in volume and pressure, bankers and operators here look for a more active market for money and perhaps higher rates; but as yet customers are supplied with all they require at our quotations. Orders from country correspondents for discounts and for currency are moderate. City customers do not require large favors.

New York exchange was more active, as it generally is on Saturday. Sales were made today between banks at 60@75c per $1,000 discount, perhaps the larger number at 65@70c.

The bank clearings for the week, as reported by the Clearing-House, were:

Date.	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	$9,070,436.18	$919,426.04
Tuesday	8,430,5[illegible].42	654,[illegible].27
Wednesday	8,008,353.99	695,532.12
Thursday	8,465,819.51	768,131.43
Friday	7,865,540.61	759,914.35
Saturday	4,979,935.68	867,937.81
Total	$46,788,501.39	$4,574,677.92
Corresponding week last year	45,571,177.41	4,001,713.78

The market for foreign exchange was quiet at the following rates. We quote: Posted rates at 483½@488½; actual, 482¾@487½; commercial bills, 480½@480¾; Continental weak; francs, bankers', 520@515⅝; commercial francs, 524⅜@525⅝; marks, bankers', 94⅛@95⅜; commercial marks, 93⅝@94.

On the New York Stock Board the market opened with a sharp advance on the closing rates of the day before for nearly the whole list. The only exception was Louisville & Nashville, which was dull and heavy. The shares generally were bought early and well under the report about noon that Secretary Folger, who was in New York most of the day, would issue a call for bonds, but it was not confirmed till late in the day.

The market was generally strong throughout the entire list. It was specially noticeable in Western Union, Northwestern, St. Paul, the Omahas, the Gould properties, and Denver. In the afternoon Louisville & Nashville and Western Union took a decided turn upward and gained 1⅜ and 2¼ respectively for the day.

Many reliable operators believe Canada Southern, Erie, and Michigan Central to be good properties to take hold of for a rise.

The market closed strong on a supposed call for bonds and active covering of shorts. That hope was realized, for a Washington dispatch later reported that Secretary Folger had issued a call for $25,000,000 of extended 5s—interest to cease Dec. 23.

Rumors were abroad that the Burlington & Quincy crowd had secured a controlling interest in the Denver and that they would pretty soon have an independent line to connect with the Central Pacific at Salt Lake, but the reports were not confirmed. Denver, however, resisted all attempts at a raid.

Bullish parties predict higher prices for next week.

There was good buying of Northern Pacific.

The leading produce markets were moderately active on Saturday, and averaged less unsteady, though far from being steady. Pork was stronger, but not with so much doing. Lard was in sharp demand for October and November, and sold much higher, while the longer futures were neglected, and March was actually weaker. Meats were strengthened by the report of big shipments. Corn in better demand on country account, and averaged firmer, which caused a shade of improvement in wheat by sympathy. Oats were steady at a lower range, and other grain easier. The markets for cereals, outside of the demand for corn futures above noted, seemed to be mostly of the scalping order. Mess pork closed 20c higher, at $21.45@21.50 seller October and $18.97½@18.90 for January. Lard closed 5@22½c higher, at $12.52½@12.55 for October and $11.50@11.52½ for January. Short ribs closed irregularly stronger, at $13.25 asked for October. Red winter wheat closed steady at $1.02½ bid for September. Regular wheat closed ⅛@¼c higher, at $1.02½@1.02⅝ seller September and 94⅛@94⅜c seller October. Corn closed a shade firmer, at 64½c for car-lots and 63½@63⅝c for October. Oats closed ¼c lower, at 31¼c for cash, 31¼c for September, and 31c for the year. Rye closed ½c lower, at 59½c cash and seller the month, and 60c bid for October. Barley closed unchanged for No. 2 at 84½c, with No. 3 off 3c, selling at 60c cash and seller October. Hogs were firm at $7.50@8.45 for light and at $7.50@9.15 for heavy. Cattle were inactive and weak at $2.60@7.40. The receipts for the week were 40,800 cattle, 49,200 hogs, and 15,800 sheep, against 36,346 cattle, 98,324 hogs, and 10,886 sheep for the corresponding week last year.

There was a continued active movement in dry-goods and steady prices were the rule. Boots and shoes, clothing, and millinery goods, were also moving freely at fully late prices. There was a fairly active call for staple and fancy groceries, and the prevalent feeling was firm. Sugar showed special strength. Dealers in dairy products had nothing new to report. The demand continues of a restricted character, buyers not caring to stock up at the prevailing prices. Dried fruits were moving out in a fairly liberal way and averaged steady. Fish were in light supply, and were steady. The oil market was without new features. Bagging, leather, coal, and pig-iron were also quoted as before.

Broom-corn is selling slowly, with stocks light, mostly the tailings of the old crop. Little new corn has arrived, though considerable shipments are on the way. Our quotations fairly represent the market. Green fruits were generally steady, peaches selling higher early in the day owing to the non-arrival of the steamers, but afterwards fell back to Friday's prices. Hides are dull and unchanged, tanners preferring to work up their stocks closely rather than buy at present prices. Grease and tallow are quiet. In building materials there is no change to note, all descriptions being in active demand and firm. Potatoes sell slowly at the prices ruling for the past week, with stocks far in excess of the needs of the trade. Wool is quiet and unchanged. In seeds timothy was quiet at $1.80 for prime. Flaxseed was fairly active and firm at $1.22 for pure seed. Hay was firm and unchanged for the better grades, with others not wanted.

In lake freights a fair business was done on Saturday, rates remaining steady at 2¼c as the actual figure for wheat to Buffalo, and corn paid nominally 2¼c. The charters announced covered 156,000 bu wheat, 113,000 bu corn, and 15,000 bu rye. Corn to Collingwood paid 2c.

Rail freights were reported steady on the basis of 25c per 100 lbs on grain and 30c on provisions from Chicago to New York. Through to Liverpool was in better demand at 35c asked.

The receipts of wheat at Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Toledo, and Detroit, reported Saturday, aggregated 375,000 bu. The shipments from the same points were reported at 220,000 bu. The shipments reported from New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore were 338,000 bu.

Some people here think that the reports about the market for corn in New York look as if there were a "conspiracy" to depress prices. The reiterated statements that the market is depressed by large offerings for speedy delivery seem to be simply ridiculous when one looks at the figures which report the current daily supply of corn in that city and compare them with the shipments and stocks in store. The visible supply of corn increased just about 111,000 bu during last week, and is only about a quarter of the quantity in sight at this date in 1881, and one-third as much as was in sight two years ago. The movement from first hands is of a magnitude to suggest the remark of a countryman about the Fulton meat-market on his first visit to New York. He said: "The market will surely be glutted today; I have counted three wagon-loads of meat go in there this morning."

"A few more frosts, and corn will not be worth anything," was the sententious remark of a cynical operator yesterday.

A letter from Black River Falls, Wis., the heart of the lumber region, says oats are selling there at 20c per bu, and every available inch of storeroom is already filled with this grain.

Mr. James Bain, a well-known agricultural correspondent, writes to the Glasgow Herald about the prices of grain in India. He says that at Belaspur, a town far from any market and railway station, the prices of grain per cwt of 112 lbs were:

Millet	7¼d
Common rice	1s 4d
Wheat	1s 5¼d

At Raipore, a town considerably nearer to a railway station, the prices were:

Wheat	2s 3¼d
Common rice	2s 3¼d

and at Jubbulpore, to which there is communication, the price of wheat is 5s 6d per cwt.

He adds: "India is not a large country on the face of the map, yet it contains a fourth part of the human race—a strong testimony to the productive character of the soil. Two crops in the year are reaped in many places, and the climate is so varied that all the productions of the temperate and tropical zones can be grown."

PROVISIONS.

HOG PRODUCTS—Were active and irregularly stronger. There was a sharp demand for lard for October and November delivery, which put up prices for those two months to a much higher point; and this stimulated the pork market, though there was not much original demand for the latter, except for January. There was not enough demand for lard for the last-named month to cause much of a ripple in prices, and March actually declined under offers from parties who were buying for delivery before December. The cause of the improved demand was understood to be the belief that current shipments are large enough to reduce our stocks to a very low point by the end of this month, and that lard will prove to be really scarce before the winter packing gets fairly under way. Meats, too, are being shipped very freely, nearly one-third of our stock going out on Friday, "if the figures do not lie." But meats were quiet on Saturday, with little new demand. The present shipments are on previous sales. The summer packing of hogs in this city to date is reported as 1,421,000 head, against 2,242,000 to do last year, and 2,451,000 to same time in 1880. We note that the local hog market was stronger Saturday, while Liverpool reported a decline of 6d on lard.

MESS PORK—Advanced 20@25c per brl, in sympathy with lard, and closed firm at about the top, with $21.45 bid for round lots spot or seller the month. Sales were reported of 54,000 brls seller October at $21.2[illegible]@21.55; 20,250 brls seller November at $20.85@21.00; 24,000 brls seller the year at $18.90@19.20; 43,250 brls seller January at $18.65@18.97½; 9,500 brls seller February at $18.70@18.90; and 4,500 brls seller March at $18.65@18.85. Total, 164,250 brls. The following table shows the range of the day on the leading deals, including Call-Board transactions:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do, bid.
September	$21.22½	....	$21.45
October	21.22½	$21.30 @21.55	21.45
November	20.85	20.85 @21.00	21.00
Seller the year	18.90	18.90 @19.20	19.17½
January	18.70	18.65 @18.97½	18.97½
February	18.72½	18.70 @18.90	18.85

LARD—October advanced 27½@30c, November 37½@40c, and January 10c, then fell back a little, but closed firm, with round lots spot or seller the month at $12.52½@12.55, being the same as October. Sales were reported of 43,500 tcs seller October at $12.25@12.57½; 43,250 tcs seller November at $12.00@12.35; 6,500 tcs seller the year at $11.60; 20,000 tcs seller January at $11.40@11.55; 3,000 tcs seller February at $11.42½@11.55; 7,000 tcs seller March at $11.37½@11.47½; and 1,250 tcs seller May at $11.37½@11.42½. Total, 124,500 tcs. The following table gives the range of the day, including the call transactions:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do, bid.
September	$12.30	....	$12.52½
October	12.30	$12.25 @12.57½	12.52½
November	11.97½	12.00 @12.35	12.37½
January	11.45	11.40 @11.55	11.50
February	11.42½	11.42½@11.50	11.47½
March	11.40	11.37½@11.67½	11.40

MEATS—Were generally quoted a shade firmer, but with so little doing that it is difficult to give close figures. Sales were limited to 850,000 lbs short ribs at $13.87½ seller September, $13.20@13.25 seller October, $11.50 seller November, and $9.77½@9.80 seller January. The prices of the leading cuts were as follows at the close of trading:

	Shoulders.	Short ribs.	L. & S. clears.	Short clears.
Loose, part salted	$10.25	$14.12½	$14.12½	$14.50
Do. boxed	10.50	14.37½	14.37½	14.75
September, loose	10.00	13.85
October, loose	9.75	13.25

Short ribs closed at $11.52½ asked for November and $9.80 asked seller January. Long clears were quoted at $14.00 loose and $14.25 boxed. Cumberlands, 14@14½c boxed; long cut hams, 14@14½c; sweet-pickled hams quoted at 13½@13¾c for 16 lb averages; green hams, same averages, 12¾@13c.

Bacon quoted at 11@11½c for shoulders, 14¾@15c for short ribs, 15@15¼c for short clears, 15@15½c for hams, all canvased and packed. Sweet-pickled shoulders, 10½@10¾c.

BEEF—Was quiet at $12.25@12.50 for mess, $12.50@13.00 for extra mess, and $17.50@18.00 for hams.

BREADSTUFFS AND SEEDS.

FLOUR—Was in about the same condition as on Friday. There was a moderate export inquiry, and a light local trade, with no material change in prices. Sales were reported of 50 brls winters at $4.85; 50 brls and 3,400 bags springs, partly at $8.00 for patents; 700 sacks low grades, partly at $2.75; and 100 brls rye flour on private terms. Total equal to 3,350 brls. Winter flours were quoted at $5.25@6.00 for choice, $5.00@5.25 for good, $5.25@5.75 for new, and $4.00@5.00 for supers; springs were quoted at $5.25@6.00 for good to choice; Minnesota patents are $7.25@7.50; and rye flour at $3.80@4.00.

OTHER MILLSTUFFS—Were in light demand but steadier at the recent decline. Sales were 18 cars bran at $11.50@12.50; 12 cars middlings and shorts at $12.00@17.00. All per ton.

REGULAR WHEAT—Was again quiet and generally steady, in the absence of any special interest in the deal. The market for this month advanced ½c, and fell back to about first principles, while next month vibrated between ⅜c above and below the latest price of Friday, and closed firm. Liverpool and London were called dull and heavy, and our receipts were somewhat larger, while New York was tame. But it was remarked that some of the older heads were disposed to think better of it, and the fear that some of them might give it a twist kept others from selling, except in a scalping way. There was apparently no other reason for the firmness, unless it were sympathy with provisions. Seller October opened at 94c, sold at 93⅝c, advanced to 94⅛c, and closed at 94⅛c bid. Seller the month ranged ⅜@⅝c above October, November was ⅜@⅝c below October, and the year ranged ⅜c below November. Other futures were not mentioned. The following table shows the range of the day on the principal deals:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do, bid.
Seller September	$1.02¾	$1.02¾@1.03	$1.02½
Seller October	94	93⅝@ 94⅛	94⅛
Seller November	93⅞	93⅜@ 93⅞	93⅞
Seller the year	92⅞	92⅛@ 93	93

WINTER WHEAT—Was in moderate demand, and No. 2 red ranged ½c higher than on Friday, being wanted to fill a few September shorts. It closed at $1.02½ bid. No. 3 was ½c lower. There was practically nothing doing in futures; they were nominal at about the same prices as regular. Spot sales were reported of 50 cars Nos. 1 and 2 red at $1.02½@1.03¼; 48 cars No. 3 at 94c; 2 cars rejected at 85c. Total about 42,000 bu.

SPRING WHEAT—Was steady at ½c advance on No. 2. It was quoted ½c below red at one time, and other whites at the same price. Spot sales were reported of 32 cars No. 2 at $1.02¼; 7 cars No. 3 at 83@85½c; 2 cars rejected at 62c; and 26 cars by sample at 55½@85c. Total about 28,000 bu.

CORN—Was moderately active, and steadier. There was a little extra weakness early, owing to the expectation of big receipts, and November fell about ½c below the prices reached on the curbstone depression of Thursday afternoon. But other futures did not weaken so much, and there was quite a reaction toward 11 o'clock, as the receipts turned out to be smaller than many had expected. There was, however, a further narrowing of the October discounts, as shippers held off, and there was less pressure to fill shorts for September. The chief point in the day's trading was a better demand to fill shorts on country account, most of which had been put out at much higher prices. These were chiefly in the long futures, but they embraced some for November, which was the most active of any part of the deal. It was remarked that there is much less of actual shortage in the deal than has been generally supposed. The country has sold for May, and the offerings were taken by local operators, but they mostly "straddled" it with some other months. The British markets were quoted dull and heavy, but that was only a natural consequence of previous weakness here. Car-lots closed at 64½c for No. 2, with 61c for rejected, and 66c for high mixed. Spot sales were reported of 56 cars high mixed at 64½@65c; 5,000 bu and 7 cars No. 2 at 64@65c; 17,000 bu and 79 cars rejected at 60½@61¼c; 16 cars by sample at 63@65½c on track; and 26 cars do at 62@65c free on board. Total about 155,000 bu. Seller October opened at about 63⅛c, sold at 62⅜c, advanced to 63⅝c, and closed at 63½c bid. Seller the month ranged 1¾@1⅞c above October; November at 1½@2c below October; the year was 7⅜@7¾c below November; and May was 2⅛@2⅜c below the year. Seller January sold at 48⅝@50c, closing at 49⅝c. The following table shows the range of the day on the leading deals:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do, bid.
Spot, fresh receipts	64½	64 @65	63⅞
Seller September	64½	64 @65	64⅜
Seller October	63¾	62⅜@63⅝	63⅝
Seller November	61⅞	61⅛@61⅞	61⅝
Seller the year	53⅞	53⅝@54⅜	54
Seller May	51⅞	51⅜@52	51⅞

OATS—Were active, sellers being in the majority, and a disinclination shown on the part of buyers to trade at Friday's closing prices. The market broke early ½c, but toward the close a slight rally occurred, leaving the decline on the day at ¼c, except on May, which closed ⅛c better. A slight increase in the receipts, with anticipations of much heavier arrivals in the near future, were the principal causes of the decline. Cash sold at 31@31¼c for No. 2, and 28c for rejected. Seller the month opened at 31½c and closed nominally at 31¼c. October ranged at 31@31⅜c, closing at 31⅜c. November sold about with October, with occasional transactions at ⅛c below. Seller the year sold at 30⅞@31¼c, closing at 31c. May sold at 33@33⅝c, closing at 33⅝@33¾c. Samples were dull and a shade lower. WINDS OF DYING SUMMER.

For The Chicago Tribune.

Do they say to you what they breathe to me,
The winds of dying Summer,
As over tinted hills they waft them down,
Winging the forest's murmur?
To me, with ev'ry passing briefer year,
Their whisp'rings grow the plainer—
Swift weaving ever tales of days agone,
As living seems the vainer.

How oft their wild-flung odors sadden me,
Mem'ries of young days bringing,
As, in some bright-hued field I'm passing by,
The daisies set to swinging.
Ah! fadeless mem'ries, why so sadly sweet,
Yet freshened by Age's glances?
'Neath weight of realties, why still retained
Our idle Summer-fancies?

When Autumn-breezes from the Northlands sweep,
They take my thoughts far-roaming;
I muse within a world of singing leaves
That chant of Summer's gloaming—
That strike upon their thousand flutt'ring keys
Notes olden magic breathing;
Like winds from coming seaward storms, they rouse
An inner ocean's seething.

O Summer hasting, leave me, hour from hour,
Visions, as I sit dreaming,
Of low hills crowned with flaming sumach-plumes;
A hidden river's gleaming;
Long pastures filled with waving yellow stars,
And maples redly burning;
Of wand'ring paths close-flecked with shade of leaves,
Into a village turning.

Ye winds of dying Summer, sing to me!
Tell me your same dear story
Of gilded fields with crimson margin-lines—
Of Youth-time's sunlit glory.
No more for us to know. Aye, but we dream
Of sunny days spent lightly,
Whose fleeting charms, as other treasures lost,
Gleam thro' the Past so brightly.

E'en now those self-same fields, sloping away,
'Neath Summer's sun are swaying;
And over leagues of prairie, wide and lone,
To me their breath comes playing.
Their glowing ways by ambling feet are paced,
All through the golden weather;
But yet, it seems to me, the years must miss
One boy and girl together.

BLOOD OR SKIN DISEASES
IN ANY STAGE,
Disappear before the perfect alterative and tonic effects of the greatest of all Blood Purifiers. It so completely roots out all poison from the blood and braces the debilitated system, that diseases of this nature disappear like chaff before the wind.

"S. S. S. cured me of Scalp Sores, Sores in Nostrils and Ears, after everything known to the medical profession had failed. Three months have passed since I quit taking S. S. S.; there is no symptom of the disease remaining; I am permanently cured. It stands unrivaled for Blood Diseases."
JOHN S. TAGGART, Salamanca, N. Y.

"S. S. S. stands without a peer. The profession will have to acknowledge it a Specific for Blood Diseases."
DR. N. L. GALLOWAY, Monroe, Ga.

"About four or five weeks ago I was afflicted with a very aggravated type of Blood Disease. I commenced using S. S. S., and after taking the first bottle felt so much relieved that I bought five more, and am glad to say, after using four of them, that I am entirely cured, previously having been under medical advice for several months."
C. G. RATCLIFF, Richmond, Va.

"After suffering from the worst Blood Diseases for more than two years, and having been treated by several eminent physicians, confined to my room and bed the greater part of the time, my body covered with copper-colored sores from the size of a pea to that of a silver half-dollar, I was well nigh in despair. At last I commenced taking S. S. S. In a short time I began to improve in flesh, all the sores healed, and I could feel and know that I was well, and to S. S. S. must the credit be given of my entire restoration to health. I have not taken a dose for more than six months, and am as free from sores or blemish as any one."
LOTTIE ROSS, Atlanta, Ga.

"Improved after taking the first bottle of S. S. S.; in two weeks was able to come home, finding the waters were no benefit."
J. W. REID, Newport, Ark.

"Our science has not made known a combination equal to S. S. S. for Skin or Blood Diseases."

REAL ESTATE.

The Market Quite Dull—Inside Property Held at Fancy Prices.

Outside Property Not in Great Demand Except for Residences.

The North Shore Line—Improvements Along the Lake-Shore Drive.

Activity in Building—The Present Cheapness of Real Estate—Hyde Park Enterprises.

The Market.

"The fact is," said a prominent real-estate dealer yesterday, "business in outside property is not as brisk at this time as was generally expected, and there is very little inside property that can be got for anything like a reasonable price. So the general market is quite dull. Of course, there is a good demand for residence property in the outskirts of the city and in the suburbs, but prices are quite stiff and there is no speculative inquiry. All purchases, or nearly all, are made the same as a man buys a barrel of flour or a pair of shoes—because he needs them. Very few purchases of real estate are now made that are not built upon at once or will be very soon. People are after homesteads, and the facilities for reaching almost any part of the city and the suburbs have had the effect of making various sections of the city and its environs equally desirable. As for a 'boom,' I don't think there will be any this year. There is nothing to boom except acre property, and ballooning in that direction has ceased, and it will be dormant for some time to come. People have got tired of schemes that fail to pan out, and the projectors of the numerous enterprises that were to have astonished the natives have abandoned sensationalism and settled down to work from necessity."

Inquiry among other dealers developed the further fact that the market was steady and quieter during the past week than for some time previous. Nearly all the dealers had done well in the matter of small lots, but there was nothing big to report.

THE NORTH SHORE LINE.

The understanding that the Milwaukee & St. Paul Company had purchased the charter and the right of way of the Chicago & Evanston, or North Shore, Railroad, has operated to increase the price on property along the proposed line; but as most of it is held by large owners who are able to hold it for a better figure than could now be obtained no transactions occurred. For some reason the officers of the Milwaukee & St. Paul Road as well as Mr. Goudy are silent regarding the purchase of the road, and just how soon the construction of the line will be begun is not known. It is doubtful if the right of way into Evanston can be obtained along the lake shore, as the people of that suburb are not willing to have the beach marred by a railroad track.

THE UNITED STATES ROLLING-MILLS.

As far as can be learned from parties interested in land about South Chicago, the United States Rolling-Stock Company has not yet decided upon a location, notwithstanding the report to the contrary recently telegraphed from New York. The President of the company has not put in an appearance here, as yet, and no indication that he proposes to do so at an early day is apparent at this time. It looks very much as though nothing would be done in the matter before next spring, and even then it is not unlikely the company will decide to pick out a place not yet spoken of by the numerous guessers about the project. The latest report about the matter is that the company is to locate where the proposed Calumet Canal will join Lake Calumet, which is near the junction of Stony Island avenue. The canal, for the construction of which proposals have been advertised for, will begin at a point near the mouth of the Calumet River, and run in a southwesterly direction for two miles to the head of Calumet Lake. It will be fifty feet wide and sixteen feet deep, with the view of accommodating the largest vessels that sail the lakes. It is proposed to run it through the Calumet Company's property, which it is calculated will give it four miles of additional dockage. But the canal as yet is still on paper, and it may get no further.

THE SOUTH SHORE IMPROVEMENT COMPANY, which will erect the summer hotel on the beach below Hyde Park, has made progress during the past week, and the project seems to be assured. It is stated that the Illinois Central people have agreed to construct the required branch to the location selected for the hotel, and that the plans for the structure drawn by Cleveland & Gay will be adopted. The hotel, which has already been fully described in THE TRIBUNE, will be one of the most commodious and neatly constructed summer resort hostelries in the country. Mr. Alvin Hulbert will have the management of it. Work will probably be begun in the spring both on the hotel, the proposed iron pier, and the surrounding grounds, which the company owns.

THE LAKE-SHORE DRIVE.

No more striking evidences of improvement are noticeable anywhere in Chicago than along the north-shore drive. Less than a year ago nearly the entire west side of the drive was a veritable frog-pond that was not only unsightly but unhealthy. Today the greater portion of the pool is filled up with substantial earth, and a number of magnificent private residences are well under way. The result is that the property has rapidly advanced in value, and it is perhaps the most desirable residence location in Chicago. During the week a prominent dealer negotiated the sale of 120 feet near Division street at $125 per foot, and several other smaller lots fronting on the drive were disposed of at a good figure. The work of filling up the pond is being pushed rapidly, and within two years the drive will be lined by the most elegant and elaborate residences and grounds in the city. Property further north is also reported as looking up, a good inquiry for lots above Lincoln Park having sprung up within the past few days.

THE GARFIELD PURCHASE FALLS THROUGH.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago Messrs. E. S. Dryer & Co. offered Mr. D. A. Morgan, of New York, $80,000 cash for thirty-six acres near Garfield. During last week the gentlemen received a letter from Mr. Morgan declining the offer. The offer was made for a Chicago capitalist who intended to subdivide the property.

STOCK-YARDS IMPROVEMENTS.

The recent large improvements made by the Stock-Yards Company would seem to be sufficient to stop the story that the company proposed to move several miles further south; but the rumor is still afloat notwithstanding. It is stated for the benefit of those who care to know the truth on good authority that the company has no notion of changing its location.

Sales.

Layton, Thayer & Co. will conduct an auction sale of lots in Englewood Wednesday next at 3 p. m. on the ground.

Ira Brown sold a lot and cottage in Glencoe to Frank W. Green for $1,000; a cottage and two lots in La Grange to Capt. William Fallows for $1,650; and seventeen lots in Glencoe to various parties for $1,700.

B. R. DeYoung & Co. report having sold to James D. McAuley for F. Gaylord 84 feet on the southeast corner of Calumet avenue and Thirty-third street, west front, for $10,000, upon which he will build four residences 25 x125 feet.

It is said that the largest price ever realized for East Adams street property was paid last week. The property is fifty feet front and half a block deep, and lies on the south side of the thoroughfare named, between Franklin and Market streets, being the only vacant ground remaining along the street. The ground will be built upon right away, the new building to be of stone and iron and six tall stories high. The figure paid is not given.

D. W. Storrs reports the following sales: Nos. 41 and 43 West Washington street, 36x75 feet, and frame tenement house, through Gibbs & Calkins to W. Batcheler for $6,500 cash and taxes of 1882; also at Englewood, Normal parkway, 50x171 feet, and eight-room Gothic frame house, to E. S. McEwen for $3,100; Wentworth avenue, southwest corner Sixty-seventh street, 50x133 feet, to H. G. Brainard for $1,750; Lincoln avenue, near Sixty-seventh street, 50x133, and seven-room Eastlake cottage, to Robert D. Aitchison for $2,950; Lincoln avenue, near Sixty-seventh street, 34x133, and six-room cottage, to Ralph L. Price for $1,850; Sixty-seventh street, near Wentworth avenue, 50x126, and eight-room house, to Hiram P. Ludden for $2,900; Wentworth avenue, near Sixty-seventh street, 50x133, and large frame residence, to Eliza P. Keator for $5,500; Lincoln avenue, near Sixty-eighth street, 40x133 feet, to Gardner S. Farnham for $720.

Campbell Brothers report the following sales: Six stone-front houses on Leavitt street, near Polk, to James A. Miner, for $25,000 cash; stone-front dwelling at No. 102 De Kalb street to Helen A. Weaver, of New York, for $3,600; stone-front dwelling at No. 98 De Kalb street to Dr. A. W. Paine, for $3,600; dwelling at No. 96 De Kalb street to Hattie M. Paine, for $3,600; dwelling at No. 61 De Kalb street to Marshall K. Olds, of Mendota, for $3,600.

C. P. Dose reports the following sales: House and lot, No. 632 West Superior street, for $2,500; house and lot, No. 345 North Paulina street, for $3,800; lot on Chicago avenue, 300 feet west of Wood street, north front, 25x123, for $1,200; lot on Chicago avenue, west of Robey street, 24x125, for $800; two lots on Fulton street, corner of Parker place, near Central Park, 50x150, for $1,350; two lots, 50x125, south front, on Coulter street, 275 feet west of Western avenue, for $1,000; and two lots, 50x130 feet, on North Paulina street, east front, 75 feet south of Jane street, for $1,500.

The erection of large manufacturing establishments in the southwestern part of the city is being felt in the increased demand for building lots in that region. Owners are almost forced to subdivide and put their blocks into market. Messrs. Schuettler & Hotz, the manufacturers of the Schuettler wagons, have during the last week placed on record the subdivision of a ten-acre block fronting south on Twenty-sixth street, north on Coulter, east on Rockwell, and west on Washtenaw streets. The immediate vicinity of the great Malleable Iron Works, McCormick's Reaper Factory, and the W. W. Kimball Organ Factory will attract many mechanics to found homes on this subdivision. We notice that three lots on the northwest corner of Twenty-sixth and Rockwell streets have been sold at $2,500, and are informed that a large boarding-house will be erected thereon by the purchaser at once. Mr. Ernst Prussing, the well-known real-estate dealer, has the management of the property.

Among other notable sales reported during the week were the following:

Laflin av, 87½ ft s of Goethe st, e f, 22½x162½ ft, improved (A. and L. Todd to Sterne H. Harbeson), $12,000.

Wabash av, s of Twenty-sixth st, w f, 50x190 ft (Joseph Austrian to James Gore), $10,000.

Building.

There was unusual activity in building operations during the past week, the continued fine weather giving contractors an opportunity to rush their buildings to completion. The record also shows marked activity in the matter of permits for extensive improvements, a larger number having been issued than during any previous week for some months. Following are some of the more important permits issued:

Board of Education, three-story school-house, 122x79 feet, corner of Wendell and Wells streets, $55,000.

L. Z. Leiter, six one-story stores, 200x142 feet, on State and Van Buren streets, $12,000.

Henry Corwith, three-story store and dwelling, 25x85 feet, No. 522 West Madison street, $10,000.

Chicago West Division Street Railway Company, two-story car-house, 163x128 feet, on Park avenue, near Seymour street, $30,000.

Chicago West Division Street Railway Company, two-story stable, 162x114 feet, on Park avenue, $30,000.

W. S. Hall, two-story store and flats, 51x56 feet, Nos. 632 and 634 Van Buren street, $10,000.

William J. O'Brien, three-story dwelling, 25x 80 feet, No. 2763 Archer avenue, $10,000.

S. M. Kelly, three two-story dwellings, 50x60 feet, No. 2965 Groveland Parkway, $10,500.

Charles Matthias, two three-story stores and dwellings, 49½x60 feet, Nos. 465 and 467 North Clark street, $25,000.

Gus Knecht, two three-story dwellings, 48x58 feet, Nos. 60 and 62 Lincoln avenue, $14,000.

P. O'Donnell, two three-story stores and dwellings, 40x50 feet, on Van Buren street, near Leavitt street, $10,000.

P. Brown, two-story dwelling, 72x57 feet, No. 86 Nebraska street, $10,000.

A. H. Uphof, two three-story dwellings, 49x50 feet, Nos. 3542 and 3544 Wabash avenue, $12,000.

C. F. Gunther, six-story store, 25x100 feet, No. 260 State street, $18,000.

Barbara Titus, six three-story dwellings, 120x 60 feet, No. 489 West Van Buren street, $24,000.

L. W. Yaggy, six-story and basement apartment house, 65x65 feet, No. 148 Dearborn avenue, $80,000.

John Featherstone, three-story and basement machine shop, 111x72 feet, on Front and Halsted streets, $17,000.

D. Quill, four two-story stores and dwellings, 104x58 feet, on Van Buren street, near Aberdeen, $15,000.

Robert Law, six-story building, 99x150 feet, on Madison street, near Market, $105,000.

J. F. Davis, two-story and basement row of flats, 308x55 feet, on Bissell street, near Webster avenue, $65,000.

John Phibbin, three-story flats, 25x60 feet, No. 201 La Salle avenue, $10,000.

A. Pearson, three-story flats, 75x55 feet, on Van Buren street, near Hermitage, $18,000.

D. E. Shipman, two-story lead works, 100x50 feet, from No. 1510 to 1516 State street, $10,000.

Among the residences now in course of construction or for which permits have been issued on the North Shore drive are those for James Charnley, Secretary Robert Lincoln, Horace White, and A. Brooks.

Burke, Walk & Co.'s building on Adams street, between Fifth avenue and Franklin street, will receive a new story before cold weather sets in.

C. P. Thomas, architect, has the following work in progress: Flats at Ellis Park for Jesse T. Green, 22½x26½x94 feet, three stories and basement, costing $10,000; flats in same place for G. W. Hoffman, 24x35x76 feet, three stories and basement, to cost $12,000; flats for I. Sammons on Hamilton avenue, 50x55 feet, three stories and basement, to cost $14,000; flats for Dr. I. McCarthy on Centre avenue, 22½x65 feet, three stories, to cost $5,500; residence on northeast corner of La Salle avenue and Division street for F. G. Springer, to cost $16,000; flats for Mr. Ferris on southwest corner Astor and Scott streets, 22½x80 feet, four stories, to cost $15,000; residence at Kenwood for I. A. Atkinson, to cost $11,000.

The Farwell buildings on Market street and the river are rapidly approaching completion, and work on the new Chamber of Commerce is being rapidly pushed. These structures are now about the most important under way in the city.

The following building permits were issued yesterday: Anna M. Meath, two-story and basement school-house, 25½x40 feet, No. 79 Eighteenth street, to cost $2,300; Jacob Dernbach, four-story and basement store and dwelling, 25x82 feet, No. 397 West Chicago avenue, to cost $14,000; James Griffin, two-story addition, 25x80 feet, No. 3307 State street, to cost $3,000; John C. Schumacher, one-story and cellar cottage, 20x50 feet, No. 686 Twenty-second street, to cost $2,500.

Present Cheapness of Real Estate—A Field for Capital.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Ordinarily the value of real estate, or land more especially, is determined by the net income or rent which it affords, or which can reasonably be expected for a term of years. Thus 6 per cent being rather more than the average return of investments, it may be assumed that a piece of property in the city, where the quality of permanency of value is secured, which brings a net rent of $600 is worth $10,000. Governed by a general standard like this, let us see what the real status of unimproved land is at present in Chicago, and whether it brings anything like what the net income desired would warrant us in expecting. Suppose we take lots on North avenue, Milwaukee avenue, Van Buren street, Blue Island avenue, Archer avenue, and State street, in localities where it can still be bought at from $100 to $125 per foot, and a twenty-five-foot lot would cost $3,125 at the higher price. A building of brick three stories and basement, with stores underneath and flats above, would cost say $5,000, making the total $8,125. Reckoning the rent of the store at $600 and the flats at $300 each we have a rental of $1,200 for the whole. Deducting $100 for taxes and insurance we have $1,100 as net rent. Now, $1,100 on the basis of a 6 per cent investment represents an actual value of over $18,000, more than twice what the property cost, even including the building, and it follows that the rent value of the land only as based upon a 6 per cent net investment is $13,000, or $520 per front foot, or more than four times its present value. Now how many people are there who view real estate purchases in this light, and yet it is probably the only sound basis on which we can judge of its actual value. It makes no difference what the land may be selling for around it. It may be selling for one-half that price, and we call it the market value, but the actual value can be based only on actual returns of rent. Were we to take ordinary residence property at the same price and build only one house upon it, arranged only for one tenant, costing, say $4,500, the whole rent would, on the investment for land and house ($7,620), be only about $50 per month, or $600 per year, from which, if taxes and insurance ($100) be deducted, would leave $500 net, or 6½ per cent, which is just about a fair rate of return for such investments in the present state of the money market, and which is likely to keep easy rates for years to come, when the probability be considered that we can so conduct our foreign trade that we can manage to retain the precious metals we get from our mines, which will virtually inflate our currency to the extent of $75,000,000 per annum, and money will be constantly becoming the cheaper commodity in the market. No note is taken of central business property, where the price is already very high, or of first-class residence property, where abundant wealth enables one to gratify every whim or fancy one may have in regard to location, but the point to which it has been attempted to attract attention is this: that there is a very large class of property, mainly business, and now reckoned only as second or third rate, which sells today at only from one-quarter to one-half of its real value as reduced down to the standard of a 6 per cent investment, and, according to this standard, there is plenty of property selling now at from $100 to $125 per foot of which the actual value would range as high as from $200 to $500 upon the basis we have assumed. If these facts be so, is it not strange that moneyed men do not see the opportunity for profitable purchases, and that the trade in real estate seems to be lagging and simply confined to those who buy for occupation only? For one, the writer believes that a wonderful change will take place in values of property of the class mentioned within the very near future.

FIDUCIA.

Hyde Park Real Estate.

Dealers handling Hyde Park real estate report that the demand is good and that prices are stiffening; also that purchasers are feeling confident and that property is bought for building purposes, with little tendency to speculation. With the completion of the Wabash and Cottage Grove avenues cable-car system property in Oakland and vicinity will undoubtedly be in increased demand. The sewer on Forty-fifth street is nearing completion, and that on Woodlawn avenue is finished. A large number of streets are being graded and improved, and sidewalks are being laid down in various parts of the village. Work will be begun at an early date on the new Oakland school-house, the district having authorized the issue of bonds to the amount of $20,000. A lot 155½x125 has been purchased on the corner of St. Lawrence avenue and Forty-second street for the site at $40 per foot. The building is to be a two-story brick, with eight rooms. The present school accommodations at Oakland and in all parts of the village are inadequate, and school-houses, including one on State street and one at Grand Crossing, are being erected to meet the demands of the rapidly-increasing population. Fully 150 buildings for private dwellings, stores, and flats are in process of erection in various parts of Hyde Park, exclusive of Pullman.

The Village Board of Trustees will tomorrow take action upon the petition of the Citizens' Association of Grand Crossing, asking for a canal fifty feet wide and four deep to run from Grand Crossing to Calumet Lake for drainage purposes. Some little excitement has been aroused by a project to dig a ship-canal 110 feet wide and sixteen feet deep from Grand Crossing to Lake Michigan about a mile north of South Chicago harbor. The proposed route is on Eighty-third street from the lake to point about 300 feet east of South Chicago avenue, thence parallel to that street to Grand Crossing. This enterprise, if carried through, will throw open a large extent of territory hitherto undeveloped, and make Grand Crossing a most desirable point for manufacturing enterprises. The canal is to be built by private capital; a company with abundant capital is stated to be organizing, and a speedy beginning of the undertaking is promised.

The Calumet & Chicago Canal & Dock Company is also contemplating the construction of a canal fifty feet wide and sixteen feet deep from the west shore of the Calumet River, on or near Ninety-eighth street, to Stony Island avenue.

The South Shore Improvement Company are busy laying out streets, and are about to subdivide 100 acres of their purchase into half-acre lots, reserving thirty-five acres for hotel purposes. It is expected that the hotel and grounds, with a branch railroad, will be ready by June 1, 1883. A number of lots in the Westfall tract have changed hands at an increase in price. Two lots, fifty feet front, on Bond and Coles avenue, respectively brought $500 each. A half-acre lot on Bond avenue was sold for $1,000, and $750 each has been offered for fifteen lots in various parts of the tract. A fifty-foot lot on Walnut avenue was sold for $1,000, and two twenty-five-foot lots brought $500 each. A union depot will be built at One-hundred-and-eighth street by the Western Indiana and the "Nickel-Plate" Roads. South Chicago real estate is in demand, and over 100 buildings of various kinds are going up at that point. The outlook is exceedingly promising all over the town, and a large demand and fair prices may be expected during the year.

YACHTING.

The Farragut Boat Club.

Some time ago the Farragut Boat Club decided to have annual regattas during the summer, and the first one took place yesterday afternoon in the lake basin near the boat-house, which is at the foot of Twenty-fifth street. The weather was chilly and disagreeable, and a brisk wind from the northeast rendered the water outside choppy, so all of the races on the card were rowed in the basin. A number of the lady friends of club members were present on the balconies to witness the sport, and an orchestra furnished music. Mr. A. W. Sullivan was the umpire; Messrs. T. R. Jenkins, Albert Hayden, and George W. Cass the judges; and Messrs. W. R. Wiley, Frank Booth, and C. B. Hale the time-keepers, although they did not trouble themselves to take the time. All of those members who were to row were attired in their gay boating suits. It was 3 o'clock before the first race was started, and there were so many delays that it was after 6 o'clock before the races on the program were finished. In the single working boat contest the entries were W. T. Wood, Fred Billings, W. R. Wiley, and Mr. Hulbert. Mr. Wood won the three heats with ease. In the single shell race there were eight entries, but for some reason it was not rowed. C. L. Washburn and W. W. Somes won the race for double working boats against W. T. Wood and Mr. Hulbert. A canoe race was substituted for the senior double, and was won by A. D. Bevan. The following crews entered in the barge race: Kenneth Eddy crew—Messrs. McClellan, Booth, Billings, Wood, Anderson, Chapin, Joslin, and Porter; Carrie Pitcher crew—Van Schaack, Washburn, Staples, Calkins, Oakes, Chumasero, and Pitcher. The latter crew won the three heats. The crews in the pleasure-barges were as follows: Murison crew—Washburn, Ballard, McArthur, Chalmers, Chapin, and Booth; Ingram crew—Somes, Webster, Chumasero, McArthur, Cromb, and Scott. The latter crew were the victors, only one heat being rowed, and that wound up the regular program.

Subsequently a pleasant hour or two were spent in the house with the ladies. It is the intention of the club to give the regatta hereafter earlier in the season, when pleasant weather can be counted on. Considering the circumstances, the affair of yesterday was a success.

Yachts Going Out of Commission—Cruising Notes.

The Harry Burke and Ariel are still in the basin.

The club-house will be closed during the winter.

Land and Water makes an effective plea for "cruisers" instead of racing yachts.

The yacht Wayward, of New York, has been wrecked in a fog at Kittery Point, N. H.

The Viking will be in commission until Oct. 15. Col. Loomis expects to have some good yachting weather yet. Next season he talks of sending his boat East.

The yachting season is nearly over, and the yachts are gradually going out of commission. The Wasp, Cora, and Countess have already hauled down their colors for 1882.

The New York Herald of Sept. 21 has a good review of the yachting season and what it has taught yachtsmen. It concludes very sensibly that "American yachtsmen do not want the extra narrow cutter."

An ocean race between the large schooners for the Cape May challenge cup will be the final event of the yachting season East. A fair test of the new Montauk's sailing qualities can now be made and the result will be watched with interest.

The new cutter Wenonah was launched Thursday. Her dimensions are: 72 feet over all, 60 on water line, 14 feet beam, 10 feet 6 inches depth of hold, and 10 feet 6 inches draught. She is the largest cutter ever built in this country.

The Idler was at Cleveland when last heard from and is expected to return this week. Capt. Fisher has made the most of his boat this season, has kept her going pretty steadily, sailed two races, led the squadron on its cruise, and circumnavigated the lakes, and now has nothing more to do but try a season on salt water.

After a couple of unsuccessful attempts to capture the Anderson cup of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, a third trial on the 16th inst. resulted in the success of the sloop Oriole, beating the cutter Eileen, and taking the cup and the first club prize. The Eileen took the second, and the Cygnet third. The imported cutter Verve was badly beaten. The Oriole is well known in Chicago.

What is needed to stimulate an interest in yachting matters here is not only more yachts but contests of a different character from the usual regattas. If the Canadian boats could be induced to come here, races with them would excite general enthusiasm and have a quasi-international character. If the strangers were to win it would stimulate our yachtsmen to buying or building better boats. If they lost it would lead to further matches. Certain it is that something will have to be done to make yachting on the lakes what it should be or the time will come when all the large boats of the Chicago Yacht Club will be flying their colors on salt water during the season instead of here at the home port. The Yacht Club has had a prosperous season, and has had abundant notoriety, yet we do not hear authoritatively of a single new boat likely to be added to the fleet next year, while one or two may go out of it.

The Countess arrived Friday morning early and went out of commission at 4 in the afternoon. She has been temporarily patched up since the collision, but will require considerable overhauling before she is in condition to sail again. In fact, a new hull around her joiner-work is the best thing for her. Her recent mishap appears to have been due to a miscalculation on the part of the steersman of the Cuba of the relative speed of the two vessels. He supposed the Countess would clear them, and so kept on his course, striking her on the quarter. Her lights were all right, and the sailing vessel undoubtedly had the right of way. Had the Countess put about, as the Cuba says should have been done if she wanted assistance, she would have filled and sunk in five minutes. Her only safety was to keep on her course. She flashed lights and called for help, but the steamer paid no attention. Ballast was then thrown overboard and canvas stuffed into the hole and the Countess taken into the nearest harbor, where she was patched up enough to be brought home. Mr. Borden and Mr. Rhodes were the only persons on board besides the crew.

Matrimonial Events.

Miss Sarah Jardine was married to Mr. Charles Vollmer Wednesday evening, Sept. 13, at No. 461 Hubbard street, the Rev. E. F. Emrich officiating. The bride was dressed in a very becoming robe of terra-cotta satin with a panel overdress of brocade, and wore natural flowers. The bridesmaid, Miss Mattie Jardine, wore bronze green satin. Mr. George Vollmer, of Kenosha, Wis., was groomsman. After the marriage ceremony was performed an elegant supper was served, after which, with music and dancing, the wedding festivities were kept up until an early hour in the morning.

A very quiet but pleasant wedding took place at St. Patrick's Church Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, the contracting parties being Mr. Charles J. McNellis and Miss Anna T. Weldon. The Very-Rev. Dean Terry, assisted by the Rev. T. Burke, performed the ceremony. After breakfast Mr. and Mrs. McNellis departed for an extended trip East.

A quiet wedding occurred at No. 301 Irving avenue last Thursday evening, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Father Cashman, and the interested parties being Mr. James Hall and Miss Eloise Gibbons. The attendance was limited, but the presents were numerous and elegant. The happy pair left for a two-weeks' trip to the East the same evening.

Married, at the bride's residence, No. 216 West Monroe street, Walter Gleason to Miss Lillie Alexander, by the Rev. Dr. Thomas. Presents were received from relatives and friend. Among the presents were a set of diamond earrings and a diamond ring.

The marriage ceremony of Mr. Peter Carr and Miss Annie Bessie, both of South Chicago, was celebrated Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride on South Chicago avenue, near Ninety-second street, the Rev. George Bird, of the Congregational church, officiating. A large number of the friends of the contracting parties were present at the ceremony, after which a supper was served at the South Chicago Hotel. The couple departed on the evening train for Madison, Wis., where they will visit friends, after which they will take up their residence in South Chicago.

Mr. Charles P. Leigh, of Carleton, Neb., and Miss Belle Thompson, daughter of Mrs. O. H. Thompson, of this city, were married Wednesday evening, at 7 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's brother, James H. Thompson, Esq., No. 2958 Prairie avenue. The Rev. Charles Marshall, rector of Trinity Chapel, Denver, performed the wedding service.

Miss Mary A. Kirkman and Mr. Lewis H. Conor were quietly married Thursday evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Austin, the Rev. Luther Pardee officiating.

Married at the residence of the bride's parents, in Grand Haven, Mich., at high noon, Sept. 20, 1882, by the Rev. A. S. Kedzie, Mr. Joseph F. Hixson, of Van Ettenville, N. Y., and Miss Mary A. Kedzie.

The marriage of Miss Jennie Huffaker, daughter of Mrs. Eva McHugh, of Chicago, and Mr. Stanley Charles, of Lake Curtis, Fla., was solemnized at St. Mark's Hotel, Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 21, at high noon, according to the beautiful ceremony of the Episcopal Church, the Rev. Mr. Knight, rector of Lake Eustis Episcopal Church, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Charles will be at home to their many friends, both North and South, in their charming Southern home, among the orange groves of Florida, after Oct. 1, 1882.

Wednesday, Sept. 20 Mr. Daniel E. Demeritt was married to Miss Alice M. Branscom, both of this city. The ceremony was performed at St. Paul's Church at 8 p. m., the Rev. Sumner Ellis officiating, in the presence of the following invited guests: Mr. A. S. Teater and Miss Maggie Maroney, in attendance on the groom and bride: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Branscom, parents of the bride: Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Fritsch, Mrs. J. Demeritt, Mrs. Talbott, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. J. North, the Misses North, Mr. Lyons, Mr. H. W. Hine, the Misses Jones, Mrs. Monsch, Miss Mary Maroney, Miss Waugh, Miss Harris. After the ceremony a pleasant reception was held at the home of Mrs. H. G. Fritsch, 1214 Wabash avenue, where refreshments and dancing contributed to the enjoyment of the evening. The presents were numerous and elegant, and the best wishes accompany the happy couple on their journey through life.

Mr. L. Andrus, of Grand Detour, Ill., and Miss L. M. Alexander, of Dixon, Ill., will be married at the residence of the bride's parents, in Dixon, Ill., Wednesday, Oct. 4.

Miss Alice Klein and Mr. Leopold Hirsch have announced their engagement.

Social Happenings.

Tuesday afternoon a number of members of The Irving, a literary club composed of some of the most cultivated people on the West Side, went to Pullman. An enjoyable afternoon was spent, after which the tired but delighted party sat down to supper. A business meeting was held at the close of the supper, which resulted in the election of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. A. Sprague and the Rev. Dr. Kittredge as new members of the club. There were present the Rev. Prof. Fisk, Prof. and Mrs. Belfield, Mr. and Mrs. William Carpenter, Mrs. Judge Polley, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Camp, Judge and Mrs. M. B. Loomis, Mrs. L. D. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. George Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Bradley, Col. and Mrs. A. N. Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Woodard, Miss Woodard, Mrs. H. M. Lyman, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cook.

Miss Jessie Couthoui, the talented young reader, will give a reading Thursday evening at Tillotson Hall, Englewood, prior to her departure on her regular tour of reading engagements.

The Wicker Park Club have elected the following officers for the ensuing term: President, Dr. A. G. Haerther; Vice-President, Maurice O'Connor; Treasurer, F. C. Haerther; Secretary, E. Foster Roberts; Manager, Preston Large. The club will give a series of parties during the winter, and many friends wish them success.

A party was given in honor of the eighteenth birthday of Miss Effie Bools Wednesday, Sept. 20, at her residence, No. 468 West Huron street. The evening was passed in a very pleasant manner, music and singing being the feature of the evening. Her presents were valuable and numerous.

The opening of Mrs. Mary Durlacher's outfit parlors, 56 South Ada street, was a complete success, lady visitors from all parts of the city pronouncing the outfits exhibited, especially the infants' robes, ladies' dress and breakfast caps, and lace waists, the most unique in style and delicate in construction ever shown in this city. A set of infant's apparel was greatly admired, a night-robe beautifully draped with lace facings, formed as a wrapper, were among the more noticeable articles, while lace waists and tastefully formed dress caps in exquisite variety lent a satisfactory finish to the exhibition. Mrs. Durlacher certainly has the talent, and deserves to lead in her particular line in Chicago.

It is one of the oldest of fashions—this of napery. The early Italian tables were served with such beautiful lace-worked napkins that we cannot equal them today. Queen Elizabeth's napkins were edged with lace made in Flanders, and were an important expense in her day-book.

BOARDING HORSES.

The Yearly Cost of Supporting an Animal at Home and in a Stable.

A very extensive and supposed to be very profitable business in Chicago is that of boarding horses. There are 135 livery and sale stables in the city, at all of which private horses are taken care of, and there are half a dozen more where boarding is done exclusively. How many horses in all are thus provided for it is impossible to tell, but between 7,000 and 8,000 is believed to be a fair estimate. Their keep in a year costs not far from $2,000,000—quite a large sum to expend for the pleasure of riding around town or on the boulevards, as about all the animals are used for that purpose. Thousands of men who live in the suburbs drive into town every day and put up their nags at a livery for dinner, but such horses are not included in the estimate.

In view of the recent fall in the price of oats, corn, etc., one would suppose that the board would come down, but there seems to be no disposition on the part of liverymen to lower the rates. They claim that there is no money in the present tariff, since while feed is cheaper rents and labor are higher. Two years ago it was possible to board a horse in a first-class stable for $16 and $18 a month, but the tariff was advanced to $20 and $25 in 1881, and this year according to the accommodations furnished. This applies to stables bounded by the river, Chicago avenue, and Twelfth street. Outside, where the rents are lower, especially in the suburbs, board can yet be obtained for $16 and $18, but it isn't the kind that a trotter would submit to if he had a voice in the matter. The general price down-town is $25 to $30 in ordinary stables, though good board can be had at a few stables for $22.50, which, as in the other case, includes caring for the buggy and harness. A reduction of only $3 is made for a riding horse. Where the animals are fast, or the owner is fastidious and has plenty of money and wants extra care taken of his trotter, he pays $30 or $35 for a box stall so that his horse will have plenty of room and be more comfortable than the slow-paced nags. The average price paid, however, is $25 a month, so the item of board is $300 a year. In addition it costs about $25 for shoeing and say $5 for medicines to cure sickness or lameness, to which all the animals are liable. These make the total cost of a driving horse $330 a year, and of a saddle horse a little less than $300. It would seem that the owner could and he can if he owns a barn and has a man to do general work at his residence, but otherwise he cannot. The item of feed is a small one—only $10 or $15 a month. To hire a man specially, however, to groom and look after the horse, requires an outlay of $30 more, and, if a barn has to be rented, $6 to $8 must be added. According to these figures the cost is $70 or over twice as much. Hence, boarding is preferred by all except those who are very wealthy.

IT RANGES FROM $20 TO $35,

BOARD HIS HORSE MUCH CHEAPER HIMSELF,

The business is steadily increasing every year, and liverymen are anxious to take horses to board, notwithstanding they claim that the profit is little or nothing. "We take them," said one, "because we have some vacant stalls, and they help to pay expenses." "We lost money this summer on boarders," said another, "but we keep them because they help out and bring livery business."

The reporter talked with half a dozen liverymen on the subject of a reduction, but they were all of one opinion—that none would be made; so horseowners who are calculating on as much pleasure as usual for less money will be disappointed.

PROF. D. L. WENTWORTH.

For The Chicago Tribune.

A friend of olden times comes to thy bier,
And, lingering where thy ashes lie,
Amid the throng would drop a sorrowing tear
That thus has closed thy mortal destiny.

We voice the many when 'tis said:
"A crown has fallen in the dust;
A sceptre keen as knighted blade
Henceforth must lie a prey to rust."

O sculptor, who could cut from roughest stones,
Or polish diamonds for their setting fine,
Thou hadst some secret all thine own
Wherein thou didst all law combine.

O cunning power, that knew so well
The art to guide the trembling hand,
Or lead the groper through the darkest dell
To light within the Wonderland.

O who among the many youth,
Or those to ripened manhood grown,
Who crowd our halls of Grace and Truth,
Wear not some laurel by thee strewn?

Where art thou now, O star divinely bright
That erst did shine with light so clear?
Upon what planet does thy light
Shine with its superadded fullness here?

Where will the magic of thy master hand
Be set to use within that glistening sphere?
Thou'st given thy earthly lore to understand
The knowledge that doth there appear.

But thou wilt learn in yonder sphere
A wisdom far exceeding earthly ken;
For what to us seems wondrous wisdom here
Is nothing but the vague-like dream of men.

Ah, well! to die is but to go
Over the threshold green to boundless light,
To all Heaven holds for us to know
Beyond these realms of endless night.

Though from that kindly heart and busy brain
That effervescent substance we call life
Has gone, 'twill be relit in worlds again
Beyond the bounds of time and strife.
